BEEF STEERS STILL SCARCE LIKEWISE MUTTON SHEEP.

All Prices to Consumars at a Standstill - Expected That Strawberries Will Be Cheaper Inside of a Week -Little Doing in Hides.

The local retail market is and has been for the past week as level and even as a well laid floor. Throughout the list there has been no change worthy of note. One small change is reported in the price of steers, they having jumped from $4@4.40 to $4@4.475. 4.75. The buyers may have to pay all the top figures pretty generally if the market keeps as tight as it is now. Livestock of all kinds is scarce and hard to buy; in fact, the market is becoming so stringent that the large buyers are being forced out of the country to the southern ranges to fill their orders. Sheep are well cleaned up, but are easier than cattle. Several large purchases have been made in yearlings during the past week, but throughout the price has remained the same. Hides and pelts are just as they have been for two weeks past. One slight rise is reported in coyote skins, they having raised from a pos-sible 70 to 80 cents. Only the finest skins being that price though. Beef, dry, jumped ½ cent on a special deal, but sank back to the level and have remained quiet since.

Strawberries are now in the market at 30c per box, and are of good qual-ity and size. By the end of the week if the weather remains warm, it is

The Wheat Trade.

The Wheat Trade.

Portland, May 7.-We have noth ing of consequence to chronicle as to the local wheat market. Very liftle has transpired since our last review except that several large parcels of wheat held in this country by farmers have been sold at a de-cline of 8 cents per bushel what at one time was offered for the same. A few more good-sized parcels still remain in the interior, but the principal part of the crop is at tide water. Quotations are steady for club wheat at 71c and blue stem at 74c, and valley 75c per bushel. Crop advices from all over the Northwest during week say spring-like weather has finally arrived and the past week was the warmest and most favorable growth so far this season. Winter wheat is doing finely, and is making good progress. The early spring wheat is well up and growing nicely. and late spring seeding is about com-pleted. The condition of soil and weather could not be more favorable for such work and although the spring is late it is thought that the prospects are favorable for a good cropconsummated if buyers would in-crease their bids a trifle. There will be little doing this month in the way of exports, but for June and July it looks as if the mills will be able to take a summer vacation. Shipments to South American points have fallen off considerably and the demand from there is also dull.

Millstuffs. There is a good demand for all kinds of mill offal, and the same finds ready sale. There is no accumulation Prompt Diningroom service. ready sale. There is no accumulation of stock, as dealers at times have Pendleton Retail Grocery Prices.

Rice—Best bend vice.

No change is noted in this market since our last review and very little business is being done. Dealers say that demand has entirely ceased and whatever call there is for feed is so small that they can say that there is absolutely nothing doing. Some feed is held in the country, but sellers are very scarce, as prices are a great deal larger there than at tide water points. Quotations are for feed about $20 per ton and dull at that.

San Francisco Markets.

San Francisco, May 7.—This mar-ket has taken a vacation and from now on to the opening of the new season we can look for a dull sea-son, as the amount of wheat on hand son, as the amount of wheat of name at present will not exceed, from all sources, 50,000 tons in the state. Exporters are doing nothing and claim the season for shipping is over. Millers are only purchasers of wheat at present. The crop situation at present shows no change and every indi cation points to a large crop. Quotations for shipping grades are $1.35 to $1.40 and milling $1.45 to $1.50 per
