UNION LABOR PRESENTS DEMANDS TO THE COUNCIL.

After a Lively Session of Inquiry and Argument the Council Adjourns Without Taking Any Action—All Round Discussion of Rigby-Clove Problem.

Last evening after the council had completed its routine business, a committee from the Federated Trades' Council of Pendleton, stated that they wished to address the council. The council expressed willingness to hear them and the spokesman of the party, Edward Coffman, stated the object of the visit.

Coffman said that at a meeting of the Federated Council the foundry of the Rigby-Clove Company had been declared unfair to organized labor and that the committee wished to request the council to disregard any bids from the foundry on any city work.

The matter was stated by Coffman and supplemented by Thomas Means and others. The council engaged in the discussion with them and the talk became general and on one side somewhat conflicting.

Some of the committee said they had no desire to force the combine to unionize; others that they wanted the men to unionize, but had no use for the proprietors. Some said that they could handle no iron from the foundry as long as it was unfair; that it would be unfair as long as it employed non-union men, and some said that the company could employ non-union men if it wanted to, and yet remain on the fair list if it was on the fair list to commence with. So the matter ran.

The matter was reviewed from the time the trouble started, when Ed Money built the addition to the foundry building and employed non-union men exclusively, to the present time.

The councilmen asked for various bits of information which was given them either clearly or not, as the case was. They were asked why the foundry was placed on the unfair list and were told that it was because the proprietors were opposed to union labor and said they would fire any man who joined. This statement was qualified by some of the committee by the statement that Rigby and son were willing but that Clove was not.

Mr. Hartman asked about the action of the men in taking stock. Each man was asked by the foundry company to sign whether they preferred to join a union, to take stock or to remain neutral. All of the men signed to take $100 worth of stock, giving their notes for the same. This action the union refused to recognize, claiming it was not done in good faith. The matter of the founding of the scouring mills and the woolen mills by the same method of private subscription was cited by members of the council to show that the action of the foundry employes was reasonable, but the union people held otherwise.

Mr. Clopton didn't see that the matter was quite ripe for discussion since the bids had not been advertised for as yet. Hayor Halley then stated the matter as it appeared to him. He said that the unions asked the council to discriminate against one class of people to their detriment, when it was the duty of the council to do the best in its power by the people. The unions asked the council to refuse to allow Chinese or Japanese labor, or non-union or imported labor to be employed on the construction of the sewer, and to demand the employment of home labor as far as possible, and then turned around and ask them in the same breath to shut out the only home foundry from the work to the detriment of the people, the foundry and the city. There was a conflict in the reasoning.

The union people stated that if the iron was bought from the Rigby-Clove Company that no union labor could be employed in the construction of the sewer, and the council cut off further discussion by an adjournment.

SUIT FOR DIVORCE.

Also for Custody of Children and Cancellation of a Lease.

A suit has been filed by Eleanor Payord against her husband, Adalord Payord, and Hugh Bell, asking for divorce from Payord and the cancellation of a lease held by Bell upon certain lands belonging to the plaintiff.

The plaintiff is an Indian residing upon the reservation, and she alleges that she was married to the defendant at Walla Walla, June 29, 1893, and that he since that time has cruelly beat and assaulted her and has leased her property without her knowledge or consent. Wherefore, she prays for divorce, for the custody of her children and the cancellation of the lease. Balleray & McCourt are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

TEAM COLORS.

Competing Ball Players Tomorrow Will Wear Regalia.

In order that everybody may know upon which side of the massacre every one else is, the lawyers and doctors have adopted colors to be worn at their game tomorrow.

The lawyers will wear red and blue, while the doctors will wear white and red. The colors are symbolic, those of the lawyers attempting to depict in heraldic language the state of doctors when the game is finished—covered with gore and battered by bruises. The doctors, on the other hand, flaunt the white of purity and the red of undaunted courage. In all probability the spectators will be green with envy when they see the regalia of the two teams blended and commingled in one harmonious whole.

Struck by Lightning.

Shooting out of an apparently clear sky, a stray bolt of lightning struck the flag pole on top of the Walla Walla Athletic Club building in West Alder, at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning, tore a huge hole in the roof and ranging downward, passed within a few inches of S. S. Bettman, manager of the club, who was asleep on the second floor. Except for a rude awakening by the blinding flash and report and the sound of splintered timbers, Mr. Bettman was uninjured, but considers he had a narrow escape from serious injury and possibly death—Walla Walla Statesman.

FOUR DECISIONS

OPINIONS FORM SUPREME COURT HAVE BEEN FILED.

All the Cases Are of Considerable Interest, Involving the Rights of Umatilla and Union County People—Information Received Through Major Moorhouse.

The supreme court has written opinions on four more of the appeal cases heard by them while here in session and have transmitted the same to Clerk Lee Moorhouse.

Three of them are Umatilla county cases and one is from Union county.

The case of Joseph Martin, respondent, vs. John Martin, appellant, is an appeal from Union county, and is a suit to declare a trust in personal property and for an accounting. In September, 1896, the plaintiff transferred to his son, the defendant, seven promissory notes by indorsements and a bill of sale. The plaintiff alleges a sale in trust; the defendant an absolute sale. The action was brought to recover. The circuit court found for the plaintiff. The supreme court modified the decision of the lower court by eliminating a charge for interest collected, and in all else affirmed the former decision. The opinion was written by Justice R. S. Bean. W. W. Ramsey represented the appellant and T. H. Crawford the respondent.

J. N. Walker, appellant, vs. The First National Bank of Athena and Hugh McLean, respondents, is an appeal from the circuit court of Umatilla county. It is an action brought for the alleged conversion of 1020 sacks of flour manufactured from wheat belonging to plaintiff. The court below held that the defendants were not liable for the conversion and the plaintiff appealed. The judgment of the lower court was affirmed in an opinion by Justice R. S. Bean. R. G. Slater was the attorney for appellant, and Balleray & McCourt for respondents.
