

You Want Both

When you try on a pair of shoes look for two things—"Comfort" and "Style." You must have them both; either one by itself is not enough.

Our whole stock is purchased with these two things in view and it is the largest and most complete in Pendleton from a heavy brogan to the finest French kid boot and they all have that wearing quality found only in a carefully selected stock.

Thirty-five miles of roadway have been constructed within the World's Fair grounds. A large portion of this is asphalt. Most of the roadways are generously shaded, and all are elaborately treated by the landscape architect.

Powdered Daintiness

You never saw a foot powder like ours. It is taking the town by storm. There is just one word in the dictionary to describe it. That word is "dainty."

Tallman's Foot Powder

is unequalled for sore, blistered, itching and sweaty feet. It keeps the shoes dry, sweet and wholesome these hot, sultry days.

The harvest man needs it, the business man needs it, you need it and everyone needs it.

Be sure you get Tallman's.

Accept no other.

HUNDREDS DEAD AT HEPPNER

on the special train to Echo, where teams had been engaged to convey the party across the country, 27 miles, to Heppner.

A wagonload of supplies, consisting of 2,000 pounds of food and clothing was sent from Echo to the scene of the disaster this morning. The Pendleton Woolen Mills sent three bales of blankets with the relief train and a four-horse team left Pendleton at noon for Heppner, loaded with supplies.

Messenger Arrives at Echo.

Echo, June 15.—12:30 p. m.—Guy Boyer, of Heppner, arrived here on horseback at noon and brings the first accurate details of the disaster. He says it is now known that 250 people are drowned and that 400 were unaccounted for when he left Heppner at 9 a. m. He says the cloudburst occurred just east of the city on the main branch of Willow creek. All the wooden portion of the city is destroyed, but the brick buildings withstood the force of the water.

Known to Be Dead.

Among those known to be dead are Jim Matlock and wife, Tom Matlock's wife, Tom Howard's entire family, John Ayres, Dr. McSworbs, Mrs. C. E. Redfield and daughter and J. N. Kernan, O. R. & N. agent, and wife, and the entire Wells family except Clare and Glen.

Mr. Kernan was in his office at the time the flood came, and flashed the news to Lexington and Ione in time to warn them of the coming floods, but before the heroic man could close his key, the torrent swept him and his wife, who was at his side, to instant death.

A Wall of Water.

Portland, June 15.—2 p. m.—Details of the awful calamity at Heppner are now arriving here.

Those who escaped drowning are now in a pitiable plight, some of them being without clothing or food.

Many of the citizens were at church at the time. A wall of water house-top high, carrying buildings, trees, huge boulders and human beings on its crest, came upon the helpless town without warning.

The country between Heppner and Ione is devastated. Wheat fields and orchards are ruined.

The O. R. & N. operator at Heppner warned Lexington and Ione in time for most of the residents to flee to the hills.

Warned the Settlers Before.

Echo, June 15.—Special telephone.—Leslie Matlock, of Heppner, mounted a horse and rushing down the narrow valley in advance of the flood, shouted a warning to the unsuspecting inhabitants, many of whom were saved from instant death.

A Waste of Ruin.

Echo, June 15.—Special telephone.—The entire Willow creek valley is a waste of ruins. There were about 1,500,000 pounds of wool stored in the Heppner warehouses and it now lies scattered over 20 miles of devastated country between Heppner and Ione.

MORE DETAILS OF THE DISASTER.

Representative G. W. Phelps escaped instant death by a miracle, although his entire family was drowned.

A later report says that the main waterspout which destroyed Heppner was augmented near Ione by a second deluge which was hurled down Willson creek.

Death List Increasing.

A courier from Heppner reached Echo shortly after noon, stating that 325 are now known to be dead, and that 15 bodies have been recovered at Lexington.

Relief Parties Start for the Scene.

Almost every available rig in Pendleton has been engaged to carry relief parties to Heppner. The work of recovering and burying the dead will be necessarily slow, as the territory covered by the flood is over 20 miles in length and from one to three miles wide, and is covered with wreckage of every description.

A heavily-loaded four-horse team, bearing shovels, tents, clothing and other necessities left Pendleton at noon for the flooded district. The party which left here at 11:30 on the O. R. & N. special expects to reach Heppner at 7 p. m.

May Use Celebration Funds.

It is reported that the funds which have been raised for the celebration of the Fourth will be turned over to the sufferers at Heppner if it is found that they need funds immediately. The Progress Club has about $1,500 on hand and that will be sent to the relief of the homeless if the occasion demands.

DARVEAU BUILDING MORE ATTRACTIONS

LARGE BRICK TO BE BUILT ON SITE OF RECENT FIRE.

Will Be One Hundred By Twenty-Five Feet in Size, With Full Basement and Strictly Modern—To Be Used Mainly as Sample Rooms—T. F. Howard is the Architect.

George Darveau, the proprietor of the St. George hotel, has a large force of men at work this morning tearing down the old ruins left by the fire, and will erect as soon as he can secure the brick, a large sample room on the site of the one recently destroyed by the fire.

The new building will be 100x25 feet in dimensions and will be practically of two stories. The first story will be on a level with the street and will be fitted with all the conveniences that go to make glad the heart of the overworked traveling man. The basement will be as large as the upper floor and will be in every way as convenient as the first. The basement may be floored with cement and the entire place will be well lighted and so arranged as to display the wares of the commercial man to the best possible advantage.

T. F. Howard has the plans of the building under his direction and will rush the work along as fast as may be possible, for the rooms are much needed at the present time and when the drummers begin to bring in their holiday goods there will be no room in which to display them.

The knights of the road are put to all kinds of shifts to transact their business. The wareroom of the W. & C. R. railway depot, part of the St. George lobby, the back of the bar room of that hotel, and any old place in fact, are pressed into service when the rush demands.

HOSE TEAM RACES AND BALLOON ASCENSIONS.

Large Number of Novelty Competitions Will Be Pulled Off—Definitely Concluded to Pitch the Big Tent on the Island—Other Details Will Be Published.

The general committee in arrangements for the Fourth of July celebration is working hard and is fast getting things in shape for the day. The program is being moulded into final form, and in a few days the entire list of events will be made public.

Balloon Ascension. One thing that is assured is the balloon ascension, and from the reports of the work of Professor D. McClellan, who will make the ascension, the event will be a novelty and a decided success. There will be two balloon events, one in the morning and one in the evening, and at each one the professor will make a parachute jump from a great height. The aeronaut is an Eastern man of much experience, and guarantees a novel and spectacular event.

Hose Team Races. Another thing that is always of interest to the public will be given, and that is competition races by hose teams of the city. There are seven teams in town and each of them is anxious to test the speed of the other teams. A prize of $50 has been offered by the committee for the winning team, and they will in all probability begin practicing for the event in the near future.

Specialty Races. Another feature of the day will be the specialty races by the young men. There will be 10 of these races and all of them will be novelty races with the exception of one which will be a straight race. There will be no cash prizes offered for these races, so that the high school and college boys can compete. A cash prize would throw all the competitors in the professional class and under these conditions the committee thought best to hold it open so that all the young athletes of the vicinity could compete.

Tent on the Island.

The committee is looking for a location for the tent for the general exercises of the day, and they have about decided that the place for it is on the island below the bridge on Main street. The only thing that holds them back is the lack of funds. This will be overcome by private subscription, and the tent will be placed in a short time, and the platforms erected. After the celebration the persons putting up the funds hope to make back the money expended by renting the property for summer dances and concerts.

The other details of the celebration will be ready for the public in a short time.

MARRIED.

Two Weddings Occurred at the Baptist Parsonage.

Albert Facer and Emma T. Harding were married at the parsonage of the Baptist church on Friday last by Rev. W. R. King.

On Sunday S. J. Lewis and Janet Cunningham were married at the parsonage by Rev. King.

Died From an Operation.

F. E. Livingood, one of the employes in Teutsch's store, received word Saturday that his brother at Seattle had died at that place from the effects of an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Livingood left Saturday night for Seattle where he will attend the funeral.

Folsom-Wade.

The wedding of Miss Elsie Folsom and Mr. Guy Wade will be solemnized at the Church of the Redeemer at 9 o'clock Wednesday evening, by Rev. W. E. Potwine. The friends of the family are invited to be present at the church to witness the ceremony.

Maccabees Attention. All Maccabees are urgently requested to meet at the Owl Tea House this evening at 8 o'clock, to arrange for the funeral of Sir Knight Greenawald's wife.

PROSPECTS FOR FAIR.

State Fair Board Well Pleased With Results of its Missionary Work.

George Chandler, of Baker City, a member of the state fair board, passed up the O. R. & N. Saturday night, en route home from Salem. Mr. Chandler is enthusiastic over the prospects for a good state fair this fall.

He says the members of the board, W. H. Wehrung and M. D. Wisdom, who visited Eastern Oregon last week in the interest of county exhibits, returned to Salem highly pleased and encouraged with the results of their work.

Every county in Eastern Oregon promised to furnish complete exhibits and the board hopes to hold the best state fair this fall ever seen in Oregon. As the county exhibits at the state fair will be part of the state exhibit at St. Louis, great interest is being manifested and a full collection of the resources of the state is confidently expected by the board.

The Association of Master Plumbers will hold its 1904 convention at the World's Fair, St. Louis.
