SOCIAL EVENTS OF THE WEEK

Concerning the People of Pendleton and Vicinity • Notes Personal and Otherwise • By Our Regular Correspondent

A Brilliant Affair.

Music Hall has never been the scene of a prettier affair than it was on last Thursday night, the occasion being a dancing party given by Mrs. Frank B. Clopton and Mrs. Leon Cohen. About one hundred guests were present, who enjoyed themselves to their utmost.

Mrs. Clopton and Mrs. Cohen received their guests in the northwest corner of the hall, which was especially attractive in its cozy appearance. Mrs. Clopton wore a handsome pink brocaded satin reception gown, trimmed in red gauze, while Mrs. Cohen looked very lovely in an exquisite gown of white organdy trimmed in white lace.

The decorations of the hall were profuse and artistic. At various places about the hall were stands, on which were carnations and candelabra with red candles to correspond with the color scheme. Punch was served in the northeast corner, the table being prettily festooned with smilax. An unusually attractive feature, which called forth many words of praise, was the canopy built over the stage, of beautiful red draperies, which partially concealed the orchestra, back of which palms were banded.

In the lodge rooms adjoining the hall there were numerous small tables, in the center of which were candelabra. Here the guests were served with light refreshments, coming and going as they wished, which at no time left the hall free from dancers. Summing it up, it was one of the prettiest affairs ever given and was characterized by excellent taste throughout.

Thursday Afternoon Club.

The Thursday Afternoon Club had a most enjoyable meeting Thursday, with a musical program, at the home of Miss Raley. Miss Jessie Hartman and Mrs. Walter Fell assisted in the program with vocal numbers, charmingly rendered.

Several out-of-town club women were guests of the club, and Mrs. Edyth Tozier Wethered gave the ladies a short practical talk on exposition work. Later Mrs. Wethered will come to Pendleton to assist in our organization.

Parliamentary Club.

The Parliamentary Club will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday afternoon at the Commercial Club parlors, at 2:30. Mayor Huley will address the club of "Civics," and will also have some suggestions to offer on what our women may do for the coming expositions. Other matters of interest will be discussed, and a full attendance is requested.

Mrs. C. B. Wade Receives.

Quite a number of the representative women of the State Federation have been in Pendleton this week. Mrs. Samuel White of Baker City, the federation's corresponding secretary; Mrs. S. A. Evans, of Oswego, chairman of the legislative committee, and Mrs. Grace Watt Ross, of Portland, chairman of the revision committee, with Mrs. Wethered, have been spending the week at the home of the state president, Mrs. C. B. Wade. Several business meetings were held, and many pleasant social attentions were shown the visitors. Wednesday afternoon an "at home" was given by Mrs. Wade in honor of the visitors, and nearly all of Pendleton's club women were in attendance, and Mrs. E. R. Cox and Mrs. Schwarz, of Athena, were also among the guests.

Artisans' Dance.

Alpha Assembly No. 9, United Artisans, held a social dance in Hendricks' hall Thursday night. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by those present. The affair was quite informal and only the members of the order were present. Dallas O'Hara and Elvin Lampkin furnished the music.

Black Cat Social.

The young ladies of the Presbyterian church gave a "Black Cat" social last evening at the church, which was well attended and proved a very pleasant evening for all present. The room was very uniquely decorated, black cats being principally in evidence. A splendid program was rendered. It consisted of two vocal selections by Miss Pickell, piano selections by Miss Shepherd. At the conclusion of the program baskets of eatables were sold. The affair was a decided success socially and financially.

Current Literature Club.

The Current Literature Club resumed its work Friday, January 2, after the holiday vacation, with a pleasant meeting at the home of Mrs. G. A. Hartman. A study of the legends and traditions of the Indians continues throughout the year, and at this meeting Mrs. M. A. La Dow gave several of the interesting legends of Wakapooosh, the rattle snake.

Mrs. Fessenden Johnson, who is a new factor in Oregon club life, but a club woman of long standing in her native state—Wisconsin—gave an entertaining talk on Oregon's early missionaries. A discussion on "How Dr. Marcus Whitman Saved Oregon to the Union" was ably led by Mrs. Moorhouse. "New Year's Observances in Scotland," was given by Mrs. John Vert, a former member, after which dainty refreshments were served.

W. of W. Will Dance.

On Friday evening, January 16, Pendleton Circle No. 527, Women of Woodcraft will give a grand ball in Music hall. This will be the last grand ball of the season before the beginning of the Lenten season.

No G. A. M. Dance Tonight.

The Quit at Midnight Club will not give its regular Saturday night dance in Armory hall tonight. The hall has been given up to the Knights of Pythias for their banquet.

Social and Personal Notes.

Mrs. J. Ross Dickson is visiting in Portland for a few days.
 Miss Flo Hallock left for Salem last evening to be absent about six weeks.

THE COUNTRY MUST CHANGE.

Pioneer Stockman of Morrow County Makes Some Timely Observations.

C. A. Rhea, a retired sheepraiser of Morrow county, at present engaged in banking at Heppner, was in Portland the other day, and to the Telegram stated that the day of big flocks of sheep in Eastern Oregon was vanishing. His reasons were that the public domain was becoming too valuable for other purposes to much longer be used for sheep runs. He said the sheep that supplanted the cattle 20 years ago were now to be supplanted by cattle and wheat raising, says The Dalles Mountaineer.

Generally speaking Mr. Rhea is correct. Methods of stockraising in Eastern Oregon must change; in fact are already changing rapidly. The government land is being taken up, and what a few years ago was open sheep ranges is being converted into farms.

This is gradually crowding the sheep raiser out, and in a comparatively short time the running of a large flock will be confined to a few who have secured title to immense areas of territory, where they can range their flocks inside of enclosures the greater portion of the year.

The passing of the sheep will, however, result in a greater number of cattle being raised, and likely the income of the country from the stock business will be greater increased than diminished. In many sections there will for ages be considerable waste land that will remain public domain where cattle can be ranged a portion of the year.

Farmers will keep just as many cattle as this open country will sustain, ranging them out during the summer and feeding them during the winter. More people will occupy the country, and all will prosper. Gradually the sheep business will diminish, that is the sheep raiser will be crowded out by the farmer who will devote his attention principally to growing beef.
