HEPPNER AFFAIRS

BELIEVES THEY SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO MANAGE ALONE.

Sanitary Conditions Now Are Greatly Improved and There is No Danger of Contagion — They Need Money, But it Should Be Expended Among Their Own People.

Judge G. A. Hartman returned last night from Heppner, where he has been on the executive committee of the city. When seen today the judge stated that the time had about come when in his opinion the people of the city should be given the management of their own affairs and left to take charge of the further work of relief and reconstruction. As long as the people from the outside were at the head of the affairs there the populace would naturally look to them to go ahead and take charge of all matters pertaining to the relief. The judge thought that the sooner the burden was shifted onto their own shoulders the sooner the people there would forget their sorrow and undertake to rebuild the city.

There are at the present time laborers enough in the place and more than enough. For this reason Davis, who has had charge of the men from Portland took his men home Wednesday, and the working force in the city was reduced to about 20 or 25 men. The city is in a better condition now from a sanitary standpoint than it was before the flood. All of the cesspools that have been opened by the water have been closed and filled with a lot of alkali, which is a good disinfectant, and there is no odor in the city and the streets are clean and wholesome. Of course the place is full of piles of lumber and other debris, but the stuff has all been overhauled and there is no odor and no chance for the spread of disease.

The rest of the Pendleton men will be home in a few days, and the leaders of the local gangs there will return in a short time. Judge Ellis will be home this evening or in the morning and Matlock will come in a day or so. Most of the men who went over to work when the call came for volunteers, have already returned, and the ones that are left will be here by the first of the week.

One reason that all of the outside men are leaving the place is that in the opinion of those at the head of the work there it is best to turn all of the money possible to the advantage of the people of the town, and for this reason the men from the outside were recalled and the force reduced in order that the payroll would be more local in nature and thus do more good to the people of Heppner. Another thing the judge thinks should be done, and that is to put all of the money left over after the main work of the clearing up has been done, in the hands of some capable and honest man for the help of the needy and the destitute. Such a man is to be found in the person of J. N. Davis, the man who has had charge of the men from Portland, and who has so ably demonstrated his capability. Not only is he capable, but he has the confidence of the people of Portland and the people of Heppner. In view of the fact that Portland has put up most of the money, it would be but right for them to be allowed to name the man who should handle the funds.

There will be lots of calls for help, for the people of the town have lost all of their possessions, and if there is a man at the head of the relief who is acquainted with the conditions holding there, and who also knows the men, it will add much to the justice and the celerity of the relief. This is the aim of the men at the head of the management at the present, and it should be continued.

Summing up, it is the opinion of the judge that all of the men from the outside who are not absolutely needed at the place should get out and leave the conduct in the hands of the people of Heppner. There is no danger from disease, and the work in the town is all done as far as the clearing is concerned, and the drifts below will soon be worked. And perhaps the most important thing of all, the handling of the money, should be centralized in the management of a man of honor and discretion and justice.

Those returning from the town last night in company with the judge were H. Hibbard, H. C. Haskins, J. T. McLain, Jamison, M. J. McDumaid, Ed Baker, John Heathman, Ralph Howland, N. Berkeley, Frank Harwood.

Held for Trial.
In the case of the state of Oregon vs. George Morris, accused of the larceny of $60 from the person of Arthur Williams on the train from La Grande on last Monday night, the court held the defendant for the circuit court in the sum of $500, which he was unable to pay and accordingly was taken to the county jail to await the convening of the court in November.

Delightful Climate.
John A. Scott, of Helix, recently returned from Jacksonville and Ashland, in Southern Oregon. He will spend the winter there. He reports the people there as lacking the drive and hustle of the people on this side of the range. The climate, however, is delightful.

THE PEOPLES WAREHOUSE

HARMLESS RUNAWAY.

Bowers' Big Grey Horse Runs Away For Spite and Exercise.

C. L. Bowers, the proprietor of the Telephone stables, is the owner of a horse that knows a thing or two. Mr. Bowers is in the habit of driving the horse, a big grey, when he goes home to his lunch, and leaving the rig stand in front of the house while he eats. Yesterday he drove the animal home as usual and went inside to his meal. The horse stood outside for a while and then concluding that it was time to go back to the stables. Accordingly he struck out, and soon from a fast trot was in a dead run. Every one thought, of course, that he was running away, but the horse himself knew better and tore up the street towards the barn. Arriving at the door he made a flying turn and ran into the stable, halting in the middle of the floor as calm and cool as if he had done nothing out of the way. In going around the corners his speed had been so great that he had bent the axles of the front wheels, but aside from that no harm had been done to the rig.

WHO SOLD THE WHISKY.

An Old Man Named Henry is Charged With the Offense.

William Henry, an aged man who is a stranger in the city, was taken in custody by the authorities of the government yesterday for the offense of selling whiskey to the red men. He was given his hearing before U. S. Commissioner John Bailey this morning, and was bound over to appear before the federal grand jury when it meets in November, in the sum of $250. He was unable to furnish the amount of the bail and was taken to the county jail, where he will await the convening of the jury.

The Indian appearing against him claim that he has been selling them whiskey for almost two weeks. Henry denies this, though he admits having come to the city about that length of time ago.

Suit on an Alleged Loan.

Martha J. Hendricks yesterday filed suit against C. C. Hendricks, through her attorneys, Balleray & McCourt, for the recovery of $160 alleged due on a note. Mrs. Hendricks alleges that on September 14, 1901, she loaned the defendant $160 which sum he has never paid. She therefore asks for the amount of the principal, with interest to date at 6 per cent, together with the costs and disbursements of the action.
