ABOUT "LUMPJAW"

A GLANDULAR DISEASE THAT ATTACKS BONE.

Readily Recognized in Cattle, But Hard to Recognize in Man—Spread of the Disease is Due to a Germ.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, member of the state board of health, in speaking of the reported prevalence of "lumpjaw" among cattle in Baker county, says that the state veterinary will be sent to inspect the herds and that all cattle having the disease will be condemned and killed.

Dr. Hutchinson lives in Portland. "Lump jaw," said Dr. Hutchinson, "is the name commonly used by cattle breeders, because the disease usually makes itself known on the lower jaw first. It is a glandular disease and attacks the bone, making a bad sore and causing a swelling of the jaw. The right name is actinomycosis. It is readily recognized in cattle but is hard to recognize in man. Next to tuberculosis, it is the first thing an inspector looks for when he is inspecting a herd of cattle."

"The spread of the disease is due to a germ. Cattle have running sores in their mouths and by eating out of the same manger and drinking out of the same trough as the others of the herd, transmit it."

"And how is it transmitted to man?" he was asked.

"Only by eating the diseased meat," he replied. "The germs are not inhaled, as the tubercular germs, but must be taken internally. If an animal that is diseased is used as food the disease may be transmitted to man. Thorough cooking might kill the germs, but they are hard to kill."

"The disease is rarely communicated from one man to another," he continued. "It differs in that respect from tuberculosis. If the people should drink out of the same glass as the patient or should in any way take internally any of the germs, the disease would be communicated, but no danger arises from being in the same atmosphere as one with the disease."

With the announcement that cattle of Baker county have the lump jaw comes an interesting question as to what health officer should look after the condition. Dr. Woods Hutchinson is the state health officer and has charge of anything that threatens the public health. Dr. Robert McLean is the state veterinarian and has charge of diseases among cattle. J. W. Bailey is state food and dairy commissioner and can protest against the use of meat unfit for food, while Dr. E. N. Hutchinson is at the head of the bureau of animal industry and can protest against the use of diseased meat.

"I am satisfied," said Dr. Woods Hutchinson, "that lump jaw among the cattle is a menace to the public health and that I have power to act. Others have the same power, but it is the duty of the state board of health to see that the public health is protected. Dr. E. H. Hutchinson only takes cognizance of meat to be used in interstate commerce. If an attempt should be made to send diseased meat out of the state he could interfere. J. W. Bailey confines himself more to dairy products and to seeing that foods that are sold are not adulterated. The responsibility would seem to rest either with the state board or with the state veterinary."—Baker City Herald.

OWL TEA HOUSE

THE BEST MANUFACTURING COMPANY STEAM AND HORSE POWER COMBINED HARVESTERS

As McCormick was the original inventor of the reaper and er, so was "Best" the original inventor of the first successful combined Harvester.

We wish to call the attention of our friends who are contemplating purchasing a Side-Hill Combined Harvester the coming season. We are still in the lead in the way of improvements, in harrow, machinery, and which our farmer friends have rightfully named "KING OF THE FIELD." After watching its work in the field past sixteen years, and for the season of 1903 it will be still the same as we have made a number of valuable improvements.

The MACHINE is the strongest and most durable made.

IMPROVED DRIVE WHEELS—5 feet 4 inches high, 22 inch main drive wheel, which is controlled by the driver.

RUNAWAYS—are a rare thing with us. There is a brake main drive wheel, which is controlled by the driver.

HEADER—is driven independently from the grain wheel of the arator, and is arranged with a clutch for throwing in and out of when turning corners.

THE SEPARATOR—We wish to call your attention particularly to the separating qualities of our machine. We claim that no combined harvester on the market can in any way compare with the speed and thoroughness of work, in all kinds and conditions of grain, and will require less team to operate it.

AUTOMATIC GOVERNOR—Our patent wind governor governs the blast so that at any speed at which the harvester may be traveling, the wind is automatically regulated and preventing the shoe and carrying the grain over in late straw.

We take pleasure in inviting you to call on Temple & Wilcox, Pendleton, and make a personal inspection of each and every one of our machines before placing your orders. Every machine warranted to do all we claim for it and to be first-class in every respect.
