W. OF W. AFFAIRS

POSSIBILITY OF MOVING GRAND CLERK'S OFFICE.

Such a Proposition Would Result in a Determined Fight Between Many Towns, With a Probability of a Compromise on a Small Town Centrally Located—Matter Rests With the Next Session of the Grand Circle, at Los Angeles.

J. L. Wright, grand clerk of the Women of Woodcraft, and J. O. Heimberger, president of the Leadville Publishing and Printing Company, are in Pendleton today, visiting at the office of Grand Guardian Van Orsdall, en route to Leadville. The Grand Clerk attended the meeting of the board of grand managers held in Portland on the 5th. Considerable business of importance was transacted for the order, and plans were endorsed for the campaign work in the organization department for the winter.

At the adjournment of the session the members of the board of grand managers and the grand banker, Mary F. Hurley, of Portland, went to Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane to visit the local circles in these places. Mr. Wright and Mr. Heimberger leave this evening on No. 2 for home, stopping at Boise for a day or two. Grand Clerk Wright will later attend the fraternal congress as a representative of the Women of Woodcraft. He will be accompanied by Grand Physician Keykendall of Eugene, Oregon, and Grand Physician Griffith, of Leadville.

As to Moving Grand Clerk's Office.

When asked by an East Oregonian reporter as to the rumor that the grand clerk's office was to be moved from Leadville, Mr. Wright said that it was only a rumor. "No organized movement has been made along that line, and none will be attempted. The question of changing the headquarters is one that can only be acted upon by the Grand Circle session, which will not meet until April, 1905. There is a strong sentiment in the jurisdiction that the grand guardian and the grand clerk's offices should be in the same town for the convenience and efficiency in carrying on the business of the order, which has grown to such enormous proportions in the last two years. I think it very probable that this sentiment will crystallize at the Los Angeles session, and that steps may be taken for such change; but whether the grand clerk's office will be moved to the coast, or the grand guardian's office will be moved to Colorado, is something that no one can pass creditable judgment upon at this date."

Will Be a Fight if Attempted.

But whenever the change is attempted it will cause a fight, not only from the office at Leadville, but by all the cities that would like to have the location. Seattle, Portland and Oakland, Cal., all would like to have the clerk and will fight for it, for its location would be a big thing for any place. The stamp bill for the grand clerk's office alone amounts to $2,000 each month; the telegraph bill is $75, and the other expenses bring the total up to a large figure.

Again, if the office was to be moved and the clerk and the grand guardian placed in the same town, it would be necessary to construct a building for the use of the offices exclusively. The grand clerk has 14 clerks under him, and the volume of business that they handle would make it obligatory on the order to provide a large and convenient place for them.

When the fight does come up, it will in all probability result in a compromise, and some smaller town centrally located will get the offices. In fact, when the matter comes up for final decision it will be greatly influenced by the wishes of the grand clerk and the grand guardian, and if they see fit to choose a smaller place, or one to their minds better adapted to the requirements of the service than those in the fight, it is probable that they can swing the choice to any place that they will. Whether or not Pendleton will have a chance in the fight depends largely on the support the city gives the order here. It has the advantage of having the office of the grand guardian now located here, but unless the support the local order has is loyal and hearty, the prize will slip away to some other place.

FROM CRATER LAKE.

Engineer in Government Employ Stops Over en Route From Southern Oregon to Nebraska.

A. F. Mason, a civil engineer who has been employed by the government in surveying and laying out wagon roads and bridges from the foot of the Cascade Mountains to Crater Lake, stopped over in the city last night en route to his home in Nebraska.

Mr. Mason has spent the summer at the lake, and in the vicinity, and says it is destined to be one of the greatest resorts in the world. The government appropriation of $2,000 for the improvement of the roads to the lake and construction of wagon bridges, has been exhausted, and the work is not yet completed.

The government reserve, including the park and the lake, contains 249 square miles, the lake being in the center of the reserve.

It is 95 miles from Ashland, the nearest railroad point to the lake, and the wagon roads are in bad condition on account of the spring freshets, and the government is now building permanent roads and bridges and will improve the park in other ways.

When Mr. Mason left the lake, on Sunday morning, there were over 700 people camped there, and as he came out to Ashland, he met fully 300 more, going in. The trout planted in the lake some years ago are doing very well, and seem to be multiplying in great numbers.

The dimensions of the lake are seven by eight miles, and the known depth is 2,000 feet, while at some points no bottom has yet been discovered.

A small island containing a dead crater, is situated about two miles from the east shore of the lake. The walls surrounding the lake are almost perpendicular and only one precipitous path down a rugged gorge has yet been found by which tourists can reach the water's edge.

PROSPEROUS UMATILLA.

Pendleton Citizen Recites Some of the Evidences of Thrift.

J. R. Dickson, owner of large property interests in Pendleton, today told a story of prosperity in his hometown, says the Oregon Daily Journal. He is a guest at the Imperial and is en route to the sea coast.

"I am satisfied," said he, "that Pendleton now numbers not less than 6,500 inhabitants, which shows a gain of 2,000 since the last census was taken. The town is growing rapidly and buildings are going up on every hand, both business and residence structures.

"Pendleton is putting in a new sewer system to cost $50,000. The city sold $30,000 of 5 per cent. 20-year bonds to the Women of Woodcraft, receiving from them a premium of $3,000, and in the city treasury was already $17,000 available for that purpose.

"There is not in Pendleton an empty business house or dwelling, and all now being constructed will be occupied as soon as completed.

"We believe that Pendleton rests upon the most solid basis of all Oregon towns outside of Portland. Our varied resources insure regularity of production and steady volume of business all the year around.

"One of the elements of prosperity for Pendleton is the average production in Umatilla county, of which it is the county seat, of 5,000,000 bushels of wheat. One of our local mill-owners, W. S. Byers, bought wheat the other day for 70 cents a bushel, which means wide margins of profits for the producers. Damage done to the crops by unfavorable weather is more than made up in the high price paid for wheat. Looked at from any standpoint, Pendleton and Umatilla county are highly prosperous and certain to sustain it permanently."
