

A Christmas Gift

That means much toward the future of young ladies and young gentlemen

Give them a Scholarship in the Pendleton Business College

Could anything be more sensible than a thorough business course? The Pendleton Business College has strictly practical Commercial, Shorthand and Typewriting Departments.

The Shorthand and Typewriting Department

Is under the principalship of Miss Mary Wood, one of the most rapid stenographers in the United States, and the classes have been increasing so rapidly that the Pendleton Business College has been compelled to engage an assistant instructor, and Miss Della Privett, one of the pupils of Miss Wood, has been installed. The Typewriting Department has grown to such an extent that additional typewriting machines have become necessary.

A Christmas Dilemma

Santa Claus would find himself in a bit of a breakdown on "the night before Christmas." Others would be just as disappointed if their carriage or wagon should break down on the road, unless they had a first class repairing shop to bring it to, such as you will find Neagle Bros. always to be. We repair a vehicle and put it in first class order equal to new at a reasonable price.

OREGON PIONEERS

ANNUAL MEETING OF HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Five Survivors of Oregon's Constitutional Convention Present—Nine Delegates Out of 60 to That Historic Meeting Yet Alive.

Youth and age distinguished the annual meeting of the Oregon Historical Society Saturday. It was a notable gathering. Many well-known citizens were present, some of them founders of Oregon, men and women who have been active all their lives in the progress of the state. Their faces beamed beneath the silver of many winters, on the younger generation that was coming into its inheritance. The addresses stirred a depth of feeling, sometimes happy, sometimes sad.

"The men and women of Oregon's formative period were staid and practical and serious minded," remarked somebody after the meeting, "but they were not without tender sentiment," says the Sunday Oregonian.

Discussion clustered around the Constitutional Convention of 1857. The framers of that instrument were glorified as men in whose veins flowed firm purpose, high-mindedness and enduring capacity. "There were giants in those days, the salt of all the earth," one person remarked. The best brains of Oregon were contained in the convention. Nine delegates out of 60 survive. Five of whom were present. Stirring scenes of early days passed in review before the audience. Patriotic zeal and hope and purpose were evidenced. Five witnesses were there to testify to a past grown dreamy, strange and mystical it seemed, ennobling and fresh in contrast with the dry and prosy record of the pen.

Memories of Past Revived. The men who had come down from a former generation spoke entertainingly. The memories of Deady, Fred Waymire, Delazon Smith, Tom Dryer, Shattuck, Olney, Reed, Logan Kelso, Farney were revived. John R. McBride, H. V. Short, W. A. Starkweather, R. P. Bulue and George H. Williams were there in person. L. F. Grover, James K. Kelly and William H. Packwood sent regrets for inability to attend. H. B. Nichols, the ninth surviving delegate, did not come down from his home in Benton county.

Among other well known persons in the audience were: Governor Geer of Salem; Judge W. D. Hare, of Hillsboro; Judge George H. Burnett of Salem; G. L. Rowland, of North Yamhill; William Merchant, of Carlton; E. O. Potter, of Eugene; Rev. W. G. Elliot, of Salem; Mrs. Eva Emery Dye, of Oregon City; Professor H. L. Hara, of Forest Grove; J. R. Robertson of Portland; George T. Prather, of Hood River; John M. Lezer, of Pendleton; ex-Governor Z. F. Moody, of The Dalles; F. G. Young, of Eugene, and many Portland people.

New Officers Elected. New officers of the society were elected as follows: President—C. B. Bellinger, of Portland. Vice-President—W. D. Fenton, of Portland. Secretary—F. G. Young, of Eugene. Treasurer—Charles E. Ladd, of Portland. Directors to serve four years—Jas. R. Robertson, J. R. Wilson.

The board of directors now consists of: The governor of Oregon, the superintendent of Public Instruction, Mrs. Harriet K. McArthur, Mrs. Maria L. Myrick, W. D. Fenton, J. R. Robertson and J. R. Wilson.

OREGON'S WONDERFUL WOODS.

A Waste of the Highest Priced Timber Goes Constantly On. M. C. Van Tyne, who has one of the finest collections of Oregon woods in existence, has just received from his home in Eugene, a number of samples showing the beautiful finish of some of our most common woods, says the Astoria Budget.

Among the pieces of particular interest is curly maple and the Coos Bay myrtle, the latter being a very fine wood for furniture manufacture, and can be found in great abundance at Coos Bay.

To illustrate the importance of this wonderful timber, a San Francisco firm is now operating a saw mill at Myrtle Point and will soon commence operations. The firm is paying $60 per ton for myrtle stumps, all of which is used for veneer work. Another illustration of the value of some of our timber resources comes from the city of Eugene, where curly maple is being sold by the wagon load at $2.50 for fuel purposes when, as a matter of fact, the same wood converted into lumber, will readily sell in the city of Grand Rapids Mich., for at least $250 to $300 per 100 feet.

ALBA NOTES.

Weather Clear and Cold—Mr. Shipp Moves to Ukiah—Mr. Stocker Takes His Horses to Juniper.

Alba, Dec. 22.—The weather is clear and cold. Shipping is good with about an acre of snow.

Will McLaughlin is hauling logs to the sawmill under contract from Van Brock & Smith.

The stage company has built a depot at Corney's Cabin, where passengers are exchanged from the coach to the stage.

Miss Mary Whitaker is visiting here, the guest of Miss Blanch Quant. Harvey Taylor has purchased Jim Shipp's used farm and has moved to that place. Mr. Shipp will move to Ukiah and go into business there.

Walter Kincaid and his mother will move to Pendleton after the holidays. They will reside there all winter.

J. E. Stocker drove 85 head of horses to the Juniper country last week to winter quarters. His son Carl will attend to the animals during the winter.

Earl Baumgartner has returned from a visit with his friends in Pendleton.

Boy Council is sending 100 head of stock and is a very busy young man.

The school here under the management of Professor Quant has a large attendance and teacher and pupils are getting along nicely.
