SCIENCE IN HOG RAISING.

W. W. Harrah Gives Many Reasons For His Choice of Breeds.

W. W. Harrah, of Wild Horse, five miles out, is an extensive hog raiser, and a vigorous advocate of the superand a vigorous advocate of the super-lority of the Poland China hog. He favors the thoroughbred as being able to make its living on less ground, and as hardler than any other hog ever introduced into the Northwest. He asserts that the Poland China is, tor instance, not only able to make Its: living on loss gro mnd. but when it is full fed it will lie down and remain quiet when the Berkshire will be chasing around keeping the herder busy keeping track of it. The Poland China, he also aserts, is a closer feeder for the reason that it is more doclle-it has no disposi-tion to run around, but confines itself from choice to less ground. Mr. Harrah last fall sold 400 hezd of Poland China hogs for the Sound of Poland China hogs for the Sound market, and every hog made the jour-ney without any injury of any kind. In the shipment were three hogs of miscellaneous breeding (or at least they were not Poland China) which were put in with his shipment by neighbors. neighbors. All three of these hogs which were contributed to the shipment by his neighbors had broken bones before the Sound was reacher and at the end the Sound was reacher and at the end of the journey were all dead. This he considers as proof positive that the Poland China is the best built, strongest and most hardy animal in addition to its other advantages. He can enumerate but one advantage the Berkshire has over the Poland China, and that is that being more disposed to run and exercise it is a safer ani-mal to herd and feed with cattle, as it is less liable to be trampled upon. At the same time he favors the strain of Poland China known as "Cunningham's Prolife"—a modified Poland China that is practically a Poland China that is practically a thoroughbred. Mr. Harrah has 40 thoroughbred. Mr. Harran has to acres fenced hog tight and will this spring and summer fence 286 acres more hog tight, and will go into the hog business more extensively than over. The head of his herd is a thor-oughbred Poland China, "Umatilia Chind." Chief.

Sweeney and McFadden Again.

Sweeney and McFadden Again. Boston, March 31.—Those two old rivals, George McFadden of New York, and Patkey Sweeney of this city, are scheduled to face one au-other in the ring again this time in a 12-round bout to be decided tonight hefore the Criterion Athletic Club. The pair have engaged in a number of encounters in the past, first one and then another being the victor. On all loccasions, however, they have put up interesting fights and the same result is expected when the come identifies in faithfully and appears to be in
