SITE FOR NEW SCHOOL HOUSE City Has an Option on a Portion of Old Poor Farm The school board of the city schools has secured an option from the county court on the northwest corner of the old county poor farm grounds. The tract consists of six lots fronting on Webb street, and for them the county court askes the tidy sum of $2,000. This is thought to be too much for the lots, as there are several sites offered to the board at a lower figure, that are more centrally located than those of the county. The option holds until Monday, when the matter will be decided.

The people of that part of the city are a long way from the nearest school building, and for some time they have been asking the hoard to some measures to remedy the sufficient to at least partly pay for the land, it is thought best to make the purchase at this time, if the county will sell at a reasonable fig-

Union County Fruit Crop.

Horticultural Commissioner Judd Geer, of the Eastern Oregon district, estimates the Union county fruit crop at 150 carloads this year. The prune crop is excellent, and most of it has been sold to local driers at from $10 to $12 per ton, in the or-chard. The fruit is all healthful and not a Union county consignment has yet been condemned by the commis-sioner on account of any of the usual fruit seeds.

Robert Cronin, Olin Arnspiger, Iter Noil and Mary Rothrock, of the grad-Noil and Mary Rothrock, of the grad-uating class, will pursue their studies at Oregon's estimable university, and will leave for Eugene some time next week. The graduating class all made good records in school work in the public school of this city, and these members will take a finishing course for the purpose of beginning a special professional course later. It is quite likely that Mae Ferryson a special professional course later. It is quite likely that Mae Ferguson, the other member of the graduating class, will attend the high school here again this winter, as there are special studies in the high school which may be taken after graduation in the regular course.

PRIME CATTLE SCARCE.

Buyers Have Combined to Fix Prices to Suit Themselves,

Andy Murdock has been in Altura several days this week looking for beef cattle. He informs us that so far he has made but few purchases, the farmers and ranchmen holding their cattle too high, and that the market will not justify the rates asked in our opinion the trouble rests with the buyers who, we are inasked formed, have effected a combine and have fixed prices to suit themselves. The field is divided between the buy-ers, and each fixes the rates he wal pay It is idle talk about a surplus beef cattle. Everywhere the range is short and prime cattle are scarce But whether the cattlemen can breas the combine remains to be seen, and they, themselves must be their own judges.—Alturas Plaindealer.

Wouldn't Pay 25 Cents Storage and Now Has $140 Judgment Over His Head

Attorney H. F. Connor of the O. R. & N. Company, was in the city yesterday and attended the saie of the contents of the value of the Rev. Joseph Schell, attached to satisfy a judgment for $154.30 in favor of H. H. Hallock, says the Baker City Democrat. The public is familiar with the circumstances in the case, the action of Mr. Schell against the railroad company having been the out-growth of a 25 cent charge for storage on the valise. Mr. Connor. through an agent bid in the contents of the satchel for $10. The articles sold included medicine, tollet arti-cles, a pair of solled socks, a bottle of smelling salts and an ear trumpet. Mr. Connor now owns the collection.

Gibson-Duprat,

At the residence of Mr. Arthur J. Gibson, on Marie street at 7 p.m., September 6, Arthur J. Gibson and Miss Sarah Dupratt were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, Rev. E. B. Jones, pastor of the M. E. Church. South, officiating. The wedding was very quiet and informal, there being present only a few of the past friends and relatives of the confriends and relatives of the contracting parties, Mr. Gibson, Sr., the father of the groom, Mr. T. Swearingen and wife and others. The brue was very becomingly attired, while the groom was dressed in the conven-tional black. The groom has a heautiful home on Marie street, and the young couple start out upon the matrimonial sea with bright prospects for a long and happy voyage. The best wishes of all their many friends go with them.

NOT GOOD, NOT HERE

They Lead the Procession

The popularity of Swift's products among all classes is very largely due to the absolutely clean and bygienic conditions under which each carcaus is dressed, and the meat and the food products prepared and inspected. This is particularly true of Swift's Premium Ham and Bacon. From the sleek, corn-fed hogs in the pens, the carefully selected hams and bacon in the smokehouse, the final expert inspection by the U.S. government, and, lastly, the dainty wrapping in parchment paper, each step in the evolu-tion of these nutritious and appetizing products is a guarantee that they will always please

(Concluded.)

A vigorous idea would scare him death. He cowers under the fear of public opinion, and is afraid to have a mind of his own. It is bet-ter to be a man with an independent mind than to live in Cleveland with millions and millions and have the gout and the dyspepsia on top of it.

"In conclusion, I think that the unions should begin at the bottom in their struggle. It is not the man who puts his fortune in a place for the betterment of the place, with which the unions have strife, for we is the friend of the workingman. But it is the corporation who promises much and gives nothing, all the time taking from the place, that is the foe of the union man. The land syndiof the union man. cate which owns the land and the water and the source of supply is the one that is to be combated, and the way to remedy it to tax the land in proportion to its value. They can hold land if it pays them, but not if it does not give returns for their investment. In the education of the masses and in the downfall of the trusts is the settlement of the ques

Excerpts From Mr. Stillman.

Following the remarks of Mr. Horan, A. D. Stillman, of this city, was introduced. Mr. Stillman would not take the time to speak at all, in view of the excellent orations that had preteded him, if it were not for his wish to voice his appreciation of the honor given him in inviting him to address the people on this occasion. But it was meet that the first celebration of Labor Day held in Pendle ton, where all of the men had start ed in by drawing their daily wage and who still labored with the rest though they were not able, some of them, to give employment to others not yet old in opportunity to achieve

"The oid idea of the right of the few to rule was shattered when the Mayflower landed on the eastern coast. And it was driven out of existence in 1776 and 1812 and received its last blow in '63, when the last menace to organized labor was swept away in the South by the free labor of the North

"It should be the duty of all par-ties and creeds to lead labor to in dependence, so that when a man had striven for his bread by the sweat of his brow for 20 years he could look forward to the time when he would have a home and a fireside and would be able to help those who came after him. To the time when every man and woman who tolis would be a mighty unit in the force of many homestre. of man's humanity to man.

Quotations From Senator Pierce.

Walter M. Pierce was the last speaker, but owing to the time that been taken up by those preced ing, he made but a very short address. He voiced the sentiments of those speaking before. "The trouble of the ages has been the desire of man to gain the control of man. Now one combination holds the timber. another the land and another the lines of transportation, and it is nec essary to combine against them. The merchants are the ones that come between the forces of labor and capital. He was not pessimistic, but optimistic, for now the workingmen are better housed and clothed and fed than ever before; but they must their prosperity be careful and asiderate. Their advancement had considerate. Melbourne ept 7.—A man believed to be a c. ank, was arrested today while trying to gain admittance to might send them backward instead

> The day is coming when the voters of the country will support men, not for reasons of party, but for the quality of the man. They will elect men to the law-making bodies who have been tried in the furnace, and on whom dependency may be placed. Legislators will be chosen for their deeds, and not for their party. When that times comes the laboringmen will have a chance in the halls of congress, and their wrongs will be right ed. To that end all men must work and the sconer it is brought about the sconer will the forces of labor and capital be at peace."

Preached on Labor Issues

Rev. Jonathan Edwards, the pastor of the Congregational church, preached a sermon in harmony with the labor situation yesterday evening in his church. He discussed the question in all of its bearings, and told of the good that would come from the united stand of the good that would come from the united stand of the workingmen. A large number of the laboringmen of the city attended the meeting.
