

HERPICIDE

Destroy the Cause, you Remove the Effect

Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ which causes falling hair, and, finally, baldness. No other hair preparation kills the dandruff germ. Stop dandruff, there'll be no falling hair, no baldness.

Have been using Herpicide, and have used about one-third of a 25 cent tin and find it does all, and even more, than you can for it. It not only removes the scalp dandruff and prevents the hair from falling out, but promotes a new growth. Have only used the quantity mentioned, and have more hair on my head than I have had for years. I send you this to keep the hair with you.

FOREST PROBLEMS

SUMMER SCHOOL FORESTRY MEETS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Its Objects are the Study of Effect of Timber on Climate and the Culture of Trees—School Exists Under the Auspices of Yale University.

Millford, Pa., July 1.—In view of the ravages of forest fires in New York and New England, the extraordinary floods which have recently prevailed in the Central Western states and the cloudbursts, cyclones, etc., which have lately been so disastrous in various parts of the United States from the Gulf states to the Pacific Northwest slope, much interest attaches to the summer school of forestry, which opened today. All these subjects will be treated on incidentally at the school, as it is well known that the destruction of the forests has a most important bearing upon meteorological conditions.

The school is conducted under the auspices of the Yale Forest School, and Millford was selected as the location because the vicinity is heavily timbered and contains many fine specimens indigenous to the Keystone state. The primary object of the school is to furnish as much field work as possible and consequently many of the lectures are given in the open air among the trees. Forest botany, forest measurements and silviculture are the principal topics of study. Several courses are provided, the first including an introduction to forestry, in which the purpose and scope of forestry are explained, the direct and indirect uses of the forest, and the forest policy of the United States. The second course is on forest regions of the United States and includes forest protection. This course is illustrated with lantern slides, by means of which the salient characteristics of different trees are pointed out, the types of forest trees, the mixture of them in growing and the operations of lumbering as practiced in different parts of the United States.

Eminent Specialists There.

Roy L. Martin, instructor in forestry at Yale, is in charge of the school and will lecture on silviculture, forest protection and forest regions, assisted by Mr. Graves, an assistant at the Yale school, in charge of the laboratory work, who will also lecture on forest botany. Gifford Pinchot, chief of the bureau of forestry of the United States department of agriculture, will give a course of lectures on the forest policy of the United States. Professor Brewer, of Yale University, will lecture on forest meteorology, a subject in which so much interest is manifested at the present time. J. B. Sudworth, of the forestry division of the department of agriculture, Edward A. Bowers of the Yale forest school, and other scientists will lecture on turpentine and other industries, forest law and other special problems.

Excursions will be made into the Pennsylvania state forest reserve and into New Jersey to study the principal sources of injury to forests, including forest fires, grazing, parasitic fungi and insects. Under forest measurements will be taught the methods of determining the volume of single trees and whole stands of trees, together with valuation surveys, so that the students will be able to measure and value single trees on tracts. The course in silviculture will take up the effect of environment on the trees, including soil, shade, moisture, etc.

OPINIONS RENDERED.

Supreme Court Decides Two Eastern Oregon Cases.

Major Lee Moorhouse, deputy clerk of the supreme court, this morning received the following opinions which were rendered yesterday, affecting Eastern Oregon parties:

State of Oregon, respondent, vs. Manny Howard, jointly informed against with Alexander Meldrum, appellant; appeal from Baker county; Hon. Robert Eakin, judge; affirmed. Opinion by Justice Bean.

This is a second appeal of this case. The defendants, Howard and Meldrum, were jointly charged with the crime of larceny by stealing a mare from one R. R. Palmer and H. E. Denham, in Eastern Oregon by herding her into a corral and changing the brand. The appeal was taken on the ground that the testimony of the principal witness for the prosecution in relating a conversation which he had had with another man, was merely hearsay, and therefore inadmissible, because the conversation was not held in the presence of the defendant. As testimony it was admitted to offset the impeaching evidence. The appellate court held it competent, and that there was no error in its admission.

Newton Hoover, appellant, vs. W. J. King, Alice L. Bartlett and George W. Bartlett, respondents; appeal from Harney county; Hon. M. D. Clifford, judge; reversed. Opinion by Justice Bean.

This was an action to recover possession of a tract of land in Harney county in which the plaintiff claimed ownership in fee simple. The case was tried once, and a verdict was found for defendants. The plaintiff brought another action, and the defendants answered the pleading that the judgment in the former suit operated as a bar against further action on the same cause. The trial court sustained the pleading, and the plaintiff appealed.

The supreme court holds that, as the verdict in the first suit did not decide either of the two issues in the case, the plaintiff's title to a right of possession being merely "verdict for defendant," that it does not conform to the statute and was not a bar to further action upon either of both issues.

One Thousand Horses Sold.

Last week Messrs. Fleming, Shann and Haight sold a large number of their horses from the Bakeoven range. We did not learn the number disposed of by each, but the aggregate was in the neighborhood of 1,000 head, the entire lot being sold to California buyers. The price ranged between $10 and $17 per head.—Antelope Herald.

PLAINT OF THE PLUTOCRAT.

I have bought everything I can buy;
I have tried everything I can try;
I have eaten each eatable;
Beaten each beatable;
I have eyed everything I can eye.

I have sold everything I can sell;
I have told everything I can tell;
I have seized all the seizable;
Squeezed all the squeezable;
Till they've shelled everything they can shell.

I have ridden each thing I can ride;
I have hidden everything I can hide;
I have joked all the jokable;
Soaked all the soicable;
I have slid everywhere I can slide.

I have walked everywhere I can walk;
I have talked everywhere I could talk;
I have kissed all the kissable;
Hissed all the hissable;
I have balked everything I could balk.

I have crushed everything one I could crush;
I have hushed everyone I could hush;
I have drunk every drinkable;
Thought every thinkable;
I have rushed everywhere I could rush.

I have been everything I can be;
And the scheme of things will not agree;
I have spent all that's spendable;
Still its not endable;
And I mean its a bother to me.

INJUSTICE.

We watch with eager longing for the robin in the spring,
And we strain our ears to hear his primal note.
Our hearts are filled with gladness when at last we hear him sing,
And the music thrills us ripping from his throat.

We like to hear the twitter of the sparrows in the trees,
And the orioles are welcome when they come,
And the bluebird charms us, swinging in the tree top in the breeze,
But we hate to hear the first mosquito hum!

It is rank discrimination, for the skeeter does her best,
And she bravely sings the only song she knows,
And it isn't right to blame her if she robs us of our rest
When we're settled to enjoy a quiet doze.

She has the best intentions and she's not at all to blame
If her voice is not as musical as some,
But there's really no use talking, she'll get slapped at, just the same.

For we hate to hear the first mosquito hum!

Prisoners Will Celebrate.

Walla Walla, July 1.—Arrangements have been made whereby an attractive program will be presented at the state penitentiary on July 4. For the forenoon, a series of field sports have been prepared, in which some excellent athletic talent will participate. In the afternoon, strel and vaudeville entertainment will be given. Many who were at the institution on the same day of last year, will see much pleasure in the interesting work performance presented by the prisoners.
