Liveliest of its Size in the World.

"Beyond doubt Seattle is the liveliest town of its size in the world," said ex-Governor Frank Steunenberg of Idaho.

"I have just come from there and can state truthfully that it is a wonder. The way the people through the streets reminds one of some great Eastern metropolis. There is not a vacant store or residence, and the people can hardly handle the business. There is no prospect of a cessation of this marvelous activity, and its citizens seem to have good reason for their faith that it will not take many years for Seattle to reach San Francisco in population and wealth."

WILL BE SUSPENDED

MAY HAVE TO MEET CHARGES BEFORE GRAND JURY

Report of Special Agent Greene, Who Investigated the Officer's Career, Said to Be Very Spicy Reading and Very Convincing.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Surveyor-General Meldrum will be suspended from office within a few days, just as soon as arrangements can be made to send some competent man to Portland temporarily to take charge of the office. George E. Waggoner, Meldrum's chief clerk, is to be dismissed from the service, his previous resignation and the acceptance of the same by Commissioner Hermann being totally ignored as having no bearing in the case whatever.

It was stated by several officials that Meldrum is making himself ridiculous by declaring what he will do and what the department must do. It is a matter of precedent and of record that the secretary of the interior can remove Meldrum from office, when there is a cause, in exactly the same manner that he recently relieved the chief of the drafting division of the general land office. It is a power given him by law, and for any subordinate employe to declare that "they'll find they have more to do than file charges before they get rid of me," places him in an absurd attitude.

The department has no idea of "scaring Meldrum into resigning," which he seems to believe Secretary Hitchcock's intention. He will not be allowed the privilege of resigning. He is to be forced out of the service under charges. The suspension of Meldrum is only a step in the direction of ultimately dismissing him outright. There are reasons why he is not cut off altogether at this time, which reasons will be made known in good season.

The investigation which Meldrum appears to welcome will not be made; it has been concluded, and a mass of testimony is now before the secretary, being examined in detail. There is no necessity whatever for more facts. Enough are now available to show beyond any question the necessity for a new surveyor-general and a new chief clerk.

When Secretary Hitchcock was told of Waggoner's statement that he was ready to "meet any charges that might be made against him," he asked:

"Is he ready to go before a grand jury to meet them?"

The remark is significant, and is taken to mean that, on the facts now on record, some one connected with the surveyor-general's office is to be proceeded against through the courts, having made himself criminally liable.

Just what the report of Special Agent Greene contains is not told, but is said to be very spicy reading and very convincing. It is known that the report casts no reflections on Meldrum's ability as a surveyor. This is admitted. He is at fault more as an administrative official than as a surveyor. He himself admits in his interview one of the serious charges brought against him, that of being addicted to drink, adding that when he drinks he keeps away from the office. It is this drink that is charged against him. With a competent clerical force, it is said here that the office could, in a way, run itself if Meldrum never put in appearance. But when the government pays him a regular salary, it expects his full services and his full time, and if one man is too busy with drink to give this service, the department believes there will be no difficulty in getting someone else who can fill the place satisfactorily. A reputation as a surveyor is not the only requisite for the office.

FALLING HAIR STOPPED.

Baldness Cured by Destroying the Parasite Germ That Causes It. Baldness follows falling hair, falling hair follows dandruff, and dandruff is the result of a germ digging its way into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality of the hair. To destroy that germ is to prevent as well as to cure dandruff, falling hair, and, lastly, baldness. There is only one preparation known to do that, Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new, scientific discovery. Wherever it has been tried it has proven wonderfully successful. It can't be otherwise, because it utterly destroys the dandruff germ. "You destroy the cause, you remove the effect."

To Leave Umatilla.

Mr. Bell, a farmer who lives about three miles north of town, expects to sell his farm of 320 acres here and remove to Franklin county, Washington, where he has bought a section of land. Mr. Bell has lived in this vicinity about 14 years.

My little girl's hair did not grow. It was harsh and dry, and would break off, and her scalp was full of dry dandruff that I could not comb out. A piece around the back of her head was bald, and on the top of her head the hair was only two or three inches long. I used CUTICULA MAXI and some CUTICULA Ointment, and her hair has come in thick and as soft as silk. Mrs. A. DOWNEY, Alred, O.

Wear shampoos with CUTICULA MAXI and light dressings with CUTICULA Ointment, will clear the scalp and rid of dandruff, itching, itching and itching surfaces.
