COMING.

James A. Herne's "Shore Acres," Wednesday, January 7th.

In "Shore Acres" it has been clearly demonstrated by James A. Herne that a play almost plotless and depending entirely upon a portrayal of that which is real without dramatic effects, as in ordinary plays, can be written with success. In a total ignoring of the traditional, conventional and unreal in stagecraft, and getting far away from the artificial devices, and supplanting in its stead art—true art—the effect has been a revelation. "Shore Acres" is a dramatic sermon without a word of religion in it. The story is that of the lowly, the every day life of poor farmers and fishermen living on the coast of Maine. It is a psychic study for the thinker, a lesson for the thoughtless, and the impression made upon the spectator by this masterpiece will last a life time. "Shore Acres" is in every way a truly great play and its lasting success is justly deserved. A complete scenic production of this ideal work will be given at the Frazer, and the sale of seats will open Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

HOW THEY GOT HERE

INTERESTING BIT OF MOR-MON FAMILY HISTORY.

Mother in America Sends Money to "Auld Scotland" to Bring Children Here—Proceeds of the Oregon Farm Pay Passage for Numberless Immigrants.

An old lady, dressed warmly and having a motherly reticent air about her, was standing in line at the money order window of the Pendleton post-office a few days ago.

When her turn came to transact business at the window, she asked the clerk to fill out her application for a money order, as she had left her glasses at home and had driven 10 miles through a chilling wind and could not see to write.

This being a strict violation of postoffice rules, the clerk declined to do so, though he could scarcely resist the temptation to respond to such an appeal. An East Oregonian representative kindly proffered his assistance, which was cheerfully accepted.

This woman has lived in Umatilla county for five years, and every month of that time has sent a sum of money—varying in amount with the season and the sale of produce, to her daughter in Scotland.

The father, mother and two daughters were converted to Mormonism in Dumfriesshire, Scotland, seven years ago, by Utah missionaries.

The small farm was sold, and the old people, with one single daughter bought passage to America, settling in Utah. The westward rush of immigrants brought them to Oregon, and they bought a small home in Umatilla county.

The married daughter in Scotland has a large family and is the wife of a poor man. They cannot live on his wages and save enough to pay passage to this country within a reasonable time, so the mother, from the produce on the farm, and the sister from the weekly wages she receives, regularly sends a small sum to the poor daughter and sister in old Scotland, who is hoarding up the small gifts, in anticipation of the day when she can bring her flock to this country.

This month the season's butter output was sold from the little farm, and $10 was sent to swell that slowly growing store.

It is a bit of side history which stands out in a chapter of its own. If the postoffice records could talk, they would relate many just such self-sacrificing incidents, which go to make up the nation's family record.

As this old mother drives homeward through the biting winter's wind, she presents a picture to the reader, that is worthy of more than passing notice.

Finds Way to Live Long.

The startling announcement of a discovery that will surely lengthen life, is made by Editor O. H. Downey, of Churubusco, Ind. "I wish to state," he writes, "that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is the most infallible remedy that I have ever known for coughs, colds and grip. It's invaluable to people with weak lungs. Having this wonderful medicine, no one need dread pneumonia or consumption. Its relief is instant and cure certain." Tallman & Co. guarantee every 50c and $1 bottle, and give trial bottles free.

COLD WEATHER AGGRAVATES CATARRH.

Fortify the System With Pe-ru-na and No One Need Fear Coughs, Colds, or Catarrh.

Winter is here. The nights are long and cold. The days are short and changeable in temperature. Cold creeps in at every crevice and draughts occur in spite of the utmost vigilance.
