FOR OPEN ROADS

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT
SENDS OUT CIRCULAR.

Says Patrons of Free Rural Routes Must Keep Roads Clear—Carriers Must Go in All Kinds of Weather—Clear Away Snow so Drivers Will Not Have to Dismount.

Though rural mail carriers are expected to energetically try to serve their routes, even though conditions may be extremely adverse, patrons along the route who receive the benefits of the service, are being warned by the department, that any laxity on their part in not keeping roads in passable condition may result in the permanent withdrawal of the service.

Especially is this true in the winter months when deep snows are on the ground and the rural carriers have many obstacles to overcome in making their routes. In the following letter to postmasters, the department urges patrons along the routes to assist the carriers as much as possible.

Washington, D. C.
The Postmaster:
Sir:—The department looks to the patrons of the rural free delivery service, who are receiving the benefits of the service, to use their utmost personal endeavors, and also to exert their influence with the road supervisors who are responsible for the condition of the highways; to the end that the roads traveled by rural carriers may be always kept open and in such passable shape that the service can be regularly and punctually performed.

Should the regularity of the service be needlessly destroyed as the result of inattention and lack of care bestowed on the highways, the permanent withdrawal of the delivery will very likely result.

Rural letter carriers are required to serve their routes regularly at all seasons of the year and in every kind of weather when it can be done without seriously imperiling their lives or endangering their conveyances or the U. S. Mail, which is in their custody.

Patrons should clear away the snow drifts, so that carriers can drive up to and reach boxes from their vehicles without dismounting.

It is not a part of the carrier's duty to break out the roads after severe snowstorms.

Rural carriers are expected to energetically try to serve their routes even though conditions may be extremely adverse, and any undue lack of zeal on their part should be promptly brought to the attention of this office for such action as the merits of the case require.

Respectfully,
A. W. MACHEN,
General Superintendent.

UMATILLA IRRIGATION PLANS.

Are Much Easier Put into Operation Than Those of Adjoining Districts.

John Dorn, postmaster at Echo, who recently paid a visit to Wenatchee, Wash., says the entire country around that city has been converted into productive fields by irrigation.

The physical features of the country offered many more obstacles than are to be encountered anywhere in Umatilla county. Ditches had to be built through rocky walls, miles of flume was necessary to convey the water over deep canyons and the cost of putting water upon the land was perhaps five times what it will be in Umatilla county.

After the land is once irrigated there it is far inferior to Eastern Oregon soil. Mr. Dorn thinks the easy ditch proposition—the low cost of putting water upon the land in Umatilla county, and the richness of the sandy soil after once irrigated render the arid tracts of this county the most inviting opportunities in the West.

He feels highly pleased with the prospects for extensive irrigation projects in the Echo neighborhood.
