FAVOR CELEBRATION

MANY OTHER MERCHANTS SPEAK OF THE FOURTH.

General Opinion Seems to Be for a Genuine, Square Celebration—Arrangements Should Be Begun at Once.

The following expressions of opinion as to the advisability of Pendleton having a Fourth of July celebration have been made in addition to those published yesterday:

R. Alexander—By all means we should celebrate. Let us get up a genuine, old-fashioned affair that will entertain the people and make them glad they came here instead of going to some other place.

Badley & Zehner—Yes, let us celebrate, provided it does not become too expensive on our hands.

Baer & Daley—We are in for it. It can be made a good thing. But don't start it too early, as they are liable to forget what they are aiming at, and it may get to be "an old story."

T. C. Taylor—If we attempt it let us do it right, and in a way that will be really creditable to the town and acceptable to the outsiders.

Oliver & Co.—Pendleton "laid off" last year, in respect to celebrating the Fourth, and it will pay us to lay off again.

Brock & McComas—We did not celebrate last year, and it is time we did. It should not be passed up again.

Dr. W. E. Garretson—I don't see any good reason for not doing so. A good celebration, with floats, contests and music is a good paying proposition for the entire town.

F. W. Schmidt—In general terms I am heartily in favor of a celebration. And if we do, by all means let us have a good, real good band.

W. M. Blakley—If conducted right it should be done. Younger & Son—Am entirely indifferent. We neither favor it nor disapprove of it.

Baker & Folsom—One thing is sure, a celebration doesn't do the town nor anybody in it any good unless it is done right.

Jesse Falling—A live town must celebrate the Fourth of July and other occasions as well.

BARBERS IN COURT
