CLERKS WILL REORGANIZE.

Early Closing of Stores, and Social Progress Their Principal Aims.
The clerks of the city met last evening at Painters' hall, to further discuss their reorganization. The matter was thoroughly canvassed and at a meeting to be held next Wednesday, the union will elect officers and lay its plans for the future.
The union here has a charter at the present time, and the reorganization is partly for the purpose of holding their charter. While the new organization will be on strictly union lines, it will be practically a social organization. The clerks of the city are unknown one to the other. The employees in one store are not acquainted with those working in another, and it is the effort of the promoters of the union to counteract this condition of affairs.
Then it is hoped that the union may in time lead to the early closing of the stores during the summer as well as the winter months. It is stated that the majority of the business men of the city are not particular about keeping their stores open till late in the evening; in fact, they would rather see their stores closed if it was an universal plan, but when one store remains open the rest must in justice to themselves follow suit. It is hoped, therefore, that the permanent organization of the union may educate, in time, the proprietors and the patrons of the business houses of Pendleton to the advisability and desirability of the early closing plan so universal in the cities of the state and nation.
But the union intends to make no demands or requests. The conditions here are favorable, and their organization will attempt no radical change in the present state of affairs. After the officers are elected and their union is on a permanent basis, more of their intentions will be known.

CUNNINGHAM IN LUCK.

Fears Were Unfounded That He Had Sustained Losses of Sheep.
Charles Cunningham, who recently shipped 2,000 head of blooded Merino and Rambouillet rams to Hardy, Mont., considers himself to be a lucky man today. The rams were all one-year-olds, and composed as fine a band of blooded sheep as could be found in the United States. They were shipped to Central Montana for summer ranging and had no more than landed there when a spell of blizzard weather set in, killing the stock of the country in all directions.
Mr. Cunningham received a telegram this morning announcing the safety of his flock. Out of the 2,000, but seven had been killed by the weather. A cold, chilling rain is still falling, but good men are in charge of the sheep and the owner hopes his flock will have no further loss.

LA FONTAINE TO RETIRE.

After Twelve Years in Restaurant Business Will Seek a Change.
Gus La Fontaine, the genial proprietor of the French restaurant, has grown tired of the continual application and confinement of city business, and intends to seek the open fields and pastures in search of rest and recreation.
Mr. La Fontaine has been in the restaurant business in Pendleton for 12 years and in that time has built up a business second to none in Eastern Oregon. His hospitality is known and appreciated by the traveling public all over the state as well as by the people of Pendleton.
But the close confinement of the life has wearied Mr. La Fontaine and he has decided to dispose of his place here, provided he can find a suitable purchaser and turn his entire attention to the sheep business in which he is largely interested at the present time.
He wishes to get out in the country and breathe the open air and feel the freedom of the range.

ADVENTISTS PASS CORDIAL RESOLUTION THIS MORNING.

May Decide to Hold Special Series of Meetings After the Present Camp Meeting Closes.

Last evening the Adventists' pavilion was well filled and an interested and attentive audience which attested the feeling with which the Adventist people are received in Pendleton.
"Religious Liberty," one of the most live and interesting subjects now before our country, was taken up by the speaker, Elder Snyder, and discussed with his characteristic energy. Beginning with the history of religious freedom and its suppression in ancient Babylon, he sketched with a few brief strokes, a living picture of the evils of religious intolerance. His audience listened with the deepest interest to the topics discussed.
In their conference session this morning the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, the Commercial Club and the people of Pendleton have tendered every encouragement possible by way of kindness and generosity, both in our last year's session and this second annual session being held at this time;

"Therefore, we would recommend that this conference express its gratitude and sincere appreciation of the generous assistance and uniform courtesy so freely tendered us at this our second annual session, held in this city."

The conference also considered the advisability of continuing meetings in Pendleton after the present annual meeting closes. The delegates viewed the matter very favorably and placed the proposition into the hands of the executive board, who will immediately advise concerning it. If the meeting be continued, a new tent will probably be pitched near the center of the city.

PENDLETON EXPECTS TO WIN.

High School Team in Excellent Condition for Meet Tomorrow.

The high school athletic team is in better condition for the field meet tomorrow than ever before and fully expects to carry off the honors.
The boys have been drilling constantly and have spared no time nor pains to be the winning team and it is confidently expected that when the Baker City boys start home Sunday morning they will not be burdened with the cup they have held during the past year.

The track is in excellent condition and the weather promises to be fair, and this meeting of Eastern Oregon boys should be well attended by Pendleton lovers of the manly arts that form such a valuable adjunct to all good school work.

Professor Churchill, the coach of the Baker City team, will arrive tonight.

CHINESE ARE STANDING PAT.

Continuing Placer Operations in Mormon Basin.
Sumpter, Or., May 22.—Placer operations in the Mormon basin district are being prosecuted with vigor this season. Coates Bros. have bought out most of the Chinese holding claims, and are mining on a big scale. There has been no repetition of the outrage committed on the Celestials last fall. Although the Chinese village was razed and the Mongolians driven out, there are plenty of them still in the basin. The outrage spoken of is the one for which the government is being called upon to pay $100,000.

COASTWISE TRADE HEAVY.

Present Development of Coast Traffic Beats All Records.

Tacoma, Wash., May 22.—According to statements made by shipping men, coastwise trade is heavier now than it has been at any time within the history of Puget Sound. The steamer James Dollar arrived here yesterday from San Francisco, from which port she left loaded to her full capacity. She will take on 900 tons of freight from here, and more is offered, but the steamer has made arrangements to complete cargo at Seattle.

The increase in business does not apply to steamers plying between the Sound and San Francisco alone, but to vessels operating between the various Sound cities as well. These boats are unable to handle all the freight that is moving and scarcely a day passes that from one to half a dozen tramp steamers are not pressed into service for the moving of freight.

Officers of Adventists' Conference.

The following officers have been elected for the ensuing year at the Adventist conference in this city, yesterday: President, A. J. Broed; secretary-treasurer, J. L. Kay; executive board, A. J. Broed, C. C. Lewis, J. M. Willoughby, Schlottner, J. A. Holbrook, Dr. S. Yarnell, T. L. Ragsdale.

DRIVING MATINEE.

All Events to Be Called Between 2 and 5 O'clock.

The matinee of the Pendleton Driving Association to be held at Simpson & Ferringer's track on Sunday afternoon, promises to be a most enjoyable event. A number of horses have been entered in the meet and good races are assured.

The first event will be called at 2 o'clock sharp and the different numbers will be pulled off as rapidly as possible, so that the meet will not occupy more than three hours at the most.

There will be no admission charged and a large crowd is expected to be present at the track. Both track and horses are in excellent condition.

It is the intention of the management of the track to have races every two weeks, and if the public gives them adequate encouragement the intention will be certainly carried out.

Relic of the Confederacy.

Mrs. William Hindman, of this city, has in her possession an interesting relic of the Confederate states of America, says the Baker City Herald. It is a commission from the secretary of war, Judah P. Benjamin, making Noble Mounts, Mrs. Hindman's father, colonel of the Eighth Kentucky regiment. Mrs. Hindman has lately come into possession of this relic, and has it elegantly framed. As a matter of course, she values this document very highly.

(Concluded.)

Corner Stone Ceremonies.

At the conclusion of the president's remarks, F. G. Young, president of the Oregon Historical Society, deposited a copper box in the great monument, which served as the cornerstone of the Lewis and Clark fair. This box contained a history of Oregon, a history of the expedition and adventures of Lewis and Clark, and copies of the Oregon Daily Journal, Telegram and Oregonian.

Two men, acting under the direction of Engineer Huber, by means of the derrick, lowered the huge stone to within two feet of its concrete bed.

After the engineer and architect had leveled and squared the stone, the Hallelujah chorus, with orchestral accompaniment, was sung, Archbishop Christie pronouncing the benediction and the exercises concluded with the singing of "America" by all present.
