Formerly of Pendleton.

E. E. Sharon, of Portland, is in the city today, the guest of his brother, Julius Sharon, of this place. Mr. Sharon is an old-time newspaper man of this city and is well known here. He is grand secretary of the I. O. O. F. and grand scribe of the encampment, and has been to Heppner for some time engaged in looking over the relief work of the I. O. O. F. at that place. He came to Pendleton to visit with his brother and take his family back to Portland. He will return in the morning.

Colony of School Teachers.

J. F. Nowlin, the county superintendent of schools, has returned from his homestead near Alba, where he has been for the past two weeks. There are a number of school teachers and clerks who have taken claims near each other in the vicinity of the claim that Professor Nowlin has, and they have formed quite a colony there. There is all manner of game in the neighborhood, and the campers live high while they are on their holdings. Several are camped there at this time.

Returned From the East.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Gwinn and daughter returned this afternoon from an extended visit in the East, where Mr. Gwinn went to attend the meeting of the One Hundred Thousand Dollar Club of the New York Life Insurance Company. After the meeting of the club they went to several of the Eastern cities for visits with friends and relatives, and to see the various points of interest.

They Lead the Procession

The popularity of Swift's products among all classes is very largely due to the absolutely clean and hygienic conditions under which each carcass is dressed, and the meat and the food products prepared and inspected. This is particularly true of Swift's Premium Ham and Bacon. From the sleek, corn-fed hogs in the pens, the carefully selected hams and bacon in the smokehouse, the final expert inspection by the U. S. government, and, lastly, the dainty wrapping in parchment paper, each step in the evolution of these nutritious and appetizing products is a guarantee that they will always please.

ATTENDANCE LIGHT

ABSENCE OF BUSINESS MEN FROM CITY RESPONSIBLE.

Dr. LeRoy Explains Need of More Thorough Advertising in the Oregon Exhibit and Outlines Work of Oregon Information Bureau at the Commercial Association Parlor Last Night.

Owing to absence of many of the business men from the city, there was only a small attendance at the special meeting of the Commercial Association last evening, called for the purpose of listening to the remarks of Dr. A. LeRoy, on the aims and scope of the Oregon Information Bureau, which is now collecting exhibits for the purpose of advertising the state.

Dr. LeRoy gave a brief review of the work of the bureau during its short life. When he took charge of the work in April, there were but one or two exhibits on hand, and in the past three months he has secured exhibits and advertising matter from nearly every county west of the Cascades, and has the rooms filled with the splendid products of the state.

He says the bureau makes a specialty of greeting homeseekers, and placing them on the right track, on their arrival in Portland. For this service alone the bureau has earned the perpetual gratitude of the citizens of Portland, who feel that in this institution the stranger has a friend which will protect him from the wiles of the grafter who is always on hand to meet the unsuspecting.

Speaking of the need of such a bureau in the large cities of the West, to which most of the tourists and homeseekers buy their tickets, he says that 44,000 people have settled in the State of Oregon in the past 17 months, and that this great host of investors and homeseekers must grope almost blindly through the maze of opportunities awaiting them, without some organized and systematic force to direct them. In this bureau, which is seeking to have every portion of the state represented in its exhibits, is found just such a directing force and as people come to understand its mission more fully, its work will be enlarged and its influence felt.

Of this addition of 44,000 people to the population of Oregon, in the past 17 months, Umatilla county is accredited with but 1,000, which number, according to estimates made, has been added to the population of the city of Pendleton alone, in that time. As a basis for determining her population, Portland multiplies her number of school children 4 1/2. Using this basis for determining the population of Pendleton, it will give her 6,844, or a total of 1,521 school children multiplied by 4 1/2. The same basis would give Umatilla county an increase of 1,561 population in the past year, as the number of school children in the county has increased 347 in that time.

Dr. LeRoy called attention to the fact that this great number of people had settled in Oregon with but little inducement in the way of advertising and that with organized effort, many more of the most desirable class would come. The interior of Oregon is capable of supporting 10 times its present population and in the territory thus represented, is room for several cities as large and prosperous as Pendleton. All that is needed to bring about the complete settlement of this vast domain is advertising, diffusion of knowledge of the great resources lying dormant, and to this end the Oregon Bureau of Information is directing its efforts and invites Oregon to assist.

The county courts of the state were empowered by the last legislature to expend a sum not exceeding $1,000 each year for advertising purposes and it is the hope of the bureau that some of the Eastern Oregon counties may be induced to take advantage of this law.

The Commercial Association appointed a special committee some time ago to confer with the county court of this county on the subject, but so far no arrangement has been made.

Owing to absence of many of the business men from the city, no definite action was taken last evening.

but the matter will be taken up later in the season, when due attention will be given to the important matter of having Umatilla county represented in that collection.

Dr. LeRoy left this morning for Milton and will probably return to spend Saturday and Sunday in this city on his way to La Grande.

STABBING AFFRAY

WARRANT OUT FOR ARREST OF WILLIAM COSTELLO.

Claimed That He Carved Will Davis Without Provocation — Defendant Will Make a Fight — Both Men Have Their Partisans and the Case Will Be Stubbornly Contested.

Papers have been filed in the case of the State of Oregon vs. William Costello. It is a case growing out of a quarrel in the harvest field, and it is charged that Costello assaulted Will Davis with a knife and inflicted on him severe injuries. Eugene S. Smith is the complaining witness.

The affair took place on the farm of W. R. Campbell, 16 miles north of the city, near North Cold Springs. It seems that Costello was loading from the header and Davis was driving the wagon. He did not place his wagon in the right position and was told to pull up the loader. A quarrel arose about the matter and Davis wanted to fight, but Costello told him to wait till after supper when he would satisfy the cravings of his nature for blood.

The affair ended there for the time being, and the teams were unhitched for the evening. Costello was taking his horses to the barn, and as he got to the door Davis stepped out and knocked him down. He fell under his horses, but as soon as he got to his feet he drew his knife and went to the other fellow, with the result that he cut him over the eye, across the bridge of the nose, and dug a small piece out of his side in the region of the short ribs over the heart. Davis ran and the men were separated. Later the warrant was sworn out.

This is the story of Doc Campbell, the owner of the outfit for which the men were working, and he has signified his intention to fight the case for the defendant, since he believed Davis to have been the aggressor. The men on the other side, however, says that it was the other way around and that Costello was the leader in the trouble. The warrants in the case were issued this morning, and as soon as they have been served the case will be arraigned and the time for the examination set by the court.

BIDS FOR OLD POOR FARM.

None Made That the Court Will Accept—Will Move to New Farm About August 15.

G. A. Hartman left this morning for Weston, where he goes to look after the harvesting of the crop on property owned by him. Judge Hartman says that the county court has advertised for bids on the old poor farm property, but has found none that are satisfactory as yet. Unless it can get a good price for the land it will not sell it.

As soon as the hay crop is gathered from the land of the old farm and the work will slacken up a little, the move from the old to the new quarters will be made. It will be about 10 days or two weeks before the superintendent will attempt to make the move.

Visitors From Portland.

Misses Maise and Corne Murphy, of Portland, are the guests of their uncle, Thomas Fitz Gerald. They accompanied the judge on his return from the city, and will spend some time in Pendleton.

A SAFE HIT

When a baseball player bats a ball out in the center field where there is no fielder, it is called a safe hit.

When we get a customer started on our Afternoon Tea it is a safe proposition that they are safe hit.

It has that peculiar, pleasing flavor that makes one want to close the eyes and dream they can taste it yet.
