THE MASTER OF GRANGE
SPEAKS TO FARMERS.

Declared That the Farmers Should Work Less and Do More Thinking —Should Be a Business Man.

Master Jones spoke for two hours, covering Grange work in detail and reviewing the history of farming in this country. He said when he was elected master of the National Grange he began gathering statistics and data of interest to agricultural classes and got reports from Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. These statistics, he said, showed in 1850 the total wealth of the United States was $8,500,000,000, of which $5,300,000,000 represented the wealth of the farmers. This was 62 per cent of the wealth of the nation in 1850. Fifty years later the total wealth of the nation had increased to $94,000,000,000 and farmers owned 70 per cent of this. The reports showed that 69 per cent of the exports from the United States came from farmers, which furnished 60 per cent of the total freight of the American railroads.

Praised Agricultural Colleges.

The speaker spoke in the highest terms of agricultural colleges, which he termed co-workers with the Grange in its work of education along agricultural lines. He urged education among farmers, and said they should solve the great mysteries around plant-growers. He declared the Grange to be part of the great educational system of the United States and that the order recognized as first in importance the church and its religious teachings and second, the great public school system of which he declared the agricultural college one of the most important branches.

He reviewed at length the great combinations of capital and their growth and power, and declared the farmers must organize. "The Patrons of Husbandry wage no war against any legitimate organizations," declared the speaker, "but recognizes that manufacturing and selling goods over the counter are as honorable occupations as ours so long as they are conducted legitimately."

Study More, Work Less.

He urged the farmers to study conditions affecting them, and said: "Don't go about the country whining about someone getting onto your little neck and crushing the life out of you, but rise up in your might and assert your rights and maintain them. Do not imagine you can right these wrongs by working an hour earlier and an hour later each day. Cut off an hour or two from each day's work and devote it to the study of conditions affecting your business. Constitute yourself a business man, capable of handling your business upon business principles."

HIS "SPECIALTY."

Super in a Play Put in a Few Extra Touches to His Act.

The elder Wallack once played in a romantic drama in which, after taking an impassioned farewell of the heroine, he leaped on a horse which stood in the wings and dashed across the stage. Harper's Magazine tells a story of a performance in which something happened that was not on the program.

Wallack objected to this nightly gallop, and it was arranged that one of the supers who resembled the actor should make the ride. The man was accordingly dressed like Wallack and sent to the theater in the afternoon to rehearse. He did the work well, and the stage manager departed.

But the super was not satisfied. "Why, see here," he complained to a young member of the company, "that thing is too easy! A man with a wooden leg could do it with his eyes shut. I used to be in a circus. Could I not do a few tricks?"

"Certainly," said the actor, who saw a chance for a joke. "That would be all right. Go ahead."

"You think the old party wouldn't object?"

"Object! Why, he ought to be tickled to death! Do it!"

That evening when the critical part came, Wallack saw his double already in the scenes.

"Love, good night, good night!" cried the hero, preparing to drop over the balcony.

"Stay!" cried the heroine, clinging round his neck. "You ride perhaps to death!"

"Nay, sweet, say not so; I ride to honor! With thoughts of thee in my heart no harm can come! Good night, good night."

He tore himself from her embrace and dropped out of sight of the audience. "Go!" he hissed to the man.

As the horse leaped forward on the stage the fellow gave a mighty vault and alighted standing on its bare back. He threw one foot up gracefully and danced easily on the other, and just before it was too late leaped into the air, turned a somersault, landed on the horse's back, and bounded lightly to the stage.

It is said that the audience applauded tumultuously, but Wallack's remarks are not recorded.

Explosive Sunsets.

Mr. Bascomb had seen wonders enough for his first day away from Banbury, but just as he had settled his tired head against the back of a lounging chair, he heard a distant boom.

"What's that?" he demanded, starting up.

"Oh, that's the sunset gun, Uncle Ezra," said his nephew's wife in a soothing tone. "It goes off just as the sun rises and sets."

Mr. Bascomb's mild face took on a look that approached hostility.

"I've seen your talking machines and electric bell-pulls and underground rails and overhead trusses and keridges kiting here and there with no boss nor other signs of drawing power," he said, resentfully, "and I've set myself to believe all you've told me. But I've seen the sun

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN

All Correspondence Is

Sacredly Confidential

This is a very important consideration in a woman's correspondence with Mrs. Pinkham. It is a great satisfaction to feel that one woman can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness, and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only,—a woman full of sympathy for her sick sisters, and with a knowledge of woman's ills greater than that possessed by any other person.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence thus entrusted to her, and although she publishes thousands of testimonials from women who have been benefited by her advice and medicine, never in all her experience has she published such a letter without the full consent, and often by special request of the writer.

The reason Mrs. Pinkham is so amply qualified to give advice in cases of female ills is for the reason that over one hundred thousand cases come before her each year,—some personally, others by mail, and this has been going on for twenty years, day after day, and day after day. Twenty years of constant success,—think of the knowledge thus gained. Surely, women are wise in seeking advice from a woman of such experience, especially when it is absolutely free.

As an illustration of the good coming from such advice we herewith publish two letters as portrait of Miss Hattie DeGroat, the reading of which should give every sick woman confidence in Mrs. Pinkham's ability to help them. This is only one of thousands of the same kind of letters which Mrs. Pinkham has on file.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have read with interest your advice to others so much that I thought I would write to you, for I have been suffering for a long time. I have had bearing-down pains, and such shooting pains go through me. I have headache, backache, and feel tired. Menstruation is very painful, sometimes have to stop work and lie down. My stomach bloats terribly, and I am troubled with whites. Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain,
July 24th, 1900.
MISS HATTIE DEGROAT, Succasunna, N. J."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can hardly find words to thank you for your advice and wonderful Vegetable Compound. I was in a terrible state, every part of my body ached, was very nervous, had hysterical spells. I think I would have become insane had it not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Your letter told me just what to do, and your medicine cured me, and I cannot express my thanks."
March 8th, 1901.
MISS HATTIE DEGROAT, Succasunna, N. J."

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female trouble; or such hosts of grateful friends. Do not be persuaded that any other medicine is just as good. Any dealer who suggests something else has no interest in your case. He is seeking a larger profit. Follow the record of this medicine, and remember that the thousands of cures of women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper were not brought about by "something else," but by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

all my days in Banbury, and I know there ain't strength enough in it when it's setting or when it's rising to tetch off a gun, without there's works going on in this place that ain't Scriptural nor fitting."

Not Attending to Business.

The shrewdness of one of the founders of a famous estate in Maine gave rise to many amusing stories, one of which has recently been retold.

One day the man, who was a large lumber operator, was superintending a crew which was breaking up a log jam in the river. Suddenly the spruce on which he was standing slipped. The lumberman dropped out of sight in the water, and the logs closed over him.

The nearest Frenchman saw the accident. Hopping briskly over the slippery logs, he helped the "boss" to land.

Nothing was said about the accident. After an hour or so the Frenchman began to get anxious because the reward which he considered due him was not forthcoming. He approached the lumberman, and pulling clumsily at his cap, stammered:

"I see you fall in, m'sieur, an' I run quick to pull you out 'fore you drowned."

"Prob'ly," snapped the lumberman, "prob'ly, if you'd been 'tending to business as you'd oughter, you wouldn't have seen me fall in."

Vast Returns.

Of the prodigious sum of $1,622,014,000 received by railway companies of the United States in the year just reported upon by the Interstate commerce commission, $610,713,000, or three-eighths, went for wages, $420,000,000 for other expenses of operation, $309,000,000 for interest and taxes, and $65,638,000 for permanent improvements and miscellaneous expenses, leaving $131,626,000 for dividends—about two and six-tenths per cent on the stock—and $94,764,000 for surplus or reserve.

MISS MAY MARKELL, A Society Belle of London, Canada.

MISS MAY MARKELL

of London, Ontario, Canada, is a beautiful girl who knows what suffering is and Wine of Cardui has brought her back to health. She is one of the social favorites of her home and her recovery to health has permitted her to enjoy the company of her many friends instead of lying on a bed of sickness and suffering. For the health she now enjoys she gives credit to Wine of Cardui. She writes:

"I have found Wine of Cardui an excellent remedy for female trouble. I suffered for three years with terrible bearing-down pains at the menstrual period. I could hardly stand on my feet and was never well. Wine of Cardui was the only medicine that I could depend on to do me any good, as I tried several with no success. Wine of Cardui cured me and I have now enjoyed perfect health for two years, and give you all the credit for I know you deserve it."

For a young girl Wine of Cardui is the best remedy to guide her through womanhood by starting the menstrual flow in a healthy and natural manner. Menstruation started right is very easy to keep regular through the years of mature womanhood. Then the "change of life" need not be feared. The Wine of Cardui is woman's best relief from youth to old age. A million women have secured blessed relief from their sufferings by taking this treatment. It relieves menstrual troubles in an incredibly short time. In a simple case of deranged menses Wine of Cardui never fails. Any physician will tell you that to remove the cause of a disease renders the cure easy, in fact seldom fails to remove the cause. If you would have the relief which Miss Markell secured by Wine of Cardui. You can take it without an examination and without publicity whatever. You can take it just as much benefit as if a doctor prescribed it for you. Thousands of women are feeling the vigor of returning health by taking Wine of Cardui.

Mail Contracts.

A new contract for carrying the mail from Canyon City to Mitchell, Wheeler county, will begin next Wednesday, when W. H. Damon and Sidney Green, both of Mount Vernon, will start work. The original contractor was R. N. Morrow of Sedalia, Mo., who took a contract at nearly $5000 for carrying the route. He sublet it to a Grant county resident, and a month or so ago abandoned the contract. Mr. Green has since been carrying the route, under another arrangement.

Morrow's abandonment of the contract caused considerable trouble in Grant county. He abandoned also the route from Canyon City southwest into the Izee country, and the route from Long Creek to Ukiah, where connection is made with the stage for Pendleton. J. W. Caldwell of Long Creek, is carrying the Long Creek-Ukiah route and will probably fulfill the contract abandoned by Morrow.

No Offense Intended.

At the exhibition of the International Livestock Association in Chicago last fall a portly old gentleman remarked to one of the men in charge of the cattle department, "You don't call this the 'fat stock show' any more, it seems."

"No," replied the other. "It's quality that counts with us now, and not quantity. You can put fat on any kind of an animal, and after it's all done he's nothing but a big fat—
—I beg pardon, sir. I—I hadn't noticed—I didn't mean—"

The portly old gentleman had begun to turn red, and the attempted apology only made the matter worse. After an ineffectual effort to express himself he waddled on, in speechless indignation.
