to Be a Rough and Ambitious Affair for Every-Body Who Entered.

CANS DO NOT APPEAR TO BE IN IT.

tion of Bad Starts and Accidents Hoodoo Most of the American and English Sports—Enormous Spectators Are Witnessing the Contest.

Shannon, Ireland, July 2.—Ideal conditions for the international automobile race made today perfect for the spectators. The first train represented the country in the civilized world. The time the race was under way 2,000 spectators were at the railway station, seven miles from the starting point. Cab men are a harvest, charging as high as 50 cents per ride. Hundreds camped in the course all night, being unable to obtain accommodations.

Beginning for Americans. The race started at intervals of five minutes. All obtained a good start. Moers and Winton, the two riders, Moers got rattled in several seconds trying to stop his brakes all set. The laughing. Winton's mishap was serious. Just before the start was discovered that his car was broken and he was unable to start. With his chauffeur and with the machine, which was on one side of the road, the cars whizzed past, having completed the first circle. An Englishman suggested to withdraw. Winton refused. He finally amid great cheering, but late. It is beyond probability he can come out front. Some time after the race started and became threatening and ing this came the intelligence of Jarrott, also English, met the first report of a broken knee cap. This was true, as he was not badly injured. Jarrott was completely smashed to make a bad career. His car was overturned. Jarrott's chauffeur were thrown to the ground, narrowly escaped a fall. The baron stopped his car and Jarrott to rise. The accident near Strandbally. Edge, of the cup, is the only one left in the race.

round by one. Owen completed two rounds, Winton and Moers, one each. Best time for a mile was made by Gabriel, a Frenchman in 53 seconds. The average work, however, is not up to expectations.

At 150 miles Genatzy is leading Dokniff by four minutes and 20 seconds, Farman four thirty, Edge by forty-two twenty-two. Shortly after 1, Keene gave up the race before finishing the second round, the axle of his car weakening. Rain has commenced.

Americans Not in It.

Keene had traveled 160 miles in four hours and 26 minutes when he dropped out. Winton and Owen completed the third round more than a hundred miles behind the leaders.

Sensational Episode.

Denknyff, the French driver, was the first to enter on the last round, followed four minutes and 52 seconds later by Ganatzy, the German. Barring accidents, the latter should win, inasmuch as he started 14 minutes after Denknyff. Moers, the American, is out of the race as his machine broke down at Athay, four hours after the start.

The day has been one of great excitement. Owen and Genatzy fought for first place almost in front of the grand stand, at 8:50 this morning. Owen came a 60-mile clip, while a few yards behind came Genatzy, leaning forward, forcing his machine to its limit in full pursuit of Owen and at 75 miles an hour. The crowds rose en masse, cheering at the plucky exhibition. There was an immense swirl of dust, from which Genatzy emerged in the lead.

Owen later sustained damages to his car, but continued holding on to Genatzy with grim determination, and passed the stand the second round at 10:24, being four minutes in the rear of Genatzy, but still pressing his machine to its utmost. He was given great applause.

German Won the Race.

Genatzy, the German, won the race, according to unofficial reckoning. Denknyff, the Frenchman, reached the mark first, but Genatzy received the time allowance, beating by 10 minutes.

Official Award.

Genatzy has been officially declared the winner by a time margin of about three minutes. The Scott Montague trophy for team work was won by the French team.

The Wabash railway is practically out of business on account of wash-outs. In several places the volume of water was too great to be carried through the culverts, which also clogged, and the pressure of water tore out hundreds of yards of heavy embankment and grade.

Several houses have been burned from lightning strokes, and all the telephone exchanges and toll lines of this city and vicinity are not working, the instruments being burned out.

The ultimate destination of the road is San Diego, Cal., which is also an objective point of the Rock Island, which is working toward it from the eastward.
