

Mrs. Laura L. Barnes, Washington, D. C., Ladies Auxiliary to Bernside Post, No. 4, G. A. R., recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"In diseases that come to women only, as a rule, the doctor is called in, sometimes several doctors, but still matters go from bad to worse; but I have never known of a case of female weakness which was not helped when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was used faithfully. For young women who are subject to headaches, backache, irregular or painful periods, and nervous attacks due to the severe strain on the system by some organic trouble, and for women of advanced years in the most trying time of life, it serves to correct every trouble and restore a healthy action of all organs of the body."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a household reliance in my home, and I would not be without it. In all my experience with this medicine, which covers years, I have found nothing to equal it and always recommend it."—Mrs. LAURA L. BARNES, 507 Second St., N. E., Washington, D. C.—$2.00 for the original of above letter printed on request be produced.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women.

LIFE ON THE RAIL

LOCAL RAILROAD MAN DESCRIBES ITS CHARM.

New Faces, New Places, New Scenes Keep Down Monotony—Compares it to the Farmer's Daily Chores.

"There's a charm about railroad life," said an O. R. & N. conductor at the St. George today, "that binds men to it, no matter how hard they strive to quit it. I don't enjoy working at night, when I should be at home asleep, but if I should quit today, what could I do?"

"I am not familiar with any other business; my whole life is wrapped up in my work and if I were financially able to embark in business for myself, it is doubtful if I could be content. When I lay off for a week to rest and enjoy life at home, I get lonesome. It seems that something is going wrong if the call boy don't wake me up about 2 o'clock in the morning, with his cheerful knock on the front door. It is second nature to work at night now and I don't mind it."

Familiarity with Different Places.
"One of the most enjoyable facts connected with the life of a railroad man is that he becomes familiar with different places, persons and sights. On the run between Pendleton and Portland, a man passes from one great country to another. In that 230 miles a person enjoys a change of scene and surrounding that is actually refreshing. Of course, it becomes tiresome. All work is monotonous to a certain degree. But we see a different set of faces before us each trip. New personalities constantly come to light. Peculiar incidents and happenings enliven every trip. We find a new and strange crowd in every car. Passengers of vastly different types pass before us every day. We see the world in a nutshell, and have a thousand laughable and enlivening incidents to break the monotony."

"Each trip to us is like a farmer going his rounds on the farm. He feeds the pigs, horses, cows and chickens; saws a few sticks of wood, if he happens to be in the right mind; drives a stray hog away from the feed yard and stops to talk over the fence with every man who passes. We punch tickets, give information to a dozen eager women and children, keep track of train orders, remember where our passengers get off at, and do the same thing over and over again, day after day.
"Yes, it is charming. But I would like to trade jobs with some farmer who sleeps every night."

ON THE OVERLAND TRAIL.

Here's a song for the days, the heroic old days
When the West tried the mettle of resolute men.

Ere the sun of progression had melted the haze
Of the mystery hiding the land from our ken.

Here's a song for the heroes the "cusses" so tough,
Who popped their great whips when the schooners set sail
And sang their wild songs as their pipes they would puff
While pounding along on the Overland trail.

Not a snap of their calloused old fingers cared they
For the dangers awaiting them out on the plains
As they yelled at their bulls and went rolling away
In the alkali dust of the slow-moving trains.

Away through the billows of flickering heat,
Upheld by a courage that never could fail
With a sneer for the perils they knew they would meet
While pounding along on the Overland trail.

The signal from scouts who were sleuthing ahead;
The parking of wagons with panicleless haste;
The wild savage yells that would waken the dead;
The Indian sally defiantly faced.

The battle, the flight of the reds in defeat;
Some graves over which the coyotes would wail;
And on moved the train through the shimmering heat
That quivered and danced on the Overland trail.

Where now are the heroes who swung the great whips
That popped o'er the backs of the laboring bulls,
Who chose not the language that rolled from their lips
When the wheels furrowed sand in the hardest of pulls?

But few yet are dodging the Reaper's keen blade,
Yet totter down life's ever-narrowing vale—
Yet linger and dream of the parts that they played
While pounding along on the Overland trail.

Here's a song for the lively old days that are gone.
Are now but a blur on memory's page.

When the fastest of freight was by bull power drawn
And the fastest express was the lumbering stage.
The tourist who now in rare luxury rolls
In palace car over the glittering rail
Gives never a thought to the valiant old souls,
Who pounded along on the Overland trail.
