Wheat Market,

Portland, April 30-There is noth ing doing in the wheat markets her or on Paget Sound. Stocks are very large and no one is in need of wheat: the season is practically over as to export shipments, several vessels are on the en route list chartered and when these arrive the season will be over. There is no outlook for new business as the domand for foreign trade is very dull and no inquiries are coming in either from the Cape of United Kingdom, and if say new business was to take place exporters would not have to go in the country for wheat, as every house in the country ports all over the country out here say that spring is fully a month later than usual. The week just passed, as well as the past three weeks, had too cold nights and too cloudy days for crops to grow appreciably, conse-quently the grass and wheat are but slightly improved. The weather was slightly improved. The weather was exceedingly tavorable for plowing, seeding and planting, and mach of such work has been done. In some places it is only begun; in others, well under way, and in some locali-ties they are finished. Quotations show a change. Club is now quoted at Tic, blue stem 74c and valley 75c cor huskel per bushel.

San Francisco, April 30.—The wheat market fails to present any new features here. Exporters are all through for the season. Only two vecasels are loading. Stocks of wheat for export purposes are almost clean-ed up and whatever remains in the hands of farmers will be used up by millers. A large amount will come millers. A large amount will come down from the north yet this season to help out. Flour trade is not brisk enough at present to compel millers to pay fancy prices for wheat, hence there is very little doing Quotations for shipping range from $1.35 to $1.40 per central and for milling from $1.45 to $1.50.

Barley-Market is dull and weak and the receipts are very light. As there is no call for export there will
