

"The Breakers"

Where to Stop at North Beach.

The Breakers Hotel is conducted to attract the best patronage, and is a summer hotel that is unsurpassed on the Pacific Coast north of the famous California beach resorts.

The building has an ocean front of 100 feet, is 76 feet wide and four stories high, or 73 feet from the ground floor to the top of the observatory.

It has handsomely furnished rooms, single or en suite, for 250 guests, each room being carpeted.

The house is lighted by electricity with electric lights and electric call bells in every room, and these lights make it one of the most brilliant beacons on the entire coast.

The entire lower floor is thrown open to the public, and, being beautifully carpeted, the spacious reception room and large airy halls always form favorite gathering places for guests. The billiard and pool room is also quite popular for merry gatherings.

An Aeolian and Pianola in the commodious parlor furnishes delightful music at all times, and musicals are pleasant features during the entire season.

The Breakers has a regular orchestra which furnishes music for informal dances and balls, and the large dining room, with its smooth, hard floor, makes an ideal hall for regular dancing parties.

An abundance of fresh and salt water fish, clams, oysters, crabs and other sea food is always on our menu; our entire supply of milk, butter and cream comes from our own herd of Jersey cows, and poultry and eggs are supplied from the hotel farm adjoining the grounds.

There are hot and cold, fresh and salt water baths in the house, with private baths and toilets.

The waves of the ocean at high tide roll within 200 feet of the hotel, and the beach in front is superb for surf bathing.

On the grounds are bowling alleys, golf links, tennis courts and croquet sets; on the lakes, just back of the hotel, is a fleet of sail and rowboats, and on Shoalwater Bay, just east of the lakes, is a gasoline launch for parties of fishermen, picnickers or others who prefer the warm, still-water bathing to the tumbling of the surf.

All trains stop at the railroad station in the hotel grounds, and no crowding into hotel omnibuses or walking in sand is necessary, since the hotel ground is a perfect velvety lawn, where the guests are practically landed at the hotel door.

The Breakers Hotel is located at Breakers Station, a regular ticket office, where all trains stop. It is one and a half miles north of Long Beach Station.

In purchasing tickets see that they read to Breakers, Wash., and have baggage checked through to that point.

Telegraph and telephone connections in the hotel.

ONE OREGON KING

JESSE D. CARR, THE EC-CENTRIC CATTLE MAN.

Brief Story of His Wonderful Career—Beginnings of His Great Wealth in Oregon—Water More Valuable Than Land.

At 90 years of age, absolutely blind, totally deaf in one ear and so badly afflicted in the other that none but trumpet tones are ever heard, the man whose motto in life—"work hard; earn all you can, but get all that's coming to you"—has carried him on to rugged power and autocratic dominion over vast domains, is still one of the most notable figures in the entire West.

This man is Jesse D. Carr, cattle king of Southern Oregon.

But it is not so much what he has done as what he is doing and is still going to do that elevates his career into the realms of the wonderful, and made his birthday on the 10th of last month a perfect red letter day.

It is something to have been known as a "cattle king" at any time of life, but to have held that title for over a quarter of a century and to still hold it pre-eminent at such a hoary old age, even under such tremendous disadvantages as absolute blindness and almost total deafness, is nothing short of financial genius in an age so wildly acry after strenuousness.

And though Jesse D. Carr is and always has been a staunch democrat President Roosevelt could not find within the confines of the land he rules a more perfect embodiment of the pot word he has made synonymous with Americanism and commercial supremacy. Jesse D. Carr even at 90 years of age is nothing if not "strenuous."

His ambition is to live to be a hundred years old and to continue to exercise active supervision and absolute control over his rich lands and vast herds until the very last. It is an ambition he has cherished ever since he became the "cattle king" of California and Oregon, but what is more to the point under the present circumstances, it is an ambition that he has absolutely no doubt whatever of fulfilling, just as he has realized all his other Napoleonic dreams of wealth and industrial conquest.

Speaking of his start in Oregon to a correspondent, he gave out the following statement in regard to his coming north from California, and laying the foundations for an empire in the Webfoot state:

"I went up to Oregon long before the Modoc Indians began their war with the government, which lasted for about a year or two, so I guess it's not very surprising that the ranch has spread some since then," said Mr. Carr. "It didn't take me long to see that water rights up there are more valuable than the broad acres themselves. So I picked my land accordingly. That's why I control about 70,000 acres, even though I own only 20,000. But all those 30,000 or most of it anyway, have a frontage on the water. There's about eight or ten miles of frontage on Tule lake and over 22 miles of border around—completely around—Clear lake. My land lies in long strips between the water and the other fellow's land.

"If they wanted to raise cattle they had to have water and they couldn't get it without driving their cattle over my property. And as there were miles and miles of fence around my place—oh, about 20 to 40 miles or so of fence—that's where all the trouble began. They kept tearing my fences down and we went to law about it. But when the Washington folks sent out an expert that settled the difficulty. Some of the fence is still down and I'm just as well satisfied. I only wanted all that was coming to me—simply that and nothing more, and I got that, because it was my right. But the best testimony that was given for me was given by my neighbors, so I guess we are all right. Now these last two strips—one of some 5,000 acres and the other of 3,000 or 4,000 acres—just round out my holdings nicely—well—there won't be any more trouble."

And this is the man who at 90 is handling one of the biggest enterprises in the entire West, even into the smallest detail, and with the foundation of a splendid constitution and a wonderfully keen and active mind as his warrant, expects to remain the "Cattle King" for over 10 years more.

NEW ALIEN LAW.

Governor Chamberlain Notified of Late Immigration Act.

Governor Chamberlain yesterday received the following communication from acting Secretary of State F. B. Loomis, of Washington, D. C., which is self-explanatory and needs no introduction:

"I have the honor to call your attention to the enclosed copy of the act of congress approved March 3, 1903, to regulate the immigration of aliens into the United States, the thirty-ninth section of which, taking effect July 3, 1903, provides that in order to render a court judgment of naturalization valid, the court record must show that the person naturalized is not opposed to all organized government nor affiliated with any organization so opposed; that he does not

BORN ON THE TRAIN.

Great Northern Conductor Gracefully Handles Delicate Case.

The tragic birth of a child to a prominent young society woman of Wenatchee formed enough excitement to last Conductor F. D. Grant of the Great Northern and passengers arriving in this city over that road from Seattle Saturday to last for many weeks, says the Spokane Press.

Between Old Mission and Wenatchee the woman was taken seriously ill. She retired to the ladies' room, where the child was born and lost.

Several minutes later Conductor Grant was summoned and the stricken woman was aided by lady passengers. She was carried to the sleeping car and made as comfortable as possible until Wenatchee was reached. Still unconscious, the woman was carried from the train on a stretcher and taken to the home of her parents.

Physicians who were called in Wenatchee predicted the death of the woman, but today word reached Spokane that she was some better.

The affair created great excitement in Wenatchee. Every effort was made to keep the affair quiet, but it was the sole subject of discussion in the little city yesterday.

The woman is unmarried.

WONDERFUL CLOCK.

Strange Piece of Mechanism for St. Louis Fair.

The greatest clock in the world, the dial of which will be 120 feet in diameter, is being built at Milwaukee for use at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition next year. Only the hands and machinery are being made here, for the dial is to be a brilliant bed of flowers. The clock will be placed on the side of the hill north of the agricultural building.

The minute hand will be 60 feet long, and the ring at the end, which will be fastened to the machinery, will be eight feet in diameter. The minute hand will move five feet every minute. The numerals marking the various hours will be 15 feet in length and made of bright-colored colons. In a broad circle surrounding the dial will be 12 flower beds, one opposite each hour, and each two feet wide and 15 feet long. At night the timepiece will be illuminated with 2,000 incandescent lights.

TEMPERANCE UNION

STRONG CATHOLIC ORDER TO PROMOTE TEMPERANCE

Has a Membership of One Hundred Thirty Thousand in the United States—is in Session at Pittsburg With a Thousand Delegates in Attendance.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 5.—With its posing services at the Church of the Epiphany the annual national convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America began its session this morning. At 10 o'clock Rev. Richard Phelan, bishop of the Pittsburg diocese, celebrated his mass with many assisting clergymen. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. William Kelly, of Crafton.

The religious services concluded the delegates marched in a body the Duquesne theater, where the business sessions were begun. The interior of the theater was prettily decorated with banners and festoons of blue, which is the official color of the organization. The meeting was called to order by Rev. Walter Shanley, of Hartford, president of the union, who responded on behalf of the delegates to the cordial greetings of greeting. The roll call showed an attendance of nearly 1,400 delegates, representing a total membership of about 130,000, scattered throughout the United States.

The afternoon was taken up with the regular order of business, reading of the reports of delegates, and much public interest is manifested the mass meeting to be held tonight for the reason that the list of speakers includes the names of Archbishop Ireland, of St. Paul; Rt. Rev. F. Regis Canavin, coadjutor bishop of Pittsburg; the Rev. M. M. Sheedy, Altoona, and other prelates of no
