PROMINENT MEN TO APPEAR

EDITOR CHICAGO INTER-OCEAN PREFERS CHARGES.

House Committee Appointed by Illinois Legislature to Investigate the Boodle Charges in Traction Bills.

Springfield, Ill., April 28.—At the request of the chairman of the house committee appointed to investigate the boodle charges in connection with the Chicago traction bills, the house today postponed further action pending the hearings by the committee of Editor Hindman of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, who was tried before the committee last night.

He is said to have given that body a number of names, including J. H. Eckley, president of the Chicago Commercial National, Fred Blount, vice-president of the Chicago National, Attorney Bliss, of the Chicago City Railway Company, and several other prominent representatives who are said to have been requested to appear. Hindman's charges are not specified and it is not known whether any direct allegations have been made.

Monroe Doctrine to be Discussed.

St. Louis, Mo., April 28.—The debate between Washington University and William Jewell college, which is to be held in Memorial hall tonight, is attracting much attention and will be an important event in the college year. The question, upon which Washington will take the negative and William Jewell the affirmative side, is: "Resolved, That the United States should maintain the Monroe Doctrine in so far as it forbids all acquisition of South American territory by any European nation."

Meeting of Texas Pythians.

Fort Worth, Texas, April 28.—Men wearing swords at their sides and gay plumes in their hats are much in evidence today about the streets and public places of Fort Worth. They are the delegates to the annual convocation of the Texas Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias. The sessions were opened today in the city hall and will continue until Friday. Elaborate entertainment has been provided for the visiting knights.

PREPARING FOR DEDICATION OF ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION

City in Gala Attire Previous to the Arrival of the President and Other Notables.

ROOSEVELT GIVEN AN OVATION AT THE CAPITAL OF IOWA AND SPEAKS TO IMMENSE AUDIENCE.

St. Louis, April 28.—Outward and visible signs are abundant in St. Louis that something big is on the tapis. The day previous to the arrival of President Roosevelt and other notables who are to attend the dedication of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition has been a busy one in many quarters. The immense tract where the great white buildings of the world's fair are rapidly nearing completion was naturally the chief scene of activity. A veritable army of workmen is engaged in putting things in spick and span shape for the hundreds of thousands of visitors the latter part of this week may gain a favorable idea of the magnitude of the coming exposition and to the efforts the Mound City is making to insure the success of the enterprise. A surprise is in store for those visitors who have gained an impression that, owing to the opening being a year off, little actual building has been done. Of course, the exposition as a whole is in any very incomplete state, but a few buildings are actually finished and when the thousands assemble Thursday at the Palace of Liberal Arts, they will see on all sides the great structures sufficiently advanced to show what they will look like when finished. Just at present, however, the workmen are mostly engaged in removing debris and rubbing off the rough edges of the picture so that a pleasing view of the grounds may be obtained. President Roosevelt and the ambassadors of foreign nations will ride in the dedication parade over asphalt drives and pass between the finished facades of six mammoth structures. A vast amount of sculpture is in place in the main court, and the flags of all nations are being strung along the cornice line of the finished buildings.

In many parts of the city decorators are busy putting up flags and bunting and within the next 24 hours the business section of the city will blossom out in a mass of color. The business district, however, does not monopolize the decorations. In every quarter of town, in the manufacturing and residence districts, where neither the president nor any of the other notables from out of the city will be likely to go, shops, factories and houses are decking out in honor of the occasion. In the most out-of-the-way corners flags have been rigged out and portraits of the president exhibited. Everybody believes that the celebration will draw a bigger crowd to town than ever gathered here before, but it remains true that in hotels there is usually room for one more. The Southern, Planters and other big hostilities are booked full for the next four days and several more of them are arranging with boarding houses and furnished-room owners to send the expected overflow to these places. The weather is perfect. The Utah delegation was the first to arrive. Five thousand militiamen are already in tents on the exposition grounds. The hotels are inadequate for the crowds that are constantly arriving. Guardsmen From Buffalo.

Buffalo, April 28.—One thousand guardsmen left here this morning on three special trains for the St. Louis Exposition dedication. Leaving Washington. Washington, April 28.—This is a veritable get-away day here. Four specials one immediately after the other, have left for the St. Louis dedication of the fair. The first special carried a band and the Potomac lodge of Masons. The next was a correspondents' special with seven Pullmans of newspaper men. In the next were the diplomatists in charge of Coekrell, Admiral Dewey, General Young and several members of the cabinet were aboard. Herbert Von Sternberg and Minister Bowen were compelled to remain behind on account of the Venezuelan negotiations. Cassini was also compelled to remain on account of the Manchurian questions liable to arise. The next train carries ex-President Cleveland and party. The government board of the exposition and many residents of the city will leave later in the day on another special. Governor Hurd on the Way. New Orleans, April 28.—Governor Hurd and staff left for St. Louis this morning.

Roosevelt at Iowa Capital. Des Moines, Iowa, April 28.—The presidential train arrived at the Burlington station shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon. The president was met at the train by the full committee in charge of the day's arrangements, headed by Governor Cummins, Mayor Brenton, Congressman Hull and President Lyons of the Commercial Exchange. All approaches to the depot were roped off for a block in either direction, and the distinguished visitors passed to their carriages between lines of Iowa National Guardsmen. The first hour of the president's stay was given over to a tour of the city. The route of the parade extended over several miles of gayly decorated streets, which were packed on each side with a solid mass of people. The police arrangements were of the best, and there was no delay in getting to the state capitol, where the speakers' stand had been erected. There were 20,000 gathered in the capitol grounds and the adjacent thoroughfares, and the president was in good voice, so only those on the extreme edge of the crowd missed any portion of his speech. The president's speech was frequently interrupted with applause.

The crowds that lined the streets to the Rock Island station were the largest ever seen here. The president left for Okaloosa and Ottumwa amid the cheering and the waving of handkerchiefs from all who could get within a block of the station.

President at Shenandoah. Shenandoah, Ia., April 28.—The presidential train arrived at 7 o'clock this morning and he was greeted by 10,000 people. Congressman Hepburn met the president. Governor Cummins and party will meet him at Clarinda. At the second stopping place the president addressed the people from the platform.

Clearfield, Iowa, April 28.—Secretary Shaw joined the president at Clarinda, where he made a short speech. He also made short speeches at Sharpsburg and Vanwert.

FIGHTING LUMPY JAW.

Four Cases Found in Dairy Herds by La Grande City Marshal.

La Grande, April 28.—Four cases of "lumpy jaw" in a most advanced stage, were found by City Marshal Rayburn, in a herd of cattle, being pastured partly in the city limits, near the old Alliance Flouring mill, Monday evening.

The diseased cattle were running at large with a herd of dairy cows and young stock and were at once taken in charge by the authorities. A strict search is now being made by the health authorities for other cases of the disease and all the slaughter pens, dairy sheds and town herds are being closely watched. It is not known how long the cases have existed or to what extent the healthy cattle have been inoculated, but the city health board is determined to stamp it out at once.

Change of Eating House.

La Grande, April 28.—After May 1 meals will be served at Hotel Foley, to passengers on No. 6, the 8:45 east-bound train. Heretofore meals have been furnished at the Spokane cafe, but owing to the increased travel, the accommodations are inadequate.

Mexicans Obey Her Blindly, Thinking She Has Great Power as a Healer —Mexican Laborers Strike for Higher Wages.

Los Angeles, April 28.—Santa Teresa has taken a hand in the strike of the Mexican laborers on the street railway lines. Last night she made 50 non-union men quit. The Mexicans obey her blindly. She has a great power among them as a healer.

ELOPED TWICE.

And Pearl Sawyer Had a Divorce and Alimony Though Not Yet of Age.

Miss Pearl Sawyer, of Omaha, not yet of age, has eloped with William Ostrander, Jr., making her second runaway marriage with the same man within a year. After the first elopement she won a suit for divorce and was granted $600 alimony, which was paid.

Friends accidentally met the couple as they were hastening to catch a south-bound train. Ostrander met Miss Sawyer, who was an expert skater, as a high school girl, at a rink. They were married secretly on December 3. The divorce was granted April 2, 1903.

The boy induced his mother, Mrs. John H. Shaver, of Cedar Rapids, to come to Omaha and assist in a reconciliation. The mother took apartments at the same aristocratic boarding house at which Miss Sawyer lived and almost daily took the young lady driving. She finally drew the two together by a pretended chance meeting on the street. The same evening Ostrander took up his home with his mother and renewed his courtship.

Young Ostrander recently came into possession of a fortune through the death of his father. Attorneys searched for months for the boy at the time of his father's death and finally found him working as a cowboy on a ranch in Texas.

Belongs to Sportsmen's Association.

Dorsey Burgess, of Omaha, representing an Eastern rubber concern, was the guest of H. J. Stillman yesterday. Mr. Burgess has been a member of the Pendleton Sportsmen's Association for several years, but this was his first visit to the place. Several of the sports went with him to the shooting range and indulged in a half day of shooting.

MURDER MYSTERY

Geo. L. Mills, a Los Angeles Money Lender, Lured Into a House and Killed.

POLICE SO FAR HAVE NO CLUE TO MURDERER.

Have Been Five Murders During the Past Month—Two Others, Thomas Cummings and J. M. Howard, Were Killed in Exactly the Same Manner.

Los Angeles, April 28.—The police say that Williams, the man who it is supposed lured George L. Mills, the money lender, to a house on Sixteenth street and murdered him, and who said he worked for Sachs Bros., of San Francisco, had an accomplice. The police say they have no clue, but are looking for several. One is Dr. Walsh, the divorced husband of Mrs. Mills. The killing of Mills is the fifth murder mystery of the month. Thomas Cumming and J. M. Howards were killed exactly in the same manner.

BETTER FACILITIES.

Judge S. A. Lowell Speaks of Advantages to Country Pupils Under New School Law.

In conversation with Judge Lowell the reporter learned some of the details of the law which went into effect in this state February 17, providing for the transportation to school under some conditions of pupils at the public expense.

The school board, by the authority of the voters expressed at a legal school meeting shall furnish transportation to all pupils living at a distance of two or more miles from the school house, while the school board in its discretion may transport at the district's expense pupils living within a less distance than two miles. The school board may also, in its discretion, pay the board of pupils at some point near the school if such an arrangement will be cheaper for the district than to pay mileage.

The school board is authorized to levy a tax to carry out the provisions of the instructions given it by the patrons at the regular meeting. The school board may also on authority vested in it by patrons at a regular meeting suspend the school altogether and arrange for transportation to and payment of tuition in an adjoining district, or if thought best, in a district which does not adjoin the district in which school has been suspended. The expense of such suspension followed by the payment of tuition in some other district and of transportation to it to be paid out of the common school fund, or, if authorized by a majority at a regular school meeting, out of a tax levied for the purpose.

In Judge Lowell's opinion, this law will probably increase the attendance upon the Pendleton city schools and also the schools of all other towns having graded schools and which maintain a high average of educational opportunities. Thousands of children will be given under this law vastly better school facilities than they had before, and at no greater expense to the taxpayers.

The advantage will not by any means be one-sided. It will be reciprocal. The town's trading population will be greatly increased as well as the school population, and every enterprising, modern town can easily arrange to reap a great benefit from the operations of the law. It will prove a great stimulus to school affairs in general and to education in the abstract.
