GENERAL NEWS.

Detroit and Chicago have begun the sale or free distribution of coal.

The charge that Midshipman Pearson was hazed at the Annapolis naval academy is found to be baseless.

The presidential election in Salvador is over, and Pedro Escaton is believed to have defeated Dr. Reyes.

The Kansas legislature proposes to indorse Senator Harris for his stand on the Isthmian canal commission.

Evidence of conspiracy among coal dealers has been found in Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit and Columbus, O.

Only five members, all republicans, voted against the free coal bill in the house, and it passed the senate unanimously.

Tuesday night men entered the county jail at Angleton, Texas, and shot dead two negroes charged with murder.

In several Eastern towns men arrested for stealing coal have been discharged, and robbing of coal cars on railroads is common.

The governor of Ohio has begun proceedings to forfeit the charters of six consoling coal companies. Thirty dealers have been indicted.

A baby weighing two and one-quarter pounds was born to Mrs. Vincent McNally, in New York Tuesday. It will be raised in an incubator.

A defective furnace flue in the Christian Orphans' home at St. Louis, caused a fire Wednesday that imperiled the lives of the 100 little inmates, but all were rescued.

Official information from Mazatlan, Mexico, is to the effect that there were six deaths in the city on Saturday last and eight Sunday. The number of patients is steadily increasing. The total number in the hospital is 88 with six additional patients under observation.

Funeral arrangements have been made for the burial of the late Thomas H. Tongue, Sunday morning at Hillsboro.

Senator Mitchell Thursday presented a bill for the cession of a portion of the Klamath Indian reservation, as an amendment to the Indian appropriation bill. He will make a strong effort to have it made a part of that measure, thus insuring its becoming a law at this session.

There is a war on in Josephine county between the miners and the so-called "timber grabbers." A number of locations made in the Grave Creek, one of the richest mining districts in Southern Oregon, have been protested by mining men on the plea that they were taken up mainly for the purpose of locators getting the minerals the lands contained.

Chester Keady and Harry Lyons, two Corvallis boys, were sentenced to 40 days in jail Tuesday for an assault on George Fiske, whose ankle was broken in a fall sustained when he was knocked from the sidewalk by his assailants. That night friends of the prisoners passed a crowbar in to them and they dug out of the city bastille and effected their escape, driving to Albany.

IN SIGHT OF SHASTA

C. E. McLELLAN WRITES OF UPPER CALIFORNIA.

Speaks of Dunsmuir and Redding—in the Land of Sunshine and Oranges—Reaches San Francisco After Several Delays.

Dunsmuir, Cal., Jan. 9.—Dunsmuir is a little town in the Siskiyou mountains, just across the California line and 2300 feet above the sea, almost in the shadow of Mt. Shasta, where at present writing the California express is standing, waiting for the track to be cleared of a wrecked freight train a short distance ahead of us.

After a delay of two hours we got started and a little later on a somewhat shaky piece of track, pass a box car lying wrong side up in a creek. Webfoot rain and cloud has changed to California sunshine and Bret Harte's country, through which we are passing is at its best. It was in some nook in these mountains he and his comrades were once sitting round the roaring campfire with rude humor painted the ruddy tints of health.

On haggard face and form that drooped and fainted. In the fierce race for wealth.

When one arose and from his pack's scant treasure, A hoarded volume drew.

And cards were dropped from hands of listless leisure. To hear the tale anew.

And there while round them shadows gathered faster, And while the freight fell, He read aloud the book wherein the Master Had writ of "Little Nell."

The fir trees gathering closer in the shadows, Listened every spray;

While the whole camp with "Nell" in English meadows Wandered and lost their way.

This is a mining country, the Sacramento river, whose course the railway follows, is here a small stream in a deep canyon, the hills on either side are bored with holes and tunnels, and wire cables stretched across the creek, convey the ore buckets from one side to the other. Judging from the number of holes in the hillsides, the country has been pretty thoroughly prospected and no doubt has contributed its full share of joys and sorrows to the mining profession.

Bret Harte, in one of his stories, tells how one poor devil with a pestered-out claim and a fever-stricken family on his hands had to dig a well, the water supply having also played out among his other misfortunes, but at a depth of forty feet he struck a vein of gold that made him a millionaire.

Redding, where the train stopped a few minutes, is a town somewhat smaller than Pendleton, in the northern end of Sacramento valley, just out of the mountains. The Redding people seem to have a very pleasant location, with the snow-clad peaks of the Sierra and Coast range mountains in plain view and the Sacramento valley gradually widening, stretching away as far as the eye can reach to the southward.

South of Redding a few stubble-fields and green wheat fields make their appearance. Flocks of wild geese are in the fields and meadows, which seem to be the favorite work stock here, are kicking up their heels in the pastures. Palm trees flourish in the yards, and the newsboy at the stations sings out, "Here's your oranges; two for a nickel, five for a dime?" somewhat to the detriment of his brother on the train, who offers four for a quarter.

At Benicia, which is reached some time after dark, the Sacramento river has changed somewhat from the little mountain stream, which this morning could almost be stepped across dry-shod, but here is crossed on a mammoth ferry boat. Oakland is reached at 10 o'clock at night and San Francisco and the bay a panorama of brilliant lights floating and stationary is in sight.

Finds Way to Live Long.

The startling announcement of a discovery that will surely lengthen life, is made by Editor O. H. Downey, of Chubbuck, Ind. "I wish to state," he writes, "that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is the most infallible remedy that I have ever known for coughs, colds and grip. It's invaluable to people with weak lungs. Having this wonderful medicine, no one need dread pneumonia or consumption. Its relief is instant and cure certain." Tallman & Co. guarantee every 50c and $1 bottle, and give trial bottles free.

Still There's More to Come.

The sudden death of Congressman Thomas H. Tongue has already developed an army of candidates to fill the vacancy. Among those prominently mentioned by their friends are: Hon. Binger Hermann, of Roseburg; Gov. T. T. Geer, of Salem; Senator Brownell, of Oregon City; Hon. T. L. Ford and Hon. Claude Gatch, of Salem; Hon. E. V. Carter, of Ashland; Judge H. L. Benson, of Klamath Falls; Judge Fullerton and Judge Schilbreck, of Roseburg, besides a host of others. It is now thought a special election will be held in March to fill the vacancy.—Roseburg Review.

THE TWO EXTREMES

About the time children begin to go to school they are liable to be confronted with one of two extremes—they may either grow too fast or not grow fast enough. In the former case nature makes unusual demands upon bone and blood; vital organs are overtaxed and growth continues out of proportion to their age. Here is where Scott's Emulsion finds scope for its best workings.

It nourishes the bones, —the hypophosphites of lime and soda do this; it feeds and enriches the blood—this through the pure cod liver oil; it strengthens the whole system, providing firm, healthy flesh and fortifying the tissues so that they are better able to stand the extra strain upon them.

When a child is not growing as it should—undersize, underweight, there will be found in Scott's Emulsion the very elements needed to aid in proper development. Bone food for the bones, blood food for the blood, tissue food for the tissues—that is how Scott's Emulsion provides for each demand of the body.

There is a uniform change for the better wherever there is need of new strength and more and better nourishment.

These claims are not made off-hand. We know from nearly thirty years contact with such cases that Scott's Emulsion will do just what we say it will do. We will be glad to send you a sample free so that you can judge for yourself.
