MAKE LARGE PROFITS.

Hood River Fruit is at a Premium—The Valley is, Therefore, Very Prosperous.

Hood River, Ore., Dec. 30.—Hood River valley is booming as a result of good fruit crops and good prices. Many new orchards are being set out in winter apples, and a great many acres of hitherto unused land are being cleared for future use.

The price of land has gone away up as a result of the large profits appraisers and strawberry growers have made within the past five years. Even raw, wild land is valued as high as $100 an acre in some instances. This looks pretty high, but when a man can clear from $250 to $500 an acre every year, it isn't so high after all.

Hood River apples have netted the grower $1.50 a box at the station this year, and this price is too high for Portlanders to pay, so our apples are shipped mostly to New York and other centers of the East.

It is rather early to make predictions about next year's crop yet, but indications so far are good for a repetition of the prosperous season of 1902, both as regards apples and strawberries.

FRUIT NOT THREATENED.

Gradual Approach of Winter Hardened the Trees and Will Save Them.

"No matter what the weather may do now, the immense fruit industry of Oregon is safe," is the expert opinion of E. L. Smith, chairman of the state board of horticulture, given to the Oregon Daily Journal. Mr. Smith is a resident of Hood River, and is well known throughout the entire Pacific Northwest as one of the most thoroughly informed orchardists in the business.

"The winter has come on so gradually," he said to a reporter for The Journal, "that the trees have had time to harden and become inured to the weather conditions. There is plenty of snow up our way, too," he said, "and that affords ample protection for young trees. As long as the winter comes on in the gradual form this one

LABOR FORCES MEET

RAILWAY EMPLOYES TO TAKE UP THEIR CAUSE.

Harmony Exists Throughout the State—Large Delegation From the Southern Pacific to Lobby for Labor Legislation.

Conductor J. B. Smith and Brake-man E. D. Leffel of the O. R. & N. went to Portland this morning to be present at a meeting of the joint legislative board of railway employes, which will be held in that city tomorrow.

The various railway orders have a joint legislative board which meets before the legislature convenes, to arrange for the introduction of such labor legislation as may be decided upon.

Delegates from the lodges of conductors, trainmen, engineers, firemen and telegraphers from all the railway lines in Oregon will be present at this preliminary meeting, and will select one member from each order to go to the legislature to remain during the session.

The brotherhoods in Oregon made such a good showing before the last legislature that they feel highly encouraged in the work before them this winter.

At least four men will be elected on the permanent legislative board, who will have charge of all matters pertaining to the introduction of railroad legislation. Among the important measures to be presented is a fellow servant law, a bill to define 16 hours as a day's work without rest, a bill to compel roads to block all frogs and switches, and perhaps a bill to repeal the law fixing $5000 as the limit of recovery in case of death.

Senator Alex Sweek, of Multnomah and Columbia counties, introduced the railroad men's bill in the senate at the last legislature, and J. M. Poorman in the house.

It is now the intention of the railway employes to ask Walter M. Pierce, senator-elect from Umatilla county, to introduce their measure in the senate and T. N. Murphy or J. A. Burleigh, of Union and Walla counties, in the house.

The Southern Pacific employes have arranged to send a large delegation of lobbyists to the legislature to remain for at least half of the session.

ADJUDGED INSANE.

C. C. Powell Has Been Ordered to Salem.

C. C. Powell, who tried to kill himself in the county jail Saturday night, was adjudged insane today and ordered taken to the asylum at Salem.

Powell is the man who came to town with Clarence Hale Saturday. He attempted to cut his throat with an old rusty knife, falling in which he then attempted to knock his brains out against the bars of the cell.

He is not suffering much from the wounds received, and is apparently much better mentally than when brought in. He is still slightly unbalanced and Judge Hartman and Dr. McPaul, who examined him, concluded that he would not be safe to turn him loose as he is continually asking for drink. It was feared that if released the first thing he would do would be to get drunk and then he might attempt his life again. He imagines those around him are trying to do him harm.

Smallpox on Reservation.

Dr. Henderson reports a case of smallpox on the reservation. Annie Lyman has the disease. She lives three miles and a half beyond the agency and is badly broken out. The place has been properly quarantined and guards placed over the house, both day and night to keep any person from leaving or going to the place without permission.

Shockley Released.

Charles H. Shockley, arrested last week because of his peculiar actions, was released. His trouble was brought on by drinking and the examining physician thinks he will be all right now.

Salem is now wrestling with the tug and hobo question, great numbers of them having congregated there during the winter.
