IRONWORKERS

Delegates Arriving in Columbus, Ohio, to Attend the Annual Convention.

PROPOSED IN ORGANIZATION.

Discussion of the Wage Scale Conditions of Labor an Important Feature—President Shaffer May Resign His Position.

Columbus, O., April 13.—Delegates arriving in large numbers for the convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, which will begin here tomorrow and will continue for 10 days or more. This organization is one of the largest and most influential labor bodies in America, and there are several things that combine to make the present gathering the most important in its history. The steel workers are sending their first delegate to this convention.

Proposed radical changes are proposed in the laws of the organization, as doing away with annual conventions, redistricting the local lodges, and committees to make wage scales business agreements, and these have been submitted for consideration of the gathering. Another important feature to be considered and acted upon is the proposition of the Republic and Steel Company, which offers stock to the workmen on easy terms. The company also proposes to give the workmen holding shares a director, who shall have the power as any of the other directors. The association will discuss the proposition and if it deems the proposition a good one the workmen of the company, who are all members of the association, will be advised to take it.

The discussion of the wage scale conditions of labor for the ensuing year will, of course, be one of the most important features of the convention. No radical demands are anticipated, however, and it is thought an amicable agreement with the owners will be reached without difficulty. The election of officers is attracting more attention than the delegates than usual, due to the opposition that has cropped out against the re-election of President Theodore Shaffer. There is no disguising the fact that President Shaffer's management of the late successful strike of the steel workers has caused considerable dissatisfaction among the rank and file of the association. Friends of the president, however, express the opinion that he is still the most influential man in the organization and believe he will be re-elected. Louis Good, of Chicago, is being boomed for president by the opposition.

Attempts were made to support the merger stock at the beginning, but heavy selling orders crowded in from many parts of the country and the receding tide in values could not be checked.

The heaviest losses are in those corporations whose status might be attacked on the same grounds as the merger. Large blocks of Union Pacific and Rock Island were thrown on the market. MISSION ROCK CASE.

Supreme Court Holds That California Had a Right to Submerged Lands, But Not to the Islands.

Washington, April 13.—California's famous Mission Rock case was decided by the supreme court today. The rocks proper are two small barren islands in San Francisco Bay. McKinley set them aside for naval purposes. In 1870 the California legislature conveyed the submerged lands surrounding the islands to the Mission Rock Company, who built them up and created 14 acres which they improved.

The United States brought suit for possession of the islands and also the submerged lands, and won in the circuit court. The court of appeals modified it so that the United States had no title to the submerged lands, but held the islands which have a surface of less than an acre.

This decision was sustained in the supreme court today, holding that California had a title to the submerged lands and had a right to convey them and that it wasn't the policy of the president to receive more than the islands themselves. The island in question is valued at $350,000.

HAS JACCARD ATTACHMENT.

Woolen Mills Now Prepared to Weave Designs That Are Not Geometric—No Limit to Range of Illustration.

When the Woolen Mill resumes operations, which will be in a very short time following the shut-down for repairs, it will be prepared to do a line of work which has never before been handled by any mill west of the Rocky Mountains. This line of work stands in the same relation to the art of weaving designs in woolen goods that freehand drawing does in the realm of pure art. Not that a machine has been invented that will do freehand designing, but the Jaccard attachment which will be in operation soon in the Pendleton mills will weave designs that are not geometric. So that there will be practically no limit to the range of illustrations that can be put upon the goods that will be turned out by the Pendleton mills hereafter.
