IS SORRY HE DID IT

C. E. FINCH ASSAULTED
BY JAMES STOCKMAN.

Driven Out of a Barn Where He Had Taken Shelter From the Rain, Finch is Then Struck on the Head With Scantling.

The rain brought good luck to the Pendleton baseball team, but it was not the bearer of good tidings to C. E. Finch, or to James Stockman. Yesterday, while the shower was passing over the city, C. E. Finch, in company with some other men, who were engaged in some work near the residence of James Stockman across the river, went into the barn of the latter to escape the wet. While there the owner appeared and ordered them out of the building.

The men went, and when they were out, Finch made some remark not couched in the best language possible, to which Stockman took exception. He picked up a piece of scantling and waded in after the blood of the man who had insulted him, striking him on the right side of the head and knocking him down and out. Finch was picked up and taken to his home, where Doctors McPaul and Kirby attended to him and dressed the wound. Today he is resting easily, though his head is quite sore and he suffers a good deal from the shock of the blow.

Stockman was very sorry that he had hit the man as hard as he did, and this afternoon appeared before the recorder's court and plead guilty to assault, and was fined $50 and costs by the court, which he paid.

END OF THE WOOL SALES.

Deadlock, Resulting in Holding Immense Quantities.

The end of the wool sales yesterday was not as harmonious as the beginning. The growers, or at least some of them, thought that the buyers had formed a ring for the purpose of holding the prices down and refused to sell their wool, preferring to hold it for private shipment. They would rather take the risk and the added expense of the latter method than to sell for the terms that were offered by the buyers. As a rule, though, the ones holding were small men, all of the large growers selling at the bids offered. The last sales are given below:

	Pounds.	Cents
J. E. Smith	90,000	13 1/2
Waucup & Hubbard	6,999	12 1/2
C. Ely	9,233	12 1/4
Sunderman	5,125	12
Sam Warner	9,535	12 1/4
Perrard	13,963	14
Total	133,955

Returned From Missouri.

Ben Martin, proprietor of the Cottage hotel of Meacham, has just returned from a three weeks' visit in Northwest Missouri, whither he was called by the illness of a brother, who died shortly after Mr. Martin reached there. Ben was in Kansas City during the terrible floods last week and saw sights that cause an Oregonian's hair to stand straight up. He reports crops in some portions of Kansas and Missouri to be very backward and says the flooded districts present a terrible spectacle, all the houses, fences and improvements being destroyed or irreparably damaged.

The June "Ilakawinn."

The June number of the "Ilakawinn," the last to be issued until after vacation, is now out. It is a credit to the Pendleton high school and the city of Pendleton, and when school opens again should be patronized more liberally than ever. The editors of the journal gracefully acknowledge the kind and generous treatment they have received from Pendleton business men and express entire satisfaction with the success of the enterprise, both from a financial and educational standpoint.

Matinee Postponed.

Owing to the rain the driving meet scheduled to have taken place yesterday by the Pendleton Driving Association was called off and the money taken at the gate was returned to those in attendance, the track being slick to risk the horses on. One race was had between three Indians for a purse made up by the members of the association on the ground. The meet was postponed till next Friday when the same program will be carried out.

NEXT DOOR TO POSTOFFICE

PIONEER BUSINESS HOUSE.

Immense Development of Peoples Warehouse in Seventeen Years.

The Peoples Warehouse, whose full-page advertisement appears on another page, is one of the pioneer business institutions of the city, and has reached its present height of prosperity solely by the pluck and push and up-to-date methods of its management.

It was organized on the 1st of September, 1886, by I. Falck and Leon Cohen, in the room now occupied by the Boston Store. At that time it was a general merchandise store and carried all the equipment of a typical country store.

In August, 1890, the store was moved to its present quarters and the stock of general merchandise was changed to one of general dry goods as carried today.

In March, 1895, Leon Cohen bought the full stock of his partner and has since built up the trade to the enormous proportions it now enjoys.

At the time the store was moved to its present location, the store room it occupied was the only brick on that block, and failure was predicted for the venture; but the present status of the business disproves the theory.
