PLAY RAGGED BALL

SPECTATORS HOPE TO SEE SOMETHING BETTER TODAY.

Pendleton Won Out, But it Was a Slow Game and Uninteresting Except for a Few Touches Here and There.

YESTERDAY'S GAMES.

Pendleton 15,	Walla Walla 4,
Dayton 9,	Collfax 2.

STANDING OF CLUBS.

Dayton	9	5	4	556
Walla Walla	9	4	5	444
Collfax	9	3	6	333

Sore arms, sore fingers, sore eyes and sore shoulders seemed to be the feature of yesterday's baseball game. Berry, the Walla Walla twister man, seemed to go star-gazing once in a while, and while gazing off into space would throw at the moon, the sun or any old thing except the batter. Then, having awakened to the error of his ways, he would soak poor Lefty Neagle on some vulnerable portion of his anatomy and send him to first.

But Berry didn't lose the game. The work behind him was irregular and poor. There was no team play and the individual work was of the now-you-see-it and-now-you-don't order, as is proven by the score. Pendleton didn't put up a star game by any means. There were some errors and once in a while a little misjudgment would creep in. Taylor stood behind the gun, and while his eye was better than Berry's, it has on other occasions been glued closer to the corners of the rubber. But in the main he pitched good ball.

Walla Walla took the first try and Bradley, the home-run man, took the stick. He nailed the first ball over the plate and hit to first. The visitors started in to bunt and played a place hitting game at the first, but soon came to the conclusion they could not make good without long hits. Brown and Dunn were the heavy hitters and a two-bag hit was the common thing for them. Brown was steady as a regulator behind the bat, and Dunn at the third sack made some lightning plays to first that won the grandstand.

Penland out in right, seemed to have lost his grip for long flies, and Gass made a mistake or two; but altogether the Pendleton boys played a good game, but slow. Babe Brown was out with his black guernsey and fireman's cap to boss the game, and his bass voice ruled the field.

In the second half of the fifth inning he made a decision that took the wind out of the visitors and left the bleachers mute and staring. With Hartman on second, Berry balked in his delivery, and Brown not only sent Hartman to third, but gave Taylor, who was batting, his first on the same balk.

The game was ragged and rough, and the fans hope for an improvement. The score and summary is given below:
