BROCK & McCOMAS CO.
DRUGGISTS

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 11, 1903.

God gave the earth to all the people, and not to some of them. Its privileges should be for all of them and not bartered off to some of them. That, gentlemen, constitutes my political economy, my politics, and, I say it reverently, my religion. And it is, I believe, the religion that Christ taught to the people many years ago.—Tom Johnson.

TOO MANY STUDIES.

Senate concurrent resolution No. 24, introduced by Senator Miller, of Linn county, and passed by the legislature, contains some of the most important and vital suggestions that were laid before the people by the twenty-second session.

It is a plea to the state board of education, for a cessation of the "cramming" process in the schools; it calls the attention of parents to the notorious fact that studies can only be skimmed over by pupils of a tender age, who are required today to take three times the number of branches taught in public schools ten years ago.

An education under these conditions—such an education as would stand the test of genuine learning, founded upon thorough familiarity with principles and instilled into the mind by lasting processes, is well nigh impossible.

Or if such an education is acquired by fifty per cent, or twenty-five per cent of the pupils of the public school it is done at the cost of health, and often brings with it a permanently weakened constitution and is a curse forever after, instead of a blessing.

There is a limit to the capabilities of school children. Their mental strength, being in the growing and formative stage, is susceptible to the most insignificant pressure. Often one month or one school term of hard brain work, coupled with the natural desire to succeed and aggravated by the irresistible stimulant of rivalry in class work, undermines the foundations of a constitution, and lays plans for an unfortunate career of illness and unsatisfactory work.

Reduce the number of studies; give more time to classes; go to the bottom of branches taught; lay foundations upon the solid rock of understanding, and get off the shifting sandbars of surface learning, quickly forgotten or inadequate to meet the demands of life. The resolution, which follows, should receive the earnest consideration of the board of education:

Whereas, The public school is the only institution actually employed in the education of the masses, and

Whereas, a very large per cent of the children receive all the education they ever acquire in said public school, and

Whereas, The course of study now employed in the public schools of this state requires so much work on the part of the child, that the essential branches are not and cannot be well learned, and

Whereas, The number of books now in use in said course of instruction in said public schools is excessive and a financial burden upon the people of the state,

Therefore, Be it resolved by the senate, the house concurring, that the state board of education be, and is hereby earnestly requested to so revise the course of instruction now in use in the public schools of this state, as to reduce the amount of work and give special attention to the branches that will be of most value to the children in pursuing the different avocations of life.

And that it is the sense of the legislature that the public schools of the state should be encouraged and fostered by every means in our power.

THE PRESS AND THE PEOPLE.

It is the business of the newspaper to tell the news and tell it truthfully. It is no part of the duty of the press to manufacture news; it is had enough to manufacture opinion.

The news columns of all legitimate papers are simply the movements of the community, collected and put into form.

They are the individual acts of the locality, codified. And like in all other collections, there is a certain per cent of the unwholesome ever present.

People often look upon the press as an inquisitor. They hide their movements, shield their most worthy acts from publicity, and try in every manner possible to dodge the representative of the press, in hopes that they will smother some particular piece of news.

Yet they are ever ready to proclaim their disgust for the dullness of the papers they read; they expect publishers to find news which they themselves hold up; they swear at the distorted facts concerning their actions, which ten words from them would have made straight.

Remember, always, that the people make the news; the people create the subjects that form the foundation for news columns; if they hide these things, or refuse to be interviewed, and allow wrong impressions to gain publicity, it is their own fault, for they held the key to the situation.

To make the press what it should be, the true representative of the people and their activities, the people must tell the inside facts, for the press, like the assessor, is forbidden to look into your personal accounts.

The following from the Baltimore American is so pertinent that the temptation to repeat it is irresistible:

A Man had a piece of News.
 A Reporter heard of it.
 The Reporter called on the Man.
 And asked him about the News.
 The Man played Balloon with the Reporter.
 He swelled noticeably and said:
 "You Fellows never get Anything right. So I won't tell you."
 The Reporter did not get angry.
 He knew the Man was a Fool.

OF UNTOLD VALUE.

The information contained in This Gentleman's Statement is Priceless.

The hale, the hearty, the strong can afford to toss this paper aside impatiently when they read the following, but any sufferer who has spent a mint of money and hours of excruciating torture caused by kidney complaint, will stand in his own light if he does not follow the valuable advice offered by—

Mr. William Gower Berber, of 131 West Bennett avenue, Colorado Springs, says: "I was interviewed by a gentleman in the month of June, 1899, about Doan's Kidney Pills. I was then living in Pueblo, Colo., and I told him that after suffering for four or five years with backache and other consequences of either weakened or excited kidneys, I went to my druggist in Pueblo for Doan's Kidney Pills and took a course of treatment. They cured me, and cured me quickly. Since then I have not had the slightest symptom of a recurrence. I have recommended them to a number of friends and acquaintances and told them if they did not cure them they could return the box to me, and I would pay them for them. No one ever came back with a box, so I know they were cured."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—DOAN'S—and take no substitute.

He had seen Them before.
 He knew the real facts could be had from no one else.
 Yet the Reporter did the very Best he could to get at the Truth.
 And published the story as he got it.
 Then the Man who had refused to give the Facts, arose early and bought a Paper to see if the facts were distorted.
 They were.
 And he said:
 "I told you so."
 Query—With whom should the Public yearn to get even—the Reporter, who did his best, or the arrogant Fool, who deliberately refused to help him?

IS A CENTURY TOO MUCH?

Many centenarians, many minds. Scarcely two agree as to the manner of life that brings wealth of years. Mrs. Olive Cleveland, of Onondaga county, differs from all. Instead of telling how she has lived 102 years she tells why she doesn't care to live 103. This is her complaint:

"After you have lived 100 years you have aches and pains you never had before. You begin to lose your memory, you can't see distinctly and you can't hear. You forget how your friends look and you miss the sounds of their voices. You seem to be in another world. You know there is much going on of which you are not aware, and yet you can't help it."
 It is pathetic this way of looking at the five score years. But it won't be convincing to the Hundred-Year Club.

A contrary view is that of Banker Livermore, of New Jersey, who thanks heaven for a hundred years and hopes for ten more; of Darius Drake, in Connecticut, who finds at the century mark his life still "a ministry of love;" of Pope Leo, who, when a visitor wished him a hundred years, asked with assumed sternness, "Would you limit the decrees of Providence?"—New York World.

Cassius, after the battle of Philippi, killed himself and was burned in the Island of Thasos. A sarcophagus which is believed to hold his remains, has been recently discovered there.

MRS. HELENA BLAU,
 Young Milwaukee Society Woman.

TEN thousand women have written to tell how Wine of Cardui bestows the blessing of health on every woman who takes it, rich and poor alike. Mrs. Helena Blau, No. 123 Seventh Street, Milwaukee, Wis., is one of the young women whom Wine of Cardui has rescued from a life of suffering. She writes:
 "Wine of Cardui is certainly 'worn out' women's best friend and I am pleased to give my experience with it. A few months ago I caught a severe cold, having been out in inclement weather, which settled all over me, particularly in the abdomen. I was in almost constant pain. I consulted a physician and took his medicine for a month and without any relief. I then decided I would try your medicine and it was a lucky day for me when I did so. I noticed a change in a few days and felt encouraged to continue taking Wine of Cardui, and my patience was rewarded, for in two weeks my pains had left me and I felt like a new woman."
 The woman who has suffered from female weakness should do anything within reason to secure health. Wine of Cardui is the medicine that appeals to reasonable women—women who hold operations and cutting in horror—women who know that Nature is the best physician. Wine of Cardui gives women back their health by giving Nature a chance to build up the wasted and diseased tissue. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow and Nature, when relieved of the drains or of the poisons in the system, makes the functional organs strong and healthy again.
 Any woman who is silently suffering untold pains because she is too sensitive to undergo a physician's examination and treatment can find no excuse for not securing relief when Wine of Cardui is offered to her. There is no publicity to deter her. She can take Wine of Cardui in the privacy of her home, with as much assurance of a final cure as though a dozen doctors recommended it. Many physicians do recommend Wine of Cardui to their patients.
 Why not get a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?
 A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.
