FORMER WALLA WALLA MAN REVISITS OLD HOME.

Says Americans in Nicaragua Are Glad Canal Was Not Built Over That Route—Labor Very Cheap There.

P. C. Rourk, of Multagalpa, Nicaragua, is in the city for a week's visit with his brother, Edward Rourk, and other friends in Walla Walla, says the Union. Mr. Rourk was originally a Tacomian, but for the last seven years he has been engaged in coffee raising in Nicaragua, and judging from what he has to say of the country, its principal product and his life there, he is more than pleased.

"I have spent seven years in that country," he said yesterday morning, "and have every reason to feel satisfied. We grow the best coffee in the world; in fact, we took the first premium at the Paris and Pan-American exhibitions, and the coffee men all are anxious to get our product. Coffee raising is a splendid business, but good judgment has to be used, as in every other enterprise.

"There are a lot of men making money out of it, and our plantations run from 10,000 trees up to hundreds of thousands. We figure to get about two pounds from each tree a season, and could get more, but forcing a tree one year causes it to very materially depreciate the next season. Coffee is grown in the shade." Mr. Rourk laughed when it was suggested it must be expensive to provide parasols for each bush. "You see, down there we grow banana plants simply to provide shade."

He went on to explain that in that section they do not market the banana fruit, but it provides a staple article of food for the natives who work on contract, and the "mozoes," or laborers, usually work from about sunrise to 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and they can do a good man's work in that length of time.

A working man earns about 50 cents in American money per day, but as the country is on a silver basis and as silver is not worth much more than lead it makes cheap labor for cheap money. When Mr. Rourk first went to Nicaragua the money was exchanged at about $1.00 for $1.80. Now it is about five to one.

"Down in our country we are very glad the United States government decided to construct the Panama canal instead of the Nicaragua canal," continued Mr. Rourk. "It meant a great deal to us in the matter of labor. As I have pointed out, our labor is cheap, but if the Americans had come in there with American men and American methods and American money it would have caused a raise in the price of labor and all of our men would have flocked to the canal work. That canal would have passed within about 40 miles of our place, but the Panama canal is some 350 miles distant and will not affect us in the least."

GREAT FISTIC EVENT.

Champion Jeffries and James J. Corbett Will Meet Again.

San Francisco, Cal., May 15.—Champion Jeffries and James J. Corbett are in the city, with their respective followers and trainers, and this evening they are expected to get together to arrange the final details for their contest in August. It is not expected that any difficulty will be encountered in agreeing on the final terms for the fight. All of the arrangements were outlined at their conference in New York some time ago, and little remains to be done. In all probability Eddie Grow will be selected to referee the contest.

From now on the two fighters will put in their time in preparation for the contest. It is expected that Jeffries will spend most of his time in the vicinity of Los Angeles, his former home, and which he considers an ideal locality for training. He will be assisted by Bob Fitzsimmons and several others. Corbett will be assisted in his work of preparation by his two brothers and "Yank" Kenry.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

IDAHO WOOL PRICES.

Buyers and Sheepmen in Sharp Contest Over the Output.

Wool has touched 14 cents, says the Evening Capital News.

This announcement will bring joy to the hearts of many sheepmen who have not been able to get a better offer than 13 cents.

Even since the wool market opened the buyers have been talking 13 cents as the top price and spurred to look at wool whose owner held out for a better price.

Word was received today that for the past two days the buyers have been paying 14 cents at Payette, and a few instances a shade better. Wilson Bros., of which firm Edgar Wilson of this city is a member, yesterday sold their clip of 100,000 pounds for 14 cents straight. They set their price at this figure early in the season and declined all offers at a less figure, but last night Mr. Salter, a well-known buyer, offered them the price asked and it was accepted.

It is one of the largest sales made so far this season, and will have much to do in fixing the price for the rest of the season.

The recent rise in the wool rate to Boston by the railroads has been used as a boggy man by the buyers and has enabled them to secure considerable wool at a lower price, but from now on it can be said with safety that the top price will be paid.

Gardner and Miller to Meet.

Savannah, Ga., May 15.—Gus Gardner, the Philadelphia lightweight, and Hermann Miller, of Baltimore, who are to furnish the star attraction at tonight's show of the Savannah Athletic Club, have completed their training and are in readiness for the bout. The two are regarded as evenly matched and are expected to put up an interesting contest.

A rich strike is reported on the Maxwell mine, 20 miles west of Baker City.

A GREAT RECORD

WORLD FAMOUS NURSE NOW EIGHTY YEARS OLD.

Naturally a Doer of Good Deeds—An Invalid for Many Years, But She Retains Unimpaired a Vigorous and Practical Mind.

London, May 15.—Florence Nightingale, the famous Crimean war nurse, is being showered with congratulations today on having reached her eightieth birthday. There were a number of callers at her residence, all of whom were received and welcomed, although the health of the venerable heroine is not of the best. Queen Alexandra's congratulations, in the form of an autograph letter, were delivered to Miss Nightingale by special messenger. Dispatches couched in felicitous phrases were also received from other crowned heads of Europe and from persons of note in all parts of the world.

Miss Nightingale is now a tall woman, rather stout, with gray hair and fine, open face. Although a great sufferer, she shows little trace of it. She spends most of her time in reading. Her room is littered with magazines, newspapers, writing paper, pencils and letters. She loathes anything in the form of publicity, and seldom grants an interview, but to anyone who seeks advice on questions affecting the interests of the sick or those who nurse them, a hearty welcome and a word of encouragement and counsel are always cheerfully accorded. She has a very comfortable home on one of the best streets in the West End of London.

Story of a Remarkable Life.

Miss Nightingale, who owes her fame to her labors in reforming the sanitary condition of the British army, was born at Florence in 1823. She visited and inspected civil and military hospitals all over Europe; studied with the Sisters of Charity in Paris the system of nursing and management carried out in the hospitals of that city; and, in 1851, went into training as a nurse in the institution of Protestant Deaconesses at Kaiserswerth, on the Rhine.

On her return to England she put into thorough working order the Sanatorium for governesses in connection with the London Institution. In the spring of 1854 war was declared with Russia, and a British army of 25,000 men sailed to the East. Alma was fought on September 20, and the wounded from the battle were sent down to the hospitals prepared for their reception on the banks of the Bosphorus. In this crisis Miss Nightingale offered to go out and organize a nursing department at Scutari. The offer was gladly accepted by the war office and within a week she departed with her nurses. She arrived at Constantinople on the eve of the battle of Inkermann—the beginning of the terrible winter campaign—in time to receive the wounded from that second battle into wards already filled with 2300 patients.

In the spring of 1855, while in Crimea organizing the nursing departments of the camp hospitals, she was prostrated with fever, the result of unremitting toil and anxiety; yet she refused to leave her post, and on her recovery remained at Scutari until Turkey was evacuated by the British, July 28, 1856. It is known that for years Miss Nightingale has been an invalid. It is not so well known that her sick room has been the scene of the most constant and arduous labor for the improvement of the health of the soldier. In 1858 she published her "Notes on Nursing." At the close of the Crimean war a fund of $250,000 was subscribed for the purpose of enabling her to form an institution for the training of nurses.
