New York, Jan. 5.—At Coney Island today several hundred spectators witnessed the execution by electricity of "Topsy," an elephant, who had killed three men and had recently become unmanageable. Immediately after 200 grains of cyanide of potassium had been administered, concealed in a carrot, a current of 6600 volts was turned on through copper plates on which the animal stood. Almost instantly the elephant fell, and at the end of 10 seconds, when the current was turned off, was pronounced to be dead. An autopsy showed that the poison had not had time to take effect.

POWER OF MONEY IS GREATER THAN THAT OF MANY STATES

Senator Hoar of Massachusetts Presents His Anti-Trust Bill and Discusses the Trust Problem.

DECLARES THAT TRUST LEGISLATION SHOULD BE ENACTED FOR FUTURE RATHER THAN PRESENT.

Acknowledges That Trusts Destroy Competition and Have the Power to Corrupt Elections — Approves of the Combinations of Capital and Paid a High Tribute to Morgan's Genius — Is Afraid That the Trusts Are Preparing the Country for Socialism—The Proposed Measure in Brief.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The senate today listened to a masterly discussion of the trusts problem. George F. Hoar, the venerable senator from Massachusetts, opened by saying that he acknowledged that his bill was imperfect, being of a tentative and experimental character.

He contended that with the exception of the coal strike the country hadn't suffered from the trust evil in any way to affect the general prosperity. The condition of workmen was better than in other countries, and better than in any other period of American history.

Trust legislation should be enacted with a view to the future rather than to the present. Such terrible money power as is concentrated in some cases is greater than the power of many states; greater than the power of any nation except ours on this continent. They can make or prevent wars, threaten a community with a coal famine or wheat famine and execute those threats.

Evils of Trusts.

He then enumerated the chief evils of trusts as follows: Destruction of competition; management of local industries by absentees in interests of absentee capital; destruction of all local and public spirit; fraudulent capitalization; secrecy of management for private benefits of officials; power to corrupt elections and in some cases corrupt courts; want of personal responsibility to public sentiment; absence of personal liability for contracts or wrong doing; holding of vast properties in mortmain or the dead hand of the ancient English law.

Approved of Combination.

The speaker approved of the combinations of capital and paid a tribute to Morgan's genius, "but," said he, "I do not want American trusts to dominate the world at the expense of the American local and public spirit." He said socialism never accomplishes anything and would destroy American manhood.

The Proposed Measure.

The first section of Senator Hoar's anti-trust bill declares that the act shall not repeal or limit anti-trust laws now on the statute books. Under section two the attorney-general is authorized to employ any assistance which may be deemed necessary or desirable to prosecute offenses under the act, or to make any investigation into the same; and for that purpose the sum of $500,000 is appropriated.

Section three provides that from and after June 30, 1904, no corporation, joint stock company or other association, whose stockholders are not personally liable for their debts created by any state or territory, shall engage in commerce with foreign nations or among the several states, or continue to carry on such commerce unless it shall comply with certain conditions enumerated in the bill.

Section four provides that every person, corporation, joint stock company or other association engaged in commerce with foreign nations or among the several states who shall enter into any contract, combination or conspiracy for the purpose of driving out of business any other person engaged therein, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. Penalties for violation are provided.

Section seven declares that officers of agents who do anything prohibited to the corporation by the act shall be individually liable to the penalties provided.

Section nine provides that any corporation, joint stock company or other association that shall have been twice adjudged to have violated the provisions of the act or either of the acts mentioned in section one thereof by the final judgment of any court having jurisdiction of the question, in any civil suit or proceeding which said corporation shall have been a party to, shall no longer be allowed to engage in commerce with foreign nations or among the several states.

Provided, that such prohibition shall only be enforced after such corporation, joint stock company or other association shall have been enjoined against further engaging in such business, on any information or suit brought in any United States court of competent jurisdiction by the attorney-general in behalf of the government.

Sections 10 and 11 provide additional penalties for violation of the act.

To Regulate Trusts.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Attorney-General Knox today submitted a communication to the sub-committee of the house committee of judiciary, which is endeavoring to formulate a measure to regulate trusts.

The communication is in reply to a request from Chairman Littlefield. Under three heads are exhaustive reviews of cases decided and pending, and suggestions are offered. He devotes 15 pages to the latter cause, and says that a monopoly of industry would be impossible if competition were assured in a fair, open field and protected against unfair discrimination practices.

He suggests that all discriminatory practices affecting the interests of trades be made offenses, severely punishable, both grantors and recipients to be punished.

The proposed legislation is to cover the carriers as well as the manufacturers. It covers the discrimination of prices against competitors in particular localities resorted to for the purpose of destroying competition. Carriers and those receiving rebates are alike punishable.

Defends Dingley Bill.
