CONSUMERS ARE FRONTED BY A PERSISTENT PROBLEM

Causes for the Steady Advance in the Wood as Pendleton.

Seven dollars a cord, and not very big cords at that. Such is the verdict of the woodman and such is the price that the people of this city will have to pay to keep warm through the cold months that are coming on the heels of this time when the chief thought is how to wear as few clothes as possible with as unconscious an air as can be mustered.

The wood situation is growing gradually from year to year a more sort ous one to this section, and it will be but a short time until the price of the fuel will reach so high a mark that all of the residents here will be fore-ed to use coal, or spend all of their earnings for the wood. But the people are learning the lesson early, and more coal is used each year. This year the Pendleton Hotel and the Savings Bank, and several of the other big places of the city will cut out the wood, and most of the business houses along the main streets have already done so. Wood is doomed as far as general use is concerned, and it will not be long until the wood fire in the parlor grate will be a luxury only indulged in by the well-to-do.

Costs More to Get Out Wood.

The forest supply is fast shrinking back farther and farther from the railroad tracks, and for each balt mile that the timber line recedes the price will grow from 50 to 75 cents on each cord And another thing that is making wood dear is the fact that no one can be found to cut it in the Men are getting $1.25 a cor for cutting now, and are hard to find at that price. Then it takes from cents to $1.50 to get a cord hauled to the car, so that the wood costs $3 and $3.50 on the car. Added to this is the cost of handling in the city, and the cutting price here so that the consumer can look forward to paying from $6.50 to $7.

The county usually burns about 120 cords of wood during the winter, the water company 600 cords, the power company 1,800, and the hotels and restaurants have also used a good deal. This year the power company will be the only big consumer in the city, for all of the rest are hoping to put in coal. The city wants coal, but will perhaps use wood for another year. The hotels, with the exception of the French Restaurant, are already using coal, and the water company uses slabs at a reduced rate. Last year the city consumed about 10,000 cords during the winter, but this year it is not thought by the dealers that the figures will reach the 9,000 mark, and it will be considered a good year's trade if it goes over the 8,000. Of course, the dealers are not worrying for as the use of the wood decreases the use of the coal increases, and they are as sure of their business as the preacher and the undertaker,

Same Freight Rate for Walla Walla Most of the wood comes from the Kamela country, and since Walla Walla has the same rate over the rails as Pendleton, much of the wood that is cut goes to that city. This is A great used for drinking purposes."—E. O. deal of the Blue mountain wood goes to the Washington trade, when it should come here. If the rates could water that has been both boiled and be graded a little, Pendleton would distilled. It is cheaper than you can boil the water Ross Ice Co. Phone it would come cheaper and more plending. the absence of the price will stay up, and the bulk of the trade will go to the other place.

The most of the good coal used here comes from Rock Springs, Wyo., and if is laid down at $8 a ton. This is much cheaper than wood, for a ton of good coal well handled, will equal two cords of wood in any time or place.

The great trouble is that there are but few people who know how to handle coal, and they waste the heat and use twice as much coal as is nec essary for the needs of the occasion

Increasing Use of Coal. Looking at it from the dealers standpoint. It will be but a short time until all of the fuel will be coal for it is cheaper and in the long run is better, taking into consideration the uncertainties of the service and the increasing difficulty of delivery. In a year or two the price of wood will reach so high a figure that all of the consumers will put in coal stoves, and them if the wood men open some new country and the price falls the people will still use the coal rather than again change their stoves and heat-
