Walla Walla and the umpire changed the Indians' happy smile into a pair of black eyes and a groan of defeat yesterday at the Walla Walla grounds. But while the umpire should be credited with a large assist on the official score, he did not do it all. Walla Walla went into the game with a string of unbroken, large and symmetrical goose eggs on the score board across the field, and with set teeth and the strength of despair outplayed the Indians at several points. Their stick work was superior and the record in the error column shows that the red stockings had done too hard duty and were tired by their run of victories.

Taylor pitched for the Pendleton boys and went into the game sore from his 14-inning effort of the other day. He did yeoman service, but held his arm for future use. Six hits made from him is not a bad record, and he pitched good ball.

Bradley, of the Walla Walla boys, made a home run in the third inning, and Edwards put two sacks to his record and a close decision by the umpire forcing one run; the first of the fifth. The sixth inning was where they spread the paint. Here the umpire won the game for the Walla Walla boys on his decision on an out. With two men out he held a man at his place when he should have been retired and the Waterloo commenced. Three hits were bunched on Taylor and the game was won.

Gass made three of the six hits to Pendleton's credit, and played the game of the day. Six hits, four errors, and no runs stare the Pendleton fans in the face, while the Walla Walla contingent glean six hits, one error and five runs from the record of the official who keeps the score.

Brown caught in Sunday's game, and Taylor built the benders. Hartman, Neagle and Daviscount held the bases down from right to left. Dunn did the honors in the short position, while Kreeger, Gass and Collier cultivated the garden land.

On Thursday next Walla Walla will come down for a return series of four games, and Pendleton will be ready. Spiedell, a new man from North Yakima, will be here Thursday to play shortstop. Wilkins will be here to stand behind the plate. Klinkhammer will be here to pitch and Southpaw Marcut will help him out. The team will be shifted around into something like final form and good ball is assured.

COLLEGE BOYS ROBBED.

Some Miscreant Left the Boys of the Field Meet Penniless.

Last night's celebration by the boys of Whitman academy over their victories in the field meet, and declamation contest was rather expensive, says the Statesman. About $50 was stolen from the different rooms in Billings hall. There is absolutely no clue to the thief, but it is thought that the money was taken while the boys were out celebrating around the immense bonfire which was built in the campus after the close of the contest. The hall was left open this time. One boy lost $18, another $12, and one of the boys visiting with one of the track teams was relieved of $10. Most of the money was taken from desks, etc. But in some cases the thief went through even trouser pockets for small change. The boys are very indignant over the matter and vow that it would be pretty hot for the culprit if he were found out.

"Yes," she said bitterly, "he is a bigamist—a bigamist!" "A bigamist!" they cried. "Alas, yes," she said. "Although I didn't know it at the time, he was wedded to his business at the time he married me, and the worst of it is, that he still deems that first wife the more important."—Chicago Post.

"Is it possible," said the first magnate, "that our combination is illegal?" "Well, it seems so," said the second magnate, "but I'm quite sure that the congressmen who passed the law didn't mean it. I have letters of apology from at least a dozen of them."—Puck.

Notice to Builders.
