LEWIS-CLARK FAIR

O. L. MILLER, OF BAKER CITY, IS JUBILANT.

Says it Will Be the Best Fair Ever Held on Pacific Coast—Irrigation the Leading Subject in Eastern Oregon.

O. L. Miller, of Baker City, member of the board of directors of the Lewis and Clark exposition, has a number of interesting things to say concerning the fair, and also of the country east of the mountains.

In speaking of the proposed exposition, Mr. Miller said:

Greatest Fair Yet.

"It is my opinion that this will be the greatest fair of the sort ever held on the Pacific Coast, and efforts will be put forth to make it equal to any exposition ever held in the country. This fair will be a great thing for the West. It will bring such vast crowds here from the East as were never seen here before, and of course not only Oregon, but California, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Utah will all reap great benefits from it, though the probability is that Oregon will reap the greatest reward.

Large Crowds Expected.

"Of course, transportation will be greatly reduced from all points East, during the fair, and lower rates will enable thousands, yes, hundreds of thousands of our countrymen to visit the Pacific Coast, who never would visit it otherwise. This is going to be a first-class fair in every respect, and it will be worth millions of dollars to Oregon and her sister states.

Irrigation.

Mr. Miller was not inclined to speak further upon the exposition question, and the matter of irrigation in Eastern Oregon was brought up. This was a question he was very much interested in and he said:

"Lack of proper irrigation facilities has been the greatest drawback—in fact the only real drawback—that Eastern Oregon has ever known. We have 100,000 acres of land in Baker county subject to irrigation, and when this land is properly watered it will be as good land as can be found anywhere in the state, and worth from $75 to $100 per acre.

Eastern Oregon Jubilant.

"The citizens of Eastern Oregon are jubilant at the prospect of the government taking hold of the matter of irrigation, and we expect a corps of engineers in there next spring to investigate and report upon their findings. There will not be artesian wells to furnish water for irrigation, as some people seem to believe, but water will probably be stored in immense reservoirs. There is water enough wasted in Baker county every year during the months of April, May and June to water twice the amount of arid land we have in our county. This water will be stored, as I have said, in reservoirs for use during the summer months."

ANKENY AND THE ENGINEER.

The Noted Walla Walla Politician Finds Many Amusing Situations.

The democratic habits and manner of Levi Ankeny, the Walla Walla millionaire banker, farmer and candidate for the United States senate, enable him to escape much of the notoriety that is always one of the penalties of greatness. He generally travels "incog," and his modest and unassuming manner never discloses his identity as a man famous all over the Pacific Northwest.

This characteristic resulted in an amusing incident up in Whitman county last summer. Mr. Ankeny is a great hunter, and annually spends considerable time with dog and gun. Last August, when wheat and prairie chickens were ready for harvest, he started across the country in quest of game, says a correspondent of the Oregonian.

He owns a number of farms up in Whitman county, and in the course of his trip wandered across one of them where threshing was in progress. The foreman was absent at the time, and the rest of the threshing crew were unacquainted with the wandering sportsman. Mr. Ankeny strolled over to the engineer and noticed that while he had a straw-burner engine, he was feeding the flames with a choice article of 60-cent bluestem wheat.

"Is this not something unusual to burn wheat?" inquired the millionaire.

"Well," said the engineer, "it is not customary, but it makes a darn sight hotter fire than straw, and it is not half as much work to feed her."

"But," responded Mr. Ankeny, "what does the man who owns the wheat think about it?"
"Oh to hell with him," said the engineer; "he's a rich old duffer down at Walla Walla, that's got both wheat and money to burn."

Mr. Ankeny arose to the humor of the occasion and did not disclose his identity, but when the foreman afterwards informed the engineer who his interrogator was, the man at the throttle pondered quite seriously on the possibilities for danger that lurk in conversations with strangers.

Real Estate Transfers.

A. A. High and wife to the Grays Harbor Commercial Company, two lots in block 189, reservation addition to Pendleton. Consideration, $175.
Isaac T. Buroker to Roy E. Records 120 acres of land in township 6, north of range 35. Consideration $3200.

We feel a pardonable pride in pointing to Pendleton's popular purchasing place, where popular prices prevail on pretty polished parlor pieces and a pleasing price proclamation puts plenty of these peaches and plums in reach of poor peoples' pockets. Why pay higher prices for poorer Xmas gifts purchased at other places? At Rader's, of course.

Revival Services.

Revival services are now in progress at the M. E. church, South, corner Web and Aura streets. Services begin promptly at 7:30 p. m. every night this week, and will probably continue through the holidays. Rev. Crooks, of Illinois, who is to assist the pastor, arrived yesterday. Rev. Crooks is reputed to be a very successful revivalist, and his labors in the past have been crowned with great success. The members of the various churches of the city are cordially invited to attend and assist in the meetings. Everybody invited.

Hoodoo! Who Do?

"Some people I know," he began in an insinuating tone, "act very much like a hoodoo."
"Who do?" asked his indignant and suspicious friend.
"Yes, that's what I said, hoodoo."
"Well, answer my question—who do?"
"You stupendous ass, that's what I said—Hoodoo! hoodoo! hoodoo!"
"You hopeless, gibbering idiot, that's what I'm asking you. Who do? Who do? Who do?"
At last their friends found them locked in deadly embrace, chewing each other's ears, and long before the attempt at explanation was contemplated each had been placed tenderly in a heavenly padded apartment—Los Angeles Herald.

"A Plea for Shylock" is a plea for justice, and should interest all lovers of justice between man and man. The lecture will be given at the parish house, Church of the Redeemer, Thursday evening. A literary treat by a scholarly and popular lecturer.

The 8000 employees in the shops of the Pullman Palace Car Company are preparing to take a stand in support of a demand for shorter hours and no Sunday work. Foremen in all the shops have been notified that individually the men would not report for Sunday work hereafter.
