FOR GOOD ROADS

MOST NECESSARY THING IN AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT

Irrigation is Necessary to the Nation's Further Internal Growth and Development Which Means Also Better Roads.

The two things most necessary to the further internal development of this country are good roads and a comprehensive system of national irrigation, says the West Coast Trade.

Barren Land Reclaimed. Irrigation means the adding to the public domain millions of acres of land otherwise barren, useless, and uninhabitable.

England's Vast Plains. In furthering irrigation works on a large scale England has taken the lead and is the most progressive.

A National Enterprise. Irrigation works, from the fact that they can not be confined within certain artificial limits, are interstate in their character and of benefit to the general public.

The Economy of Good Roads. Good roads mean the saving of millions of dollars annually to the farmers in the cost of hauling their produce to the railway, boat line, or markets.

Good Roads Mark of Progress. All history shows that the value and importance of good roads has been recognized by every government in the world.

What Has Already Been Done. Much has been done in the improvement of the country roads in many of the Eastern states and more is being done every year.

Revival of Interest. There is a revival of interest in the good roads movement throughout the whole country.

Resolutions were passed favoring the working of all short time convicts on the public roads and endorsing the Brownlow bill recently introduced in congress.

"I ain't got no home, lady. Kin I lay down here and sleep in the back this morning?" "You may sleep there provided you clean it all off in the morning."

Remember the name—DOAN'S—and take no other. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt.

Charles W. Beale, expressman, living at 300 West Tustin St., corner of Aura street, and well known to every resident of Pendleton, says: "For four years past I have been troubled with kidney disorders, cause, I think, by heavy lifting required in my occupation."

The strain was such that I was unable to stoop or rise again without pain and effort. The kidney secretions were irregular, especially at night and caused me much annoyance.

When I first heard of Doan's Kidney Pills I decided to try them and got a box at Brock & McComas' drug store. They have relieved me to a very great extent, both as to the backache and the urinary trouble.
