BOYS BOUND OVER.

Stole Brass From O. R. & N. and Sold it to a Junk Man.

La Grande, June 11.—Charles Martin and Fred Fair, aged 12 and 14 years respectively, were placed under $100 and $200 bonds yesterday afternoon, for stealing brass extras and fixtures from the O. R. & N. round-house and machine shops. They had collected about 500 pounds of old and new brass and negotiated with S. Abraham, a junk man, for the sale of the scrap. Abrahams was immediately arrested for receiving stolen property and is now under $100 bonds also.

The thefts of brass fixtures have been going on for three or four months, but the company had been unable to locate the guilty parties.

LABOR PROBLEMS

RELATION OF UNIONISM TO SOME LOCAL ISSUES

State Organizer Federation of Labor Discusses Question of Especial Interest in Pendleton—Is Working Also for Exhibits at Portland and St. Louis.

G. Y. Harry, the general organizer of the Federation of Labor, and one of the members of the state board of Lewis and Clark Fair managers, was at the Pendleton yesterday.

Mr. Harry is on a tour of the state in the interest of both organized labor and of the fair exhibit. It is part of his duty to visit all of the different parts of the state and explain to the people the points of the labor question not usually known by them.

Local Conditions.

In speaking about the conditions now prevailing, Mr. Harry said that he was sorry that any difficulty had arisen, for it was not only detrimental to the foundry people, but it was a setback to the union people themselves. Any thing, institution or enterprise, that conserved the interests of the general people was for the good of the union men since they composed a part of the public mass, and anything that tended to retard the growth or check the progress of a community, reacted upon the prosperity of the unions, for they were actuated by the right spirit of progress, and it should be their continual effort to upbuild and not to tear down.

Jumped at Conclusions.

From what he understood, there was a lot of haste on both sides of the local controversy and they had jumped at hasty conclusions before considering the result.

As he understood it, the trouble arose over a carpenter hired by the Rigby-Clove Company, and the foundry was put on the unfair list without their notifying the institution. Then the foundry also got tangled with the federation, and more trouble resulted. He did not know all of the details, but he thought there was haste on both sides, and stubbornness. He had seen the proprietors of the foundry and they seemed to him to be fair men and stated themselves as not opposed to the union principle, so he hoped to be able to act as an arbiter between the two factions and join them together once more in harmony.

Suppose There is a Deadlock.

"But suppose," asked the newspaper man, "that the thing cannot be harmonized; that the unions still think they are in the right; that the foundry will not retract from its present position and is still kept on the unfair list, and that the city buys its iron of the foundry; what will be the result?"

Mr. Harry looked grave. "That is a contingency I don't want to consider," he said. "Of course, when organized labor goes into a fight it fights, but I do not think there will be any occasion, at least I hope not. I have seen Mr. Rigby and he will furnish me with a statement of his case. After the public meeting I will call a meeting of the unions and will get their side. Then I hope to be able to bring them together and unite them again in harmonious relations. The union is young here and the boys do not know how to proceed in all things yet, and are apt to be hasty, but I think the matter can be straightened out, for it is to the interest not only of the Rigby-Clove Company and the city, but of the unions themselves that it be so."

Lewis and Clark Exposition.

Mr. Harry is here in the interest of the fair exhibit. He will try to get the active work of collection begun at once. He wants a large showing from Eastern Oregon to the St. Louis fair and will try to arrange for it at once. He conferred this morning with the Rigby people, wishing them to put one of their harvesters on exhibition, and also he wants a big exhibition in all lines, especially from the remoter counties of the state.

HARRY'S LECTURE

LEGITIMATE PURPOSE AND SCOPE OF ORGANIZATION.

Holds That the Real Interests of All Are Identical—What Affects Either Labor or Capital Reacts on the Other—Lecture Was Followed by an Executive Session of the Unions. A small audience greeted G. Y. Harry at the courthouse last night, when he spoke on the labor question and the benefits to be derived from organized labor and the unionization of the workingman.

Purpose and Scope of Unionization.

Mr. Harry spoke of the purpose and scope of the union, of why it was formed and what gave it continued life and growing strength. He explained why the union had so much trouble and laid it at the door of the non-union man. The latter shared in the advantages of increased wage and shortened hours, and bettered conditions all around, and yet selfishly refused to help bring about the improved conditions which unionization made possible.

When the union was completely organized and well controlled there would be no trouble between the employer and the employed, for the middle and disturbing element would have been eliminated. The way to bring about harmony was to thoroughly organize.

Deplored the Local Difficulty.

Mr. Harry alluded to the present difficulty here and deplored it. He knew the benefits the Rigby-Clove business would be to Pendleton, and as it was of advantage to Pendleton, so was it of good to the union and the workingman, for they were part, and a large part, too, of the city. What benefited the city benefited the union and what prospered the union was of good to the city, for the members of the union composed a part of the city.

Unions Executive Meeting.

After the meeting the unions went into executive session for the consideration of the Rigby-Clove controversy. What they did was not given out, but it was strongly intimated that the matter would be harmonized before the week ended. The carpenters will leave the matter partly to the discretion of the Central Federation Council, and they will attempt to straighten out the tangle. What the outcome will be cannot be conjectured, but strong hopes are held out that the matter is now on the high road to an adjustment, to the betterment of the city and good of all.

Will Attend a Board Meeting.

C. B. Wade will leave for Portland tomorrow to attend a meeting of the state board of managers for the Lewis and Clark fair.

Ask Your Doctor

He will tell you—

That barley-malt is a half-digested food, as good as food can be.

That hops are an excellent tonic.

That the little alcohol in beer—only 3½ per cent—is an aid to digestion.

But Purity is Essential

But he will tell you that beer must be protected from germs, and brewed in absolute cleanliness.

He'll say, too, that age is important, for age brings perfect fermentation. Without it, beer ferments on the stomach, causing biliousness.

Schlitz beer is brewed with all precautions. It is the recognized standard all the world over, because of its purity.
