GOVERNMENT JOBS

Many Persons Desire Such Positions, But Are Opposed to Government Ownership of Public Utilities.

Isn't it odd that men who will stand up and maintain that it is not the business of the government to employ the citizens, will spend time and money to get public employment hemselves? See how eagerly every public place is sought-from president down to mail carrier. Men who seek in vain for a position in the postal service, because there are not enough places. vote for men who are opposed to having the public operate the railroad, telegraph, express and other indus-tries that would make many times the opportunity for public ment.—Appeal to Reason.

The red headed man was manifestly hot-head-ed, and his violent gesticulations, with occasional demonstrations of his fists, were interpreted to mean he had a great cause of grievance and was bound to give the two wall flowers a sound drubbing. Now and then the gestures plainly meant giving them black eyes, and then his left elbow crooked as though holding his adversary's head in chancery and pummelling his head with his fist, then there was a funny finale as though "wiping the earth" with him. To all this the black-haired man listened with the air of a peacemaker, apparorld.
