PE LEO XIII STILL LIVES

er Mind of the Church Rome Still in Its Earthly Element.

CTED WITH PLEURISY AND PARALYSIS IN FINGERS

tion is Frequently Made That Italian Cardinal Oreglia is the Most Likely to Succeed to the Pontificate.

July 7.—It is officially stated here that the pope's condition has become somewhat worse, inasmuch as pleurisy and paralysis of the fingers has set in, due to the heart action affecting the point slightly in his holiness' chest, the change in the right side of the throat, the middle lobe of which was yesterday blocked. Today it has been cleared to allow air to pass. The operation of puncturing the pleura with a pravaz syringe and drawing off the water collected was to have taken place at 4 o'clock today, but it was found his holiness' condition is too great to stand the operation.

July 7.—The Lokai Anzeiger correspondent at Rome reports that he had with Dr. Oreglia and quotes him as saying: "The pope's condition, although considered, is hopeless. An ailment like the pope's at his age, and especially lead to death. The organs, however, is abnormal, which can do miracles. Modern science can do nothing to receive the sacrament yesterday the pope said: 'How near my end I do not know. All I have done has been to certainly obey my command and our faith.'

The End is Near. July 7.—An official telegram from the Vatican at 11 today states the pope's condition is most serious and is almost in extremity.

is Clear to the Last. July 7.—Telegrams continue to come into the Vatican asking for the pope's condition. Many, especially from various rulers, are expressions of sympathy, who express their sympathy with the interest in the pope's condition. The story of the struggle shows every means possible to suggest was used to bring about a spark of life. Time after time an oxygen was administered to the patient and the room impregnated with the revivifying gas. On several occasions he sank into unconsciousness, but it was one of exhaustion rather than of rest, and he generally recovered with perspiration flowing from his forehead, and in a few minutes he was again conscious.

Support stated early this morning that the pope could advance no hope. He continues to take nourishment and retains wonderful mental strength. He was given soup at 7 o'clock, and seemed somewhat better. Nourishment, however, in the amount the doctor desire him to take, but to give him more as his condition is such he could not.

Hope is Not Abandoned. July 7.—The pope's condition has improved following dispatch from Rome this morning. There is no worse today. Condition is very serious state without making us lose every day.

Operated Upon. July 7.—The pope's physician this afternoon says a puncture in the pleura has just taken place. Eight grammes of matter were removed. A rapid examination showed the patient stood the operation bravely and well, maintaining consciousness and general control. He is now resting well, but his mind is not so clear. The pope and Laponi. Up to 7 o'clock 3,782 telegrams were received from all parts of the world, congratulating him in his illness.

Oreglia May Succeed. July 7.—Mazzoni was this morning at the Vatican and consulted with Laponi. Then both entered the sick room. The pope smiled benevolently at Mazzoni, but seemed not to have sufficient strength to talk. In response to greetings from Mazzoni the pope said, "I have no illusions and am resigned," and raised his eyes evidently in prayer. The pope expressed a desire to read two leading papers to see what they were saying about his illness. Special editions were sent him.

Cardinal Oreglia begins to be the center of all vatican affairs, as it is believed the time is short before he will assume the supreme power. Already the engineers who will wall up the cardinals in conclave when they proceed to the election of a new pope have reported to Oreglia.

Slept Tranquilly.
 Rome, July 7.—The pope slept quietly after the operation. The sleep, however, which at first seemed tranquil, soon gave rise to alarm, as it threatened to become a coma. When fully awake he exclaimed, "I am really in this world. I dreamed I was in paradise."

Last Hour Draws Near.
 Paris, July 7.—Rampolla has wired the Nuncio of Paris the following: "The phenomena attending the pope's illness are more marked. Pray for him."

TO INVESTIGATE MINE HORROR

Claimed the Hanna Workings Were Not Inspected or Protected Properly.

CLAMORING TO KNOW CAUSE OF DISASTER.

Greed Declared to Have Long Impaired the Victims, and That a Liability to Explosion Was Known to the Managers.

Hanna, Wyo., July 7.—Gov. Crittenton will cause an investigation of the Hanna mine catastrophe to be made as soon as the mine shall be in condition to be inspected. Leading citizens throughout Wyoming and also the newspapers of the state are clamoring for such action. It is demanded that the matter be probed to the bottom and, if the coal company or mine inspectors have been guilty of negligence or criminal carelessness it will be found out and the guilty parties, if any, will be prosecuted.

The horrors of the disaster have aroused the people of the entire state. As coal mining is one of the leading industries, and there are 6,000 or 7,000 men employed at it, it is argued that the Hanna catastrophe should be investigated thoroughly in order to prevent a recurrence.

Mine Not Well Inspected.
 It is strongly hinted that the mine was not properly inspected; that it was known a large quantity of gas was in the workings at the time of the accident, and that the men were sent down to their doom by the officials with the full knowledge that a disaster might overtake them at any time, and all because the company must get out coal.

The Hanna mines were operated much more cheaply than any other coal property in the world. The great thickness of the vein, the ease with which the coal was removed to the surface, and the fancy price received for the fuel returning to the company big profits, was too great a temptation even in the face of the fact that it was known the mine was a death trap.

Evidence Against Company.
 It is said that some survivors of the disaster have gathered evidence of sufficient strength to win for the widows and children large sums of money as damages. It will be shown in addition to the alleged fact that there was 200 feet of gas in the workings the night before the accident, that fires had been smoldering in the mines for 12 years, that the property had several times been condemned, and that the foul gases were simply walled up and the entry in which the fire damp appeared abandoned from time to time as the trouble was met with. All of these facts and many more the company will be compelled to deny in court.

No Business Being Done.
 The stores and other places of business, which were closed at the time of the accident, are still closed, there being no disposition upon the part of the business men to reopen, and there would be no trading if they did.

Word was received from Rawlins, Rock Springs, Saratoga, Encampment and other towns that money was being collected to be sent to the mayor here for disbursement among the widows and fatherless children. At Rawlins $600 was collected in a few minutes, and other towns were equally as generous. Entertainments will be given everywhere throughout the state, the proceeds being turned over to the survivors of the worst mine disaster in the history of the West.

STRANGLER OF WOMEN.

Crime Attributed to a Professional Criminal.

Denver, July 7.—Mabel Brown, aged 20, was found dead in her house at 1931 Market street, this morning. Her hands were bound, and there was evidence that she had been strangled to death. There is no clue to the murderer. The case, in many of its details, strongly suggested the series of murders by strangulation which took place in this neighborhood some years ago.

Sonoma county, California, is now experiencing one of the most destructive forest fires in her history.

RACE RIOTS IN INDIANA

Desperate Fighting Between the Evansville Mob and State Militia.

MORE TROOPS ARRIVING AND THE END IS NOT YET.

Six Persons Were Killed and Twenty-Five Wounded in an Assault on the Jail—Brown, the Negro, Fatally Wounded.

Evansville, Ind., July 7.—The race war started late last night when a little boy named Logan was shot in the leg by a negro. An unknown negro woman had been killed and several negroes have been seriously injured. The entire police force is stationed at the jail and the negroes are taking possession of the town.

It is the immediate outcome of the shooting of Patrolman Massey Friday night by Lee Brown, a negro. Brown and another negro had engaged in a quarrel and Brown had sworn to kill his antagonist. He ran toward his home to secure a revolver, and Patrolman Massey hearing of the trouble, lay in wait for Brown. As the negro came back, armed, hunting for his enemy, Massey stepped from a doorway and laid his hand on Brown's shoulder. Brown turned quickly and shot the patrolman in the abdomen.

The officer, as he lay on the walk, fired at Brown and wounded him dangerously. He fell and the two fired at each other as they lay on the pavement, emptying their revolvers.

Six Killed Last Night.
 Evansville, July 7.—Six of those wounded in last night's rioting will probably die. The list now stands six killed and 24 wounded. Negroes continue to leave the city. The colored fire company deserted and the engine house is closed. They asked permission temporarily to resign, which was not granted.

Everything is quiet this morning, but vast throngs gathered about the courthouse square, where the battle took place last night. Ropes have been stretched about the jail to keep the crowd back from the sheriff's residence.

The pavements about the jail are in many places covered with blood, where the dead and dying lay after the conflict. Another company of state militia arrived early this morning. A request will be made today for additional companies.

Conference of Business Men Called.
 Indianapolis, July 7.—The governor this morning wired the mayor of Evansville saying the town owed it to the good name of the city and the state to take action and assist the civil authorities for the preservation of order and that further militia demonstration should not be necessary. He urged him to call at noon a conference of business men and report the result of the meeting, saying what action the conference believes best to prevent further rioting.

Negro Scarcely Alive.
 Vincennes, July 7.—Brown was scarcely alive and had to be administered stimulants over two hours before he was taken to the train. The removal was made by the governor's orders.

Negroes Fleeing.
 Henderson, Ky., July 7.—Three hundred negroes arrived in boats from Evansville today.

More Trouble Expected.
 Indianapolis, July 7.—Six companies of militia left here this afternoon at the command of the governor for Evansville, where Adjutant-General Ward will take command tonight with over 2,000 fully armed men. The meeting of Evansville business men wired the governor: "We are aware we should control the situation, but we are powerless. Please rush additional troops, as more trouble is feared tonight."

Afraid of a Lynching.
 Vincennes, Ind., July 7.—Fearing trouble here on account of continued threats, the authorities secretly this forenoon took the negro, Brown, wanted by the Evansville mob, to the Jeffersonville reformatory for safe-keeping.

Wise, of Virginia, who will take as his subject, "The Constitutional View of the Race Question." Another interesting feature of the session will be a memorial service in honor of the late President McKinley, who was a prominent member of the association.

PENNSYLVANIA FLOOD.

Four More Known Victims of the Cloudburst of Yesterday.
 Jeannette, Pa., July 7.—Four more names are added to the list of flood victims who are missing today. No more bodies have been recovered. The waters are subsiding, leaving whole sections buried beneath mud and debris and rendering the search difficult.

PRESIDENT LOUBET ABROAD

WARMLY WELCOMED BY ENGLISH NEIGHBORS.

Confers Several Honors and Orders Upon Frenchmen in Various Institutions in London.

London, July 7.—President Loubet this morning first visited the French hospital and there conferred the Legion of Honor on Senior Surgeon Edmund Owen. He afterward drove through the French colony to the French government institution, where he conferred the order of the Silver Palm on the superintendents. At a late hour, en route to the mansion house, he was escorted by the life guards and given a tremendous ovation. Bells rang and crowds collected along the line of march with roars of cheering.

Emotionalism is no factor in the average Englishman's nature and the cordiality manifested toward the president of France is accentuated at its face value as an index of the spirit of rapprochement predicted many years ago by Gladstone, and openly recognized since by statesmen and authors on both sides of the channel, notably Max O'Rell, Zola and Hugo in France, and W. T. Stead, Gladstone and the Lord Mayor of London.

NO POLITICS AT ALL.

SEATTLE THUGS ROB AND MURDER

Aged Woman Defends Her Money and is Beaten Nearly to Death.

ONE ROBBER IS CAPTURED WHILE TWO OTHERS ESCAPE.

Fireman Con Cunningham, Who Came to the Rescue of the Policeman, is Shot in the Head and Will Die.

Seattle, July 7.—Three masked men entered the Palace lodging house on Weller street, early this morning and brutally beat and choked and afterward robbed Mrs. E. Robinson, aged 70.

Her screams attracted the attention of Policeman Norman, who entered the place and drew his gun, but was seized from behind before he could use it. A desperate battle ensued. City Fireman Con Cunningham came to the rescue of the policeman and was shot in the head and fatally wounded. The policeman and one robber rolled down two flights of stairs, fighting all the way. The robber was finally subdued and locked up. He gave the name of James Barton. The others escaped.

Norman, the policeman, was robbed during the affray, of $48 by one of the robbers who escaped. Mrs. Robinson was so badly choked and beaten that she is in a precarious condition.

MILLER BOYS RELEASED.
Their Father Assumes the Responsibility for Their Future Behavior.

L. W. Miller, of Spring Hollow, a little place near Wallula Junction, is in the city today and will take with him when he returns to his home, his two little sons, Wallace and Olace, who have been in the county jail for some time, accused of having attempted to wreck a train near Wallula a week or so ago.

These are the little boys who put spikes on the rails in front of the fast mail to see the engine jump, and then also nearly dived the freight train that followed. They were brought here and lodged in jail pending the action of the court, and it was expected that they would be sent to the reform school or to the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society home at Portland. While the authorities were thinking the matter over the father came to the city and asked to be allowed to take the boys out of the jail and to care for them at the home in Spring Hollow. The district attorney allowed the petition, and the boys were turned out of the custody of the sheriff this morning and will leave for their home this evening. All of the bills for clothing that the court had contracted were paid by the father.

CLAIMED HE WAS THROWN.
Was Made Defendant by Unruly Antic of a Horse.

Brady Bradison was released from the county jail this morning on the recommendation of the prosecuting attorney, who decided that there was not sufficient evidence to convict.

Some time ago Bradison borrowed a horse belonging to L. M. Bixens, which had been left at the Oregon Feed Yard, and rode it off. The horse was not returned and search was made for the man, and he was found on the Snyder place, about eight miles west of Pendleton. When arrested he claimed that the horse had thrown him and had got away from him and that he did not know where it was. The horse was afterwards found north of the city, thus supporting the story. In view of this fact the evidence would not convict and the young man was turned loose.

The street fairs at both Salem and Albany came to a close Sunday.
