Blooded Rams Have Arrived.

The carload of 85 blooded rams recently bought by Charles Cunningham in San Francisco, has reached the city, and the sheep are in the corral at the O. R. & N. stock yards. The bucks are all big, fine fellows, and the best to be found on the coast. After a rest of several days here the flock will be taken to the ranch at Pilot Rock, where they will be turned in with the rest of the sheep on the range.

E. S. Benson, the general auditor of the O. R. & N., was in the city yesterday and left this morning over the Spokane branch for an inspection of that part of the line.

IN THE COUNTY JAIL

TEN PRISONERS WHO ARE AWAITING TRIAL.

Keep the Place Very Neat and Clean and Are a Well Behaved Lot—All Have Been Well Raised and Nearly All Have Local Connections—Find Much Diversion in Singing.

There are 10 prisoners in the county jail at the present time, and the crimes for which the men are held range all the way from simple larceny to highway robbery and horse stealing.

All of the prisoners in the jail are men who have been well raised and who are well connected in this county and in other parts of this and adjacent states. Several of the relatives of the different men in the jail have called on their kinsmen during the past week, and all of them, while sorry that the boys have defied the law, are yet willing to allow the courts to decide the cases and will let the men take the punishment meted out to them, without opposition. If the men, after the example and with the knowledge they have, cannot remain honest the relatives will make no effort to divert the course of justice.

The men, on the other hand, are in the best of spirits and are having as good a time as is possible with the accommodations that are given them in the county hotel. They have practiced together until they sing quite well, and are at it at all times of the day. They seem to know all of the old songs and most of the new ones, and pass from one to the other without pause or thought of connection. Among the men are two or three good voices, and the music that they put out is some of it of good quality and well rendered.

The boys in the jail are all of them cleanly and take pride among themselves in keeping their quarters as clean as possible. The cement floor and the steel cages are as clean as good care will make them, and the whole place is as neat as if there was an experienced housewife at the head of the management.

The jail boasts of a barber shop, and as there are one or two men among the inmates who are handy with a razor and the shears, all of the men are well shaven and shorn all of the time. The shop is situated on the landing of the stairway that leads to the second tier of cells, and consists of a chair and a razor and a pail of water; but the results that are accomplished are as satisfactory as if they had all of the luxuries of a first-class shop.

The kitchen of the jail is in the lower tier of cells, and the prisoners eat off a shelf that runs around the wall. The food is provided ready cooked by the county, and is brought each time from one of the lunch counters by a trusty who makes the trip three times a day. The dishes are the property of the jail and are taken care of by one of the men, who washes them, scours the knives and forks and keeps all in excellent order.

From the outside the men seem to be enjoying themselves, and their talk and laughter echo through the corridors of the jail from day to day. But there are times when the inmates forget themselves and think of the time that is coming when they will have to answer for the slips they have made, and then there is no laughter, and the faces are clouded over with care and pain. But these clouds never come when they are watched by either their comrades, or by one outside the walls. The face they present to the world is one of perpetual smiles. It is in the dark, or in care-less moments that the true face of care shows itself to the world.

Umatilla County Honey.

Nonh Anspach, formerly a wheat raiser near Helix, now located in the Hudson Bay country near the state line, was in town Tuesday with a load of honey, says the Adams Advance. He says that he only has 38 swarms of bees, but that he will get from 800 to 900 pounds of honey this year, or an average of over 20 pounds to the hive. He does not bait his bees at all, but they have the neighboring alfalfa fields to work on, of which there is nearly 500 acres in his immediate vicinity. This acreage will be greatly increased as soon as the irrigation ditch now in course of construction, is completed.

Flemming Was Bound Over.

The case of the State vs. John Flemming was called yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock, and several little boys were examined as to the actions of the defendant. By their testimony Flemming stood guilty in the eyes of the court, and he was held for the next session of the circuit court in the sum of $250, which he could not furnish, and was taken to the county jail to await his trial. Flemming was accused of indecent actions with several little boys near the O. R. & N. railroad bridge, and was arrested on the complaint of the father of one of the boys.
