OWL TEA HOUSE

THE BEST MANUFACTURING COMPANY
STEAM AND HORSE POWER
COMBINED HARVESTERS

As McCormick was the original inventor of the reaper and header, so was "Best" the original inventor of the first successful Combined Harvester.

We wish to call the attention of our friends who contemplate purchasing a Side-Hill Combined Harvester the coming season, that we are still in the lead in the way of improvements, in harvesting machinery, and which our farmer friends have rightfully named the "KING OF THE FIELD." After watching its work in the field the past sixteen years, and for the season of 1903 it will be still better, as we have made a number of valuable improvements.

- The MACHINE is the strongest and most durable made.
- IMPROVED DRIVE WHEELS—5 feet 4 inches high, 22 inch tire.
- RUNAWAYS—are a rare thing with us. There is a brake on main drive wheel, which is controlled by the driver.
- HEADER—is driven independently from the grain wheel of separator, and is arranged with a clutch for throwing in and out of gear when turning corners.
- THE SEPARATOR—We wish to call your attention particularly to the separating qualities of our machine. We claim that no other combined harvester on the market can in any way compare with it for speed and thoroughness of work, in all kinds and conditions of grain, and will require less team to operate it.
- AUTOMATIC GOVERNOR—Our patent wind governor on the fans governs the blast so that at any speed at which the harvester may be traveling, the wind is automatically regulated and prevents clogging the shoe and carrying the grain over in the straw.

We take pleasure in inviting you to call on Temple & Wilcox, Pendleton, and make a personal inspection of each and every part of our machines before placing your orders. Every machine warranted to do all we claim for it and to be first-class in every respect.

FUTURE OF ALASKA

POSSIBILITIES OF TERRITORY
BEYOND COMPREHENSION.

Leaving Out the Great Mining Possibilities, Her Resources Are Rich for Commerce, Cattle Raising, Agriculture and Fishing.

D. H. Jarvis, former lieutenant in the revenue cutter service, and at the present time collector of customs at Sitka, Alaska, is in Washington conferring with treasury officials as to matters in his field. Lieutenant Jarvis is generally recognized as the most thoroughly posted man in the United States on Alaska. His assignments in the revenue cutter service for 15 years were continuously in that region, and he led the memorable overland expedition that took success to a number of whalers imprisoned in the ice at Point Barrow, in the Bering sea. The predicament of these men was something terrible, and the treasury department started Lieutenant Jarvis with relief supplies in the early part of the winter of 1897-98. He reached the men and furnished them with food and medicines, and is the only man who ever undertook such a journey. The customs affairs at Sitka had been growing worse for a number of years and the treasury department a year ago induced Lieutenant Jarvis to put aside his revenue cutter work long enough to take charge of the government work at Sitka. He complied with the request and has brought order out of chaos. Mr. Jarvis has charge of supports that are 2000 miles away from Sitka and that require over 30 days to reach with official messages.

"The only trouble with Alaska is that the people of the United States do not know what a grand country it is," said Mr. Jarvis to a Star reporter. "A campaign of education in the United States would add to the population of Alaska by many thousands and would soon make it one of the great countries of the world. The possibilities of the territory are beyond comprehension. Leaving out mining—for everybody knows that Alaska is rich in gold and silver—the future of the territory will be a brilliant one of commerce, cattle raising, agriculture and fishing. There is the greatest ignorance about Alaska. Why, some of the rich islands of the territory are larger than several of the small states. There is a coast line to Alaska of 25,000 miles. Think of that. The people in the states associate Alaska with seals and icebergs, and whenever Alaska is mentioned that is about the first and only thing that comes to the mind, unless it is something remote about gold discoveries.

"All this winter at Sitka the thermometer never went below 8 degrees above zero. I believe someone was telling me that the weather had reached that point a number of times the past winter in Washington. It certainly was way below that at many places throughout the country. Of course, Sitka is on the coast and that is to see the future development of Alaska so far as stockraising and agriculture are concerned. There are 2000 miles of coast in Southern Alaska, where the temperature is never below 8 degrees above zero and where it is as mild in the dead of winter as in half the United States. Just think of that. Experiments are now being made in many places as to cattle and sheep raising. Only recently 1000 sheep were placed on Dokiah Island, which is 100 miles long and 60 wide. It is believed that the sheep will stand the mild climate well, and that there will be less feeding of the flock in winter than in many of the Western and Northwestern states. The grass in spring and summer grows temptingly green, and cattle and sheep grow fat and contented. As to vegetation there is hardly a place in Alaska where they will not attain splendid growth. Of course, the interior of Alaska, far back from the coast, is cold, and the summers short, but there are hundreds and thousands of the most fertile valleys in the interior where vegetables will grow easily. I saw a man at Cape Nome last year making a good living selling vegetables he had raised from a small garden. Cape Nome is a good way up the coast, too.

Mild Weather Along Coast.
"The mild weather along the coast is caused, it is generally supposed, by the Japanese current. Whatever causes it, however, the coast country is one of the most desirable spots in the world and before many years will swarm with people engaged in cattle raising and sheep raising, agriculture and commerce. As to the agricultural development of the interior I don't know, except that in the summer any vegetable that grows may be raised with ease. I have known three crops of radishes grown from the same spot of ground in Alaska in one summer."

Mr. Jarvis said that the land laws of Alaska are now more favorable than ever before to settlers, and that this will induce many people to go there. The incentive to agricultural development will not be great until sufficient people reach the territory to afford a market for the things that are raised.

THE CHILDREN ENJOY

Life out of doors and out of the games which they play and the enjoyment which they receive and the efforts which they make, comes the greater part of that healthful development which is so essential to their happiness when grown. When a laxative is needed the remedy which is given to them to cleanse and sweeten and strengthen the internal organs on which it acts, should be such as physicians would sanction, because its component parts are known to be wholesome and the remedy itself free from every objectionable quality. The one remedy which physicians and parents, well-informed, approve and recommend and which the little ones enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects, is Syrup of Figs—and for the same reason it is the only laxative which should be used by fathers and mothers.

Syrup of Figs is the only remedy which acts gently, pleasantly and naturally without griping, irritating, or nauseating and which cleanses the system effectually, without producing that constipated habit which results from the use of the old-time cathartics and modern imitations, and against which the children should be so carefully guarded. If you would have them grow to manhood and womanhood, strong, healthy and happy, do not give them medicines, when medicines are not needed, and when nature needs assistance in the way of a laxative, give them only the simple, pleasant and gentle—Syrup of Figs.

Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the combination of the laxative principles of plants with pleasant aromatic syrups and juices, but also to our original method of manufacture and as you value the health of the little ones, do not accept any of the substitutes which unscrupulous dealers sometimes offer to increase their profits. Please to remember, the full name of the Company—CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. is printed on the front of every package. In order to get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine only. For sale by all reliable druggists.

morning's session of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. This afternoon the feature was a discussion by Charles R. Flint, of United States minister to Spain, George Winfield Scott, of the University of Pennsylvania, and Clifford S. Walton, of the Chilian Claims Commission, of the subject of the policy of the United States in conflicts between Europe and Latin America.

MARCHING ON ACRE.
Bolivian Army Advancing to Attack Brazilians in Wilderness.

San Francisco, April 18.—Major H. L. Bernstein, chief of artillery of the army of Bolivia, arrived on the steamer Acapulco Thursday on his way to Japan, to which country, he said, he has been sent as a special envoy by the government of the South American republic. He refused, however, to divulge the nature of the mission.

Major Bernstein brought the news that a Bolivian army of 2,000 men is on the march to the Acre department to make an attack on the Brazilian forces which forcibly occupied the district some time ago. President Pando, of Bolivia, is personally leading the army. The country to be traversed is virtually a wilderness, and three or four months must elapse before the troops can arrive and begin active operations to regain possession. The major is not very hopeful as to the outcome.

CREAMERIES RUN OUT.
Forest Grove's Condensed Milk Factory Gets the Business.

Hillsboro, Ore., April 18.—The condensed milk factory at Forest Grove has won its first big victory in this county, and close observers now have no hesitancy in saying that the advantage is to be a permanent one. The Farmington creamery, one of the finest in the county, and having the largest patronage of any of the creameries on the West Side, yesterday struck its colors to the new concern, and voted to close the institution for the season. The Blooming creamery will not resume, this stand being burned down a few weeks ago. Other county creameries are small, and it is confidently asserted that only those specially enjoying favored localities, will survive the onslaught of the Forest Grove and Glencoe factories.

Intercontinental Railroad.
New York, April 18.—Charles M. Pepper, United States commissioner to South America, charged with the promotion of the Intercontinental railroad sails today for Colon en route to Chili. Later he will proceed to Buenos Ayres, which he will make his headquarters for some time, making trips thence into Brazil and the Atlantic states. He will shape his return trip through Bolivia, Peru, and Colombia, reaching the last-named country next November. Much interest is manifested in the railroad interests in Mr. Pepper's mission.
