BETTER FISHING

WARDEN MAKES SOME TIMELY RECOMMENDATIONS.

Says the Sunday Law is Inoperative Because Washington Has Not Also Passed One to Correspond—Shipment of Frozen Salmon.

Master Fish Warden H. G. Van Dusen, in his annual report, makes a recommendation regarding the laws regulating the salmon fisheries, which has not been touched upon to any extent. It is his idea, after a close study of the situation, that it would be better to do away with the closed season as it now exists on the Columbia River and in place of this have certain streams where the salmon spawn closed for all time.

Want No Closed Season.

His suggestion on this point, which will be of particular interest to all fishermen, and, in fact, to the people of the state, is as follows:

"In the early days of the fisheries it seemed to be essential that the harvesting of the salmon product should be limited to certain seasons; and certain other seasons were established and defined as closed seasons, during which time the parent fish were to be allowed an opportunity to get by the fisher and ascend the streams to their natural spawning grounds for the purpose of replenishing and maintaining the supply; then, and even up to the present time, it seemed almost essential that these closed seasons should be maintained, but since it has proved that the hatchery work is sure to take care of the product in a more substantial manner and at a trifling expense, it seems that these close seasons, espe-

THE EVENING OF LIFE

Declining years—the time when one is on the other side of the hill, call for constant care in the matter of nutrition. Life then depends so much on the body's power to repair loss and waste. This power grows less and less. The ability to shake off local disorders and to draw heavily on the body's reserve force are privileges that youth alone can claim.

With age comes slow movement, slower operation of the whole body's forces. Trifles become burdens and we live in the past. Ordinary food no longer nourishes. Poor teeth, perhaps, and improper mastication give the stomach work that it is not supposed to do—the digestion is taxed and even injured when it should be troubled least.

Many elderly persons get strength and nourishment from Scott's Emulsion. It slips into the blood so quickly that the stomach is not aware of its presence. Not only does Scott's Emulsion furnish nourishment itself, but it helps to digest other food. It aids in the proper distribution of food benefits—simplifies the stomach's work.

Moreover, the lime and soda contained in Scott's Emulsion in the form of hypophosphites nourish the bones and reduce the acid in the blood which feeds rheumatism.

Then, too, the body must have fat, for fat is heat and heat is life. Cod liver oil as we find it in Scott's Emulsion is the most easily digested of all fats.

Scott's Emulsion always helps when vitality is at a low ebb.

cially the Columbia river close season, might just as well be done away with, and that in place of them fishing be stopped entirely on all salmon-breeding tributaries set aside and designated as 'spawning streams.'

Sunday Law Inoperative.

"Then when once the salmon entered one of these spawning streams it could be let alone and molested no further excepting possibly by the angler with rod and line; it also seems clear that a March and April salmon is not going to replenish the May and June runs and that if any close season is needed it would be far better to distribute the salmon as much as possible, like what might be done under the Sunday law. We have a Sunday law on our statute books now, but it is inoperative on the Columbia because Washington failed to pass a like law and make it concurrent; but even this restriction does not appear to be necessary if the salmon are left alone after entering their 'spawning streams.'

"As matters are today, under the new order of things, the main thing that now seems to be essential in order to keep up this food product is, that all of the tributary streams that are known to be natural spawning streams and that no fishing whatever be allowed on those streams excepting with hook and line, commonly called angling, and by so doing assure the hatcheries always a good supply of the parent fish; for on the hatcheries the future supply is sure to depend."

To Ship Frozen Salmon.

Mr. Van Dusen also makes a suggestion to the effect that he believes salmon can be frozen here, taken by quick express to the Atlantic coast and there resuscitated. He says:

"In late years I have visited the lakes in winter by the permission of the fish commissioner to obtain fish for experimenting in freezing and resuscitating to full life after several days' holding, for fish, cold bloods as they are, can be frozen solid and thawed back to life if not exposed to the sun or allowed to get colder than 12 degrees below the freezing point. If exposed to a temperature of zero or below they will not revive as the faint pulsation of life then ceases.

"I have scarcely a doubt but a salmon from the Pacific coast could be frozen and transported to the Atlantic and resuscitated to life under proper conditions."

FRUITGROWERS TO MEET.

The Inland Empire Association to Hold a Four-days' Session in Walla Walla.

Walla Walla, Dec. 29.—A week from today the Inland Empire Horticultural and Floricultural Association will meet in Spokane for a four-days' session, and a number of prominent fruitgrowers are arranging to attend from this section. Frank B. Morse, fruit inspector; Dr. N. G. Blalock, the pioneer fruitgrower of Walla Walla; W. S. Offner, J. H. Thonney, E. H. O'Malley, and others will represent this section. Originally the association attempted to gather the fruitgrowers of the northern part of Washington and Idaho into one body for mutual help, but now an effort is being made to secure the co-operation of the men in this section who produce the larger part of the fruit and vegetables shipped from Eastern Washington.

ing, with Andrew Robson in the title role, and the other 31 members of the supporting company claimed by the Robinson management to be one of the most capable dramatic organizations sent out from New York this season; and it is but fair to add that the claim seems to have been made good, if the judgment of the critics and public, as evidenced by the notices star and production have received in all the cities visited thus far, is to be relied upon.
