AS TO COLD STORAGE

ROSS COMPANY BUSINESS CONSTANTLY INCREASING.

Forty-Six Tons of Ice Sent to Outside Points During Past Three Days—Immense Quantities of Local Product Are Stored at the Plant—The Firm Must Soon Greatly Increase the Output.

Yesterday afternoon the Ross Ice and Cold Storage Company shipped a carload of 25 tons of crystal ice to Milton, and the day before that they sent 21 tons to Heppner to relieve the heat at that place.

The business of the company is increasing much more rapidly than it was expected to and the managers of the company are correspondingly jubilant. Orders from all over the country have been coming in and the house is fast filling up with the goods and perishable freight that is being stored by the local merchants and others for the hot weather.

It is a strange sight to go through the plant and see the men at work in their heavy overcoats, while within a few feet of them the thermometer points to the 100 mark in the shade. Yesterday they were loading a car of ice, and while the men in the storage room were wearing heavy boots and woolen mittens and winter overcoats and were none too warm at that, the men to whom they were passing the big cakes of ice for the car were panting and perspiring with shirts open at the throat and sleeves rolled up.

On the porch in front of the house the mercury in the tube was trying to spill itself over the top of the glass almost, and the reporter looking longingly at the closed door that led into the hall of the cold storage department. The door was opened and he went in from the heat to where it was cold as winter and the frost stood on the pipes that lined the walls; but that was not the coldest, for it is not cooled directly as the rooms along the side are.

In one of the rooms the thermometer stood at 22 above and all around the walls were piled rows on rows of butter. In the room there were 2,000 rolls, or 4,000 pounds of the commodity, and it was all as hard and solid as a pile of so much brick. Had the room been completed a little earlier it could have been filled with the butter from all over the county, for the dealers could have bought it a great deal cheaper than now, and they would have bought more for the summer trade when it is quoted high. As it is, there is enough now on hand, to feed the people for some time to come, and it will be cold and fresh and sweet.

Adjoining this room is another full of meat and lard belonging to one of the local houses. Everything from lambs to steers are hung along the walls and on the racks in the middle of the room, and it is all as cold as though it was in some northern clime. The temperature of this room is not run down to the freezing point, but is carried a few degrees above and the meat is kept in the room for a week or more before it is sold in the market. In this way it is generally chilled but not frozen, and comes out sweet and juicy and tender.

Along one side of the room are piled tier on tier of lard pails and cans, and the lard is hard and white as it ever gets. Lard brought from the shops in a liquid state soon cools here and keeps sweet and fresh.

It is not necessary to mention the beer and eggs and fruit and other goods stored in the building, but they are all there and will be good and cold when the people want them for their use.

The company is now selling four tons of their ice to the local trade and the amount is growing daily. Fourteen tons are taken from the tank each day and put in the store room, and in this way each day there is a surplus of 10 tons piled up for the outside trade. At the present rate that the business is increasing it will not be long until the full capacity of the plant will have to be operated in order to keep up with the demand.

The company have now taken the concern over from the contractors, and it is started out permanently on the road to success and will rapidly become one of the big institutions of the Inland Empire.

AT SHIELDS' PARK.

Clean and Interesting Program Rendered Last Night.

A large and appreciative audience enjoyed several hours of clean, wholesome fun at Shields' Park last night. From start to finish there was not a dull minute. Probably one of the best acts was the Cockatoo circus, which was easily worth the price of admission alone. The birds are trained to do many remarkable feats. For example, they will enter a burning dollhouse and throw out the furniture run chariot races, trot in sulkeys and other equally remarkable feats.

The trapeze work of the Kobers is something that has probably never been excelled in the city and is exceptionally clever. Irene, the child singer, won hearty applause with her singing and contortion work. The singing dog, Dixie, charmed the little folks. The sketch work

A Mistake

In shipping our order recently from a large Eastern toilet paper factory, an error was made and a much higher grade paper was sent—a fine tissue worth 12 1/2c a roll. Rather than recall the shipment the factory turned over the entire shipment to us at the price of a cheaper grade.

Nothing like it has ever been sold in this city.
