GOOD SHOES CHEAP.

HAD A FINE TIME.

Mr. Lampkin Returns From a Series of Varied and Valuable Experiences.

Fred Lampkin has returned from Long Beach and Astoria with a coat of tan and many experiences. He caught fish in the water and crabs on the sand, and also visited the queen at her palace in Astoria. The chief thing of interest in Astoria after the queen and the carnival was the sickness of the sidewalk and the steepness of the hills.

George Hartman, Jr. who was with Mr. Lampkin on the trip, will be home tomorrow, having stopped on the way to visit friends and relatives.

In the Fine Hog Business.

C. H. Sampson, well known in this city, has been attending the regatta at Astoria, but is now attempting to charter a vessel to carry him to his ranch on Tillamook Bay where he is interested in the culture of fine hogs and other animals. He will return to this city about the 5th of the coming month.

Dr. and Mrs. Cole Returned.

Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Cole returned this morning from Portland. Dr. Cole was called to The Dalles yesterday to help with an operation for appendicitis at the hospital in that city, and afterward went on to Ranier Station, where he met Mrs. Cole and escorted her home. The children will remain for a few days longer, when Dr. Cole will go for them.

Toilet Daintiness

Who is it that does not appreciate a sweet, delicate odor, especially of the dainty, lasting kind? We have the largest line of imported and domestic perfumes in Eastern Oregon. A few of our leading imported odors are:

- Azurea, La Trefie, Peau d'Espagne, Violette de Parme, Indian Hay.
- And many more of the same quality in bulk as well as in fancy packages.

DWELLINGS NEEDED

GREAT DEMAND FOR ROOMS AND HOUSES.

Real Estate Market Discloses a Need for the Investment of Money in Small Homes—Influx of People From the Country Accentuates the Trouble.

The real estate situation in the city is as badly congested as the public schools, if not more so. According to the statements of the real estate dealers there are not more than two or three houses in the city vacant at this time, and most of them are already contracted for. People are beginning to come into the city from the country for the purpose of sending their children to the public schools this winter, and they can find no houses in which to live, as all of the houses that are held for rent have been taken long ago, and the property owners are not building fast enough to supply the demand.

Several years ago it was the case that a person who rented a house could give up his residence in the spring and go to the coast or the mountains during the summer and be sure of a place in which to live when he returned with his family in the fall. But that time has passed, and now when a person is so fortunate as to find a place that suits him he hangs on to it, and if he wants to go away during the summer for a vacation he pays rent right on during the hot months, whether his family is in town or not. In former years it was sometimes the case that there would be over a hundred vacant houses in the city during the summer, but that time has passed, and now there are a hundred people who are hunting the one house that is held for rent.

Many strangers are coming into the city expecting to remain, and they are having difficulty finding places in which to stop. Rooms as well as houses are at a premium, and rents are getting higher and higher, until the average man has to cramp his limbs in a small house in order not to take the food out of his mouth for rent. It is estimated that if the men of money and property would build a hundred cottages in the city in the next six months that they would all be rented before the foundations had been laid.

MRS. CLARK HAS RETURNED.

Gives a Study in Eastern Conditions—Glad to Be in Pendleton.

Mrs. Anna Clark has returned from the East, where she spent three weeks in New York City and New England. Only one day of that time was spent in actual vacation, and that was at Concord, where she visited the Emerson homestead and haunts.

The major part, in fact nearly all of the time, was devoted to the inspection of the great wholesale markets in the interest of the Peoples Warehouse, and in making a general study and observation of business conditions. Her conclusions do not lead one toward optimism in particular. In fact to a certain extent suspicion and great caution are justified when all the conditions are measured.

Very little of the great concern felt in New York City over the Wall street disturbances of two to five weeks ago has been reflected westward except indirectly. The dominance of the bear influence affected all lines of business in the city very unfavorably, great depression being felt in every industry and great apprehension pervading all lines of legitimate business until a more normal state of affairs got the ascendancy. Such was the extreme concern felt that every business house in the city received three printed bulletins about affairs on "The Street" every day, in addition to the regular issues of the morning and evening papers.

There is more complaint among people in general in the East about the cost of living than ever before. Prices of all "consumables," especially groceries, fruits and vegetables, have gone skyward, trying to catch rents. The cheapest, in fact the only "cheap" necessities to be bought in the Eastern towns now are summer goods, and they are cheap only because the merchants are making desperate efforts to unload before cooler weather begins.

Mrs. Clark was born, raised and educated in New England and has traveled much all over those and the adjacent states, but every one of her semi-annual trips does its full share in confirming and re-establishing her affection for and loyalty to the Northwest, and Oregon especially. She avers that the Northwest is superior to the East climatically, socially, industrially and in every other way calculated to make life desirable. She does not disguise her pleasure at returning, adding that it is not possible for her to consider for a moment ever returning to the East to reside.

SOME STOCK PROBLEMS.

Discussion of Question of Overstocking the Ranges.

A. Baltezare, of Alba, was in the city today on business. Mr. Baltezare is the blacksmith at Alba, and makes frequent trips to this city to get supplies for his business. He says that the hay situation in his part of the country is not what it ought to be, and that there will be some poor cattle when the spring time comes. All of the hay in the vicinity is being bought by the stockmen, and yesterday it was selling for $10 in the stack.

There are more cattle in the country than the feed supply will take care of, and it will either result in the thinning out of the cattle, or the importation of feed. The stockmen are already beginning to raise the standard of their horses and cattle, and in a few years they will carry fewer numbers and better blood on their ranges. However, if all of the land was utilized, many more cattle and horses could be raised in the district than are there at this time, and with the increase of settlement that time is not far distant.

NEARLY SEVEN TONS

PENDELTON MADE ICE SOLD HERE YESTERDAY.

Ross Ice and Cold Storage People Have Put in a Large New Filter—Another Meat Room Has Been Added, and a Local Restaurateur Has Over 3,000 Young Chickens in Cold Storage.

The Ross Ice and Cold Storage plant yesterday sold 13,000 pounds of ice in the city. This month they will have shipped eight carloads from here to other cities, not counting the local trade with Athena, Milton, Helix and the other small towns of the vicinity, which amounts to about three tons a week.

The company has put in another filter in their place, which makes the fifth one installed, so that the water used in the ice they furnish to their patrons is sent through two charcoal and two coke filters, and now it also has to pass through a sponge filter before it goes to the freezing cans. This last filter is placed at the outlet of the reception tank, and is a galvanized cylinder about three feet in height and eight inches in diameter. It has a false, perforated bottom, which is put in about three inches above the real bottom, and the water comes in under this false plate and is forced up through the perforations into the filter, and from that into the pipe that feeds the ice cans. This cylinder is packed full of sponges, and all of the water used in the ice can has to be forced through these sponges before it gets into the cans.

Another meat room has been added by one of the local butchers, and is now full of meat and lard. Gus Lafontaine has also rented a room and is stocking it with spring chicken. He has one side of the room already filled with row after row of trays, all frozen as hard as the proverbial rock, and it is his intention to put in a stock of over 1,000 chickens to keep him in spring chicken all through the winter and until the fresh article can be supplied by the markets again.

In another room is a crate of strawberries that have been in the room for over a month, and they are

The Polish Wonder

Noted Palmist and Clairvoyant in the City.

Count Pulaski, known on both hemispheres as the "Polish Wonder," is in the city, and engaged parlors 1 and 2 at the Strahon Lodging House, No. 618 Main street. This eminent man is a psychic wonder of the 20th century. Testimonials from the press and masses in every walk of life from the old and new world pronounce him as the only true prognosticator of events, and only registered palmist in Germany. This gifted man has read for the highest nobility down to the common European peasants. He speaks seven languages, which he acquired in his travels throughout the world.

Mr. Pulaski is a pleasant gentleman to meet, but that deep, mysterious, penetrable occult eye speaks more eloquently than words can express as to his occult powers.

His personal attracts attention. He is refined and highly educated. Among other things, when asked as to the length of time he intended to remain, he said: "My ardent desire is to teach the occult sciences to some of the bright, intelligent men and women that they may learn to know themselves and others, with application and perseverance they can soon acquire the knowledge of the signs and marks the Creator hath stamped in the hands of man. And if successful in getting pupils, will remain for an indefinite length of time. I will also read for any one who is desirous of being helped. I give advice on all affairs in life that is priceless. I am not to be classed with the would-be, cheap pretenders, palmists who abound in every city and do not know the first rudiments of the science of palmistry."

at this time as sweet and fresh as they were the day they were placed in storage. In fact, there are many wonderful and interesting things at the big plant, not to mention the useful, every day business that is being carried on there.

Will Return to Lehman.

Joe Parks, the real estate man, has come down from Lehman Springs for a few days to look after his business interests. Having cleared up a little here, he will leave again for the springs to join his family for the rest of the summer.

Delegate to Ogden.

G. A. Hartman received a certificate of appointment from Governor Chamberlain this morning as one of the state delegates to the National Irrigation Congress which meets in Ogden from the 15th to the 18th of the coming month.

Returned to Heppner Junction.

Mrs. R. W. Fletcher returned to her home at Heppner Junction, this morning, after a visit at the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fletcher, of this city.

NOT GOOD, NOT HERE

They Lead the Procession

The popularity of Swift's products among all classes is very largely due to the absolutely clean and hygienic conditions under which each carcass is dressed, and the meat and the food products prepared and inspected. This is particularly true of Swift's Premium Ham and Bacon. From the sleek, corn-fed hogs in the pens, the carefully selected hams and bacon in the smokehouse, the final expert inspection by the U. S. government, and, lastly, the dainty wrapping in parchment paper, each step in the evolution of these nutritious and appetizing products is a guarantee that they will always please.
