FORMERLY OF PENDLETON.

Rapid Rise of a Young Man Who Begs the Practice of Law Here.

Judge J. A. Allshie, of Grangeville, Idaho, was the guest Sunday and Monday of his old classmate at Willamette College, J. T. Hinkle. Judge Allshie was on his way to deliver an address at the commencement of Willamette College, from which institution he graduated in 1891.

Immediately after his graduation he came to Pendleton and opened a law office in the East Oregonian building. The first money Mr. Allshie made in Pendleton he used to get out of town with, and hid himself up to Grangeville, where he has since resided. Last fall he was nominated for judge of the supreme court of Idaho by the republicans, and was elected. He had never before held office, or been a candidate. He carried his home county, which is normally 300 democratic, by 200 majority.

Mr. Hinkle regards Judge Allshie as one of the exceptionally able men and that he has but entered upon a brilliant career.

RIGBY-CLOVE COMBINED.

Three Machines Will Be in Use in Umatilla County.

In Umatilla county during the pending harvest season will be in use three of the combined harvesters manufactured by the Rigby-Clove Company. The other nine machines manufactured by the company this season have been sold in other counties north and east.

The three referred to will be in use as follows: Alex McKenzie, on his farm adjoining Adams; J. N. B. Gherking, near Athena; John Leedy, near Helix. It is the intention of hundreds of wheat raisers to inspect the Rigby-Clove machine in operation and satisfy both curiosity and judgment by a careful examination of its merits. The machine was thoroughly tested last year and several of this year's output sold many months in advance of the harvest. The company could have sold a half dozen more, but having gauged the capacity of the plant to a dozen machines for this season, could not fill the entire demand.

Hold-up Near La Grande.

Sunday afternoon as five men were going to La Grande, when a short distance from Hot Lake, they were held up by three toughs, who relieved them of what surplus cash they possessed. Upon their arrival in La Grande they reported the circumstance to the police, who phoned a description of the toughs to the police of the several cities up the road, and it is to be hoped they may soon be captured.

SHEEPMEN ARRESTED.

Outside Sheep Trespass on Quarantined Range.

John Lovforgey and O. D. Jayne, sheepmen of Condon, were arrested early this week on a warrant sworn out of Justice Austin's court at Hamilton on a charge of trespassing on quarantined range. The case of Lovforgey was heard yesterday, George E. Davis, of this city, representing the state of Oregon and Sam E. Van Vactor, of Heppner, representing the defendant, which resulted in the acquittal of Lovforgey on a technicality. The case against O. D. Jayne was dismissed.

It appears that through oversight, only one quarantine notice was posted while the law requires the posting of two notices. New notices have been posted and all future trespassing will be vigorously prosecuted. If this quarantine is enforced it will have a tendency to prevent outside sheep from coming into the county—Blue Mountain Eagle.

Work of the Roesch Brewery.

William Roesch now expects to be able to begin work on the side walls of the new brewery on or about next Monday. It is a question merely of the delivery of brick—whenever it is on hand the building will be crowded to a completion. If work is not begun soon and is not subjected to delays, Mr. Roesch will begin brewing in the new building about October 1, next.

Still Negotiating.

The Federated Trades Council last evening appointed a committee to resume negotiations with the Rigby-Clove Company, and it is probable that the whole affair will go to a finish very soon.

SPENCER SOON TO DON STRIPES

Will Probably Work in the Tailor Shop.

Edward Spencer, slayer of Ella Mundt, is still in the county jail and may not be taken to the penitentiary at Walla Walla for another week yet, says the Spokesman-Review. The coming on of another criminal term of court has made the sheriff's office short-handed, and Sheriff Doust said yesterday that Spencer would not be taken before the latter part of the present week.

It is not believed that Spencer will be put in the brick yard or the jute mill at the penitentiary. He is not strong, and his lung, through which he shot himself, gives him more or less trouble. It is sore. His side also pains him considerably.

It is more than likely that Spencer will be assigned to work in the tailor shop or the laundry. His experience as a waiter may gain him a place in the palatial residence of the warden when John B. Catron was warden of the penitentiary, all his house servants were murderers. He selected them because as a rule, murderers are not professional criminals and are safer to have around a house.
