SCHOOL LIBRARIES

COUNTY COURT MAKES THE FIRST APPORTIONMENT.

Total of Six Hundred Forty Dollars for the Entire County, of Which Pendleton Receives One Hundred Fifty-Two.

J. F. Nowlin, the county superintendent of schools, has just completed the apportionment of the money given him by the county court for the establishment of libraries throughout the different school districts of the county. The law provides that the court shall give to the county superintendent once each year, a sum which shall amount to at least ten cents per capita for each of the school children in the county for the establishment of libraries throughout the county, one in each district. There are in the county 6,400 pupils in the various schools, and therefore the court gave to the superintendent a sum of $640.

The sum given was on the minimum basis of 10 cents to the pupil, and it is the first time that the court has voted the money in the history of the county. The books bought this time will be the nucleus for a library in each of the districts, which will grow as the money is voted from year to year.

By the provisions of the law the school board of each district shall at the call of the county superintendent meet him at his office, and there decide on the books they will buy from a list already approved by the state board of education. When they have made their choice the money will be paid for the books and the property will be forwarded to the various districts. Professor Nowlin has appointed the first week in September as the time that he will meet the school boards for the purpose of making the selections of the books. He will be at his office all of that week, ready to meet and confer with the boards on the subject.

By the apportionments the districts receive all the way from $1 to $152. The latter sum was given to the Pendleton district, and shows that there are 1,520 pupils in the Pendleton schools. Weston gets $32.80, Athena $36.60, Freewater $14.10 and Adams $15.90. These are the largest amounts in the county, and the others receive varying sums.

The books bought will be those that have been examined and approved by the state board as being moral in tone and beneficial to the minds of the young. They are standard books on travel, fiction, scientific and literary subjects and so written as to be interesting to the young and stimulative of a desire for good and solid reading.

SHIELDS' PARK.

Zoyarra Made a Hit and is Retained Two Weeks at Walla Walla.

A slight change has been occasioned in the program announced for the coming week at Shields' Park, by the patrons of the park at Walla Walla, requesting that Zoyarra, who performs a wonderful revolving globe act, remains the second week in that city.

The management consented to leave him there, and in his stead will send May and Baby Owens, here for the coming week. These people are sketch artists of a high order of ability and come well recommended. Zoyarra will be in Pendleton next week without fail.

The entire new program as announced Saturday will be given at the park tonight, and until Thursday night, when several good amateur numbers will be introduced and a change made in the professional bill.

Great interest is being taken in the prize contest, and the attendance is gratifying to the management. The prizes may be seen at Rader's furniture store.

Away for a Vacation.

Frank Macey, of the Boston Store, will leave in the morning for valley and coast points for a two weeks' vacation. Mr. Macey has been confined in the store for a year and a half without a vacation, and is pretty well worn by the service. He will visit at The Dalles and the Hot Springs, near that place, and from there he will go to Portland, and later to Salem, where his old home used to be. While away he will visit the various coast resorts, and have the most complete vacation he can in the time he has to spend.

AFTER GROUSE.

Game Warden Watched a Few Trial Shots and Then Went Off Duty.

It is said that the game warden sent a man out to watch the men who went after grouse Sunday morning and see that they did not shoot over the limit; but the man soon came to the conclusion that they were shooting over or under, or some place around the limit, but that it was in no danger of being hurt, so he went to sleep under the shade of a friendly tree.

When the trophies were counted, E. Y. Judd had two birds and C. J. Ferguson had just half as many. That was a pretty good average, though there are dark rumors afloat to the effect that some woolen mill money reposes in the bosom of the mountains. Perhaps the gentlemen thought it would be easier to carry the birds than the heavy metal.

George Van Dran was in the forefront of the fight and went loaded with 200 rounds of ammunition, one dog and a fierce determination to kill. He came home with 20 miles of mountain climbing and three shells to his credit. The dog got tired of following the tireless hunter and fell by the wayside. He has not yet come home. The shortage in ammunition is accounted for by the statement that the rest of the men used more than the owner of the shells expected when he left the city.

C. C. Berkeley got one bird and a lot of good exercise, and C. E. Roosevelt got the exercise and not the bird. But they had a nice trip and the water was good at the springs.

HORSES TO ALBERTA.

Eight Hundred Head Will Be Shipped From Echo in a Few Days.

The O. R. & N. has secured the contract for the transportation of the horses that Matlock will ship out of Echo during the week, and has ordered 35 large 26-foot stock cars for the train. It was expected to get the consignment off the first part of the week, but owing to the fact that all of the men who had contracted to supply horses have not as yet brought in their stock, it will be the latter part of the week before the train starts north.

There will be 700 or 800 head in the shipment, and they are all of them heavy horses, bought to suit the demand of the Calgary farming country. W. H. Babb will have charge of the shipment.

Fat Cattle Going West.

A large shipment of beef cattle passed down over the O. R. & N. Saturday night to the Seattle markets. They were loaded at Huntington and have been grazed in Malheur county, near Cow Valley, for the past three months.
