OPPOSE THE BOSSES

THE PENDLETON PAINTERS FORM CO-OPERATIVE CONCERN

Grievance Committee Takes Exceptions to Statements Made in Defense of a Lockout

The grievance committee of the Painters' Union takes exceptions to the defense made in behalf of the boss painters for their action in locking out the painters in response to their demands for an increase in wages from $3 per day to $3.50.

Messrs. Krabler and Wilson, on behalf of the union, present statements to controvert some of those made in defense of the lockout. In the first place, they emphatically deny that any boss painter of Pendleton at any time last year had a $200 per week pay roll. They assert that the largest number of men employed by any boss painter at any one time was nine, while one of the boss painters at no time employed more than five With these figures presented as facts they urge the public to do their own ciphering and try and get a result of $600 per week as the painters' pay roll in Pendleton. In fact, they claim that the limit reached last year was $438 per week paid in wages to the painters, and this being the limit, of course the average was less. Messrs, Krabler and Wilson, speaking from the standpoint of the men who draw $3 per day in wages and who with their wives have the spending of what is spent and the saving of what is saved, furthermore claim that a painter can only save $120 per year if he works continuously, while only three painters in the city actu ally worked full time last year, out of the 19 painters residing here.

In reference to the claim of the boss painters that they "cannot see their ray clear" to grant an increase in wages the committee declares very careful and accurate figuring shows that the bosses make a profit of 50 cents per day (while paying $3) on every man on their pay rolls, besides and outside of their profit on the material they use, which the boss painters of course furnish. Furthermore that some of the painters in Pendleton are actually each to their employers. The general proposition of the boss painters to rate the painters was accepted, but no arrangement could be reached as to the details of the rating. The union asked for $3.25 for the painters and $3.50 for the paper hangers. The bosses refused to accept these figures and in their turn submitted a wage scale which the union refused. The bosses wanted the rating to be painters $2.50 and paper hangers $3.50. These figures the union refused to ac-Hence the present contest is

The exhibit in this city was one of the most successful affairs of the season, and the club women, under whose management it was given, have shown an admirable spirit. The four days' exhibit, in this city, yielded an income of about $200, which will be used in purchasing paintings for the public schools.

The paintings to be selected for the schools have not yet been selected. The program rendered on Saturday evening was interesting and highly appreciated. The largest crowd of the week visited the courthouse Saturday afternoon. The school children were there in full force to witness the program and enjoy the amazing group of paintings, the like of which, not many parents, much less children, of Pendleton have ever seen before in one collection. At the close of the exhibit Mrs. C. Wade, president of the Woman's Club, in a few well chosen remarks. thanked the public for its patronage and assistance in making the meet

To improve Poor Farm.

The county commissioners are wrestling today with the question of specifications and estimates for improving the poor farm. Not having any specifications completed as yet, the court is not ready to call for bids or definite estimates. One of the court this afternoon stated to an East Oregonian reporter that a suitable dwelling and hospital for the farm would probably cost $7,000 or very near to that figure.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

Forty-Eight Additions to the Christian Church in Eight Days.

The revival meetings at the new Christian church are being largely attended and 48 additions have been made to the church membership during the eight days the meetings have continued.

Evangelists Davis and Wilson, who came to Oregon from the East, recently, are conducting the meetings. Professor Davis had organized a large choir, which is one of the most interesting features of the meetings.

Yesterday a "string meeting" held at 3 o'clock, by which the evangelists sought to impress upon those present the strong power of habit.

The new church building contains one of the largest auditoriums in Eastern Oregon, and is well arranged for the accommodation of audiences

Professor Davis sang as a solo, at last night's meeting "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," one of President Mc-Kinley's favorite songs.

The subject of the sermon last night was "Faith. What it is and How to Get it." Tonight the sermon topic will be. "Repentance." Baptisms will follow the services.

AERIE OF ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTEEN ORGANIZED HERE

Social Session and Lunch After the Organization-Visiting Eagles From Walla Walla Assisted at Ceremonies.

One hundred and seventeen members were yesterday initiated into the Order of Eagles in this place following the organization. The following are the officers chosen to preside over the destinies of the Pendleton aerie for the ensuing term: J. T. Hinkle, president; William G. Bogert, vice-president; Alex McRae, chaplain; Roy Ritner, secretary; Antone Nolte, treasurer; John Baker, conductor; J. B. Himes, inside guard; Conrad Platzoeder, outside guard: trustees, Mark Patton, A. C. Koeppen and Ed Besthorn.

Following the initiation and installation everybody discussed an appetizing lunch and indulged in a social session. The Astoria team did not put in an appearance, but the Pendietonians were favored with the presence of delegations from Union county and from Walla Walla. With Mr. Flynn, of Baker City, the state organizer, came Joseph Buckley, Joe Ellis and Past President Smith, of the Baker City eyrie. The Walla Walla visitors were Joseph Smales, Thomas Newport, William Gorgdon, John Preston, John Crossin, O. Cavaness, G. H. Ferguson, J. T. Berg, J. Bonifer and A. H. Hull.

Mr. Bonifer is a resident of Athena, but a member of the Walla Walla A. D. Katz, of Boise, representing eyrie. Mr. Ferguson was initiated lodge starts out under the most favorable auspices and after a very thorough investigation of the merits of the order, as this is the second time it has been organized here.
