WAR ON FOUL MEAT

STATE HEALTH OFFICER IS AFTER PORTLAND BUTCHERS.

Meat Only Fit for Dogs Often Enters Into the Composition of Sausage—Much of it is Colored to Give an Appearance of Freshness.

Some of the Portland butchers are up in arms over the charges of Dr. Hutchinson the state health officer, that much diseased and chemically treated meat is being sold in Portland. The butchers of the better class favor the city ordinance for the rigid inspection of meat.

"The public, in my judgment, is entitled to protection not merely from the rascality of the dishonest butcher or farmer, but also from the mistakes of the honest one," said Dr. Hutchinson.

"As to my statements in regard to sausage, which seem to have stirred up so much resentment, all I can say is that most of them were based on bitter personal experience from experiments on my own person after eating sausage from six or seven of the supposedly best shops in Portland, and that no one regrets it more keenly than I do. In my visits of inspection I have seen material being thrown into the sausage machines in the rear of butcher shops in this city which I could scarcely think fit for anything but dog meat. As I say, no one regrets this situation more keenly than myself, but I should be false to my idea of my responsibility and duty to the state whose health officer I have the honor to be if I did not state the facts frankly and freely in order to bring about improvement.

"The statements of Dr. Biersdorf and the admissions of Mr. Miller are also true as to the coloring of sausage. What the matter may be I do not know, but I do know that I have seen sausage pulp come out of the machine a dirty gray color, while that which lay in the window had a beautiful pink tint. Butchers have themselves admitted to me without the slightest hesitation that not only was the meat colored, but that after the sausages had been placed in the skins they would pink it over, their only contention being that the pink was entirely harmless.

"This brings me to the crux of the entire question of the disinfectants, deodorizers, preservatives, coloring matters and the like. It is not enough that they should be injurious in themselves to require disallowance. The fact that they conceal dangerous changes in the meat to which they are applied is our real objection. If a butcher wishes to sell meat to a customer who can appreciate that kind of thing, he has a perfect right to do so, provided his customer knows just what he is buying. If, however, he covers the odors of incipient putrefaction with disinfectants, no matter how harmless, he is acting dishonestly. Boracic acid is probably nearly harmless to the healthy organism in the amount in which it would be swallowed upon treated meat, but, if by diminishing the odor of decay it enables meat to pass the challenge of our stomach's best guardian, the nose, then it is as harmful as any poison."

One on Minister Choate.

The inconvenience of the similarity between a gentleman's evening dress and the attire of a waiter has received yet another instance.

Mr. Choate, the American ambassador, was the victim on this occasion. At the state banquet to the king at the Guild Hall, the American ambassador was one of the few men in evening dress, nearly every one being in court or municipal uniform.

He was interested in the pulpit arrangements in which the carving was done, and ventured to ask one of the functionaries a question concerning them. "Never mind about old customs," was the reply, "look lively, and clear away the soup plates!"

SOME REASONS.

Pendleton People Should Follow This Valuable Advice.

Because the proof is in Pendleton. You can easily investigate it. Not necessary to experiment. With some untried remedy. Profit by the experience of a citizen.

Mrs. G. W. Brown, who lives at the corner of Turner and B. streets, says: "I was unable to stoop without suffering the most intense pain across the small of my back and through my kidneys. I got my first box of Doan's Kidney Pills at the Brock & McComas Co. drug store. I was so sore and lame that I could not stoop at the sink to wash. Doan's Kidney Pills did away with the trouble. If I did not honestly think that Doan's Kidney Pills acted up to the representations made by them I would not set my name to an endorsement. I know others who have used Doan's Kidney Pills with the same satisfaction."

Worst of All Experience.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For liver, kidney, stomach and bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 5c. It's guaranteed by Tallman & Co.

Range War Begun.

The range war for the season on the border between Morrow and Grant counties, was opened last week south of Hardman, where a number of cattle are reported to have been shot by unknown parties.

A. B. Stanley, who was in this city the first of the week from Hardman, reports that information had reached that town of the shooting of a number of head of cattle belonging to Chas. Hams, R. H. Stillwell and a couple of other men whose names we did not learn.

This is only the beginning of the range war for the season, which is expected will be more fierce than ever this year, unless some way can be found to avoid it.—Heppner Times.

GENERAL NEWS.

The contract for the erection of the last of the big buildings at the St. Louis exposition has been let.

The "Jim Crow" law in Tennessee requiring separate compartments for whites and blacks in street cars has been declared unconstitutional.

The killing of a family of homesteaders in Kansas because they cut wire fences enclosing public land will lead to the removal of range fences on public land by the interior department.

The Connecticut building at the World's Fair, St. Louis, will be a reproduction of a fine old colonial mansion, built in the early part of the 19th century. It is erected by Chas. Sigourney, a leading merchant of that period, and is now standing in Hartford.

Thousands of men and women armed with shovels and brooms are following the receding waters of the Missouri and Kaw rivers, cleaning up the sediment left by the muddy waters and making the homes habitable again.

An interesting exhibit at the World's Fair, St. Louis, next year, will be the police exhibits. The exhibit will show the evolution of the policeman, a gallery of noted police officials, and also types of the various grades of criminals. The exhibit will also include a display of police equipments, stations, etc.

Bridges and Tracks Near Bonners Ferry Threatened.

Travel on the main line of the Great Northern, near Bonners Ferry, Idaho, has been stopped by washouts and soft tracks, due to the freshet in the Kootenai river. Friday night passengers were transferred by wagon about one mile across the break in the tracks. Yesterday the company decided temporarily to abandon the use of part of its line and to run its train over Northern Pacific tracks.

Three of the 700-class large engines are in the ditch near Bonners Ferry and others barely escaped a like fate. The bridge of the Kootenai Valley road has been swung out of position by reason of a drift having lodged against it, and it is believed the structure can be saved only by hard work.
