

BABY'S VOICE

Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. How sweet the picture of mother and babe, angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so full of danger and suffering that she looks forward to the hour when she shall feel the exquisite thrill of motherhood with indescribable dread and fear. Every woman should know that the danger, pain and horror of child-birth can be entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, a scientific liniment for external use only, which toughens and renders pliable all the parts, and assists nature in its sublime work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this great crisis in perfect safety and without pain. Sold at $1.00 per bottle by druggists. Our book of priceless value to all women sent free. MOTHER'S FRIEND

DISTILLED WATER ICE

The New York Times has the Following to say in Regard to Ice

"Probably no bacteriological fact is better established than that much of the ice of commerce is dangerously impure. The assumption that water purifies itself in freezing was long ago shown to have but a limited basis in truth. The individual crystals are likely to be purer than the mother liquid from which they are formed; but ice is a mass of crystals in which may be entangled all kinds of impurities."

The germs are not only killed in the process of manufacturing the ice, but the condensed water passes through two coke, two charcoal and one sponge filter, leaving it absolutely pure to go into the cans.

NEW ARCHBISHOP

CONFERRING OF THE PALLIUM UPON FARLEY.

Beautiful and Impressive Ceremony in St. Patrick's Cathedral This Morning—The Laity Were Well Represented in the Proceedings, Which Were Conducted by Mgr. Falconio.

New York, Aug. 12.—The impressive and beautiful ceremonies incident to the conferring of the sacred pallium upon Archbishop Farley by Mgr. Falconio, the papal delegate, took place in St. Patrick's Cathedral this forenoon. The massive and spacious edifice was crowded with persons of prominence in all walks of life.

At 10 o'clock the procession of prelates and priests formed at the archbishop's house and escorted Mgr. Falconio and Archbishop Farley to the cathedral. The procession was headed by censor, cross and banner bearers. The archbishops and bishops were all robed in vestments, and each was accompanied by two priests walking on either side, and followed by train-bearers. The prelates included several archbishops and more than a score of bishops, besides a hundreds of priests from all parts of New York.

Upon arriving at the cathedral, the dignitaries and their attendants marched into the sacred edifice and up the middle aisle to the sanctuary where they assumed their places, Mgr. Falconio and Archbishop Farley occupying the places of honor.

The beautiful and imposing services opened with the votive mass of St. Francis, Bishop McQuaid, of Rochester, then delivered an earnest and eloquent sermon on the historical significance and sacred meaning of the pallium.

Address of Mgr. Falconio.

When Mgr. Falconio arose to confer the sacred pallium the eager interest of all was manifested by the profound silence that prevailed. After paying an eloquent tribute to the lamented Archbishop Corrigan, whom he pronounced one of the staunchest supports of the church in the new world, he addressed himself with evident affection and high personal regard to Archbishop Farley, upon whose broad shoulders he placed the sacred garment as an evidence of the high rank conferred upon him by the church. Archbishop Farley responded feelingly, touching briefly upon the ceremonies of the day.

Before he could give his archiepiscopal benediction to the congregation, which would complete the ceremonial, the masters of ceremony, Fathers Lewis and Hayes, escorted a delegation of prominent citizens, representing the laity and headed by Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, within the sanctuary to deliver an address of congratulation. Similar felicitations on behalf of the clergy were presented by the Rev. James H. McGeen. Interspersed at appropriate intervals throughout the exercises mass was sung by the large and carefully trained choir. The exercises closed at 12:30 p. m. Then the procession of prelates and priests reformed and marched out of the cathedral to the archbishop's residence, where an informal reception was held.

Significance of the Pallium.

The pallium, meaning literally a cloak or mantle, is a band of white lamb's wool, embroidered with purple crosses, and is worn about the neck by the pope and all prelates of archiepiscopal rank, including patriarchs and metropolitans. In former times it was made of purple embroidered linen and was worn by all bishops. It has two pendants, one hanging down the breast and the other down the back of the wearer. The pallium is worn at all times by the pope, but only on solemn occasions by others. It can never be transferred to another person, and it is always buried with the body of the man who wore it during life.

Career of the New Archbishop.

John M. Farley, the new metropolitan of New York, was born in Ireland in 1842. He came to the United States before the civil war and located in New York. He entered St. John's College, Fordham, and was graduated from that institution in 1866. The same year he entered St. Joseph's Provincial Seminary at Troy to study for the priesthood. His proficiency in his studies was so marked that Cardinal McCloskey took an interest in him and sent him to the American College in Rome to complete his theological studies. He was ordained in Rome and on his return to New York was appointed assistant pastor of St. Peter's church, Brighton, S. I.

In 1872 he was chosen to succeed Bishop McNierny as secretary to the cardinal. Subsequently he was made pastor of St. Gabriel's church in East Thirty-seventh street, where his work won high praise from his superiors. In 1886 Monsignor Farley was made a missionary rector, and in the same year was chosen diocesan advisor. In 1892 he was made titular bishop of Zeugma and coadjutor bishop of New York. He was one of the closest friends of the late Archbishop Corrigan. Upon him fell a large share of the administration of the diocesan affairs and it caused no surprise in church circles, but much gratification

GEORGIA MUNICIPALITIES.

League Discussing Problems of City Government.

Macon, Ga., Aug. 12.—The annual convention of the League of Georgia Municipalities, which began here today is one of the best-attended gatherings of its kind ever held in this section of the country. City officials of the leading municipalities of the state were assembled at 10 o'clock this morning when the gathering was formally opened with an address of welcome by Minter Wimberly, city attorney of Macon, to which response was made by Mayor James R. Atwater, of Thomaston. The annual address of the president, Mayor Bridges Smith of Macon, and the report of the secretary, Mayor David J. Bailey, of Griffin, followed.

These formalities concluded the convention took up regular business. Some of the subjects discussed during the day were the importance of municipal courts in preventing crime, the abuses of pauper transportation, municipal ownership, taxation and assessments, light and water rates, and sewers and sanitation. The convention will remain in session through tomorrow.
