GOOD SHOES CHEAP.

THOUGHT IT WAS EMPTY.

Then He Pulled the Trigger and the Bullet Passed Through His Foot.

Henry Harrison, of the Younger grocery store, had the misfortune to shoot a hole in his foot while after jack rabbits on his tract of land near Echo yesterday. Mr. Harrison had been after some of the crop of that part of the country and thought that he had emptied his gun in the effort to pot a few of the feet-footed natives. In company with E. M. Lyons, A. Kunkle and Mr. Halligus, of Athens, Mr. Harrison stopped to rest and put the muzzle of his rifle on the toe of his shoe. In some manner he pulled the trigger and the bullet went through his foot between the toes and the instep, and passing through the sole of the shoe buried itself in the sand.

The injured man was carried to the shanty on the place and from there taken to Echo, where he boarded the train and was brought here, where the wound was dressed. While the accident was a painful one, no ill effects are expected to arise from it, and Mr. Harrison will be out again in a short time.

Miss Grace Myers, of Athens, will be operated upon at the Walla Walla hospital for appendicitis today. She is 12 years old.—Walla Walla Union.

A NARROW ESCAPE

MEN CAME OUT OF HORRIBLE WRECK UNINJURED.

Cars Are Smashed, Ground to Pieces and Along With Many Tons of Coal Are Piled in a Great Heap—Two Wrecking Crews Are at Work and May Clear Track by Tonight.

Two wrecking crews are busy at the scene of yesterday afternoon's freight train wreck in Cayuse canyon, and hope to have the track clear in a few hours. Last night when the work was started it was thought that the debris could be cleared away in 10 hours, but it is not done yet and the trains from the west are held here as they come.

The scene of the wreck was one of chaos pure and simple. Seventeen cars had been piled one on the other and their contents strewn along the track, and all jammed in the short distance of 100 yards. There were 15 of the cars loaded with coal and this is piled on the track and spilled over the edge of the right of way down into the river bottom. In the smash-up was one car of fast freight and one of electric conduits. The latter was badly broken up while the former was thrown partly down the embankment and off of the trucks, but was not broken open.

Caused by Broken Flange.

The wreck was caused by a broken flange on the front wheel of the first car back of the engine. The first five cars of the train were steel coal cars and they were followed by a long string of cars also loaded with coal. The first car behind the engine had 47 tons of the fuel on board and the supposition is that when the front flange hit the curve it was not strong enough to stand the strain and gave way, breaking out a piece about eight inches long.

Brakeman George Hurley, who was slightly injured, was sitting on the last of the steel cars on top of the coal when the first car broke loose from the engine and was stood on its end in front of the train. Hurley threw himself flat on the coal of the open car. As he lay there he saw the tops of a couple of cars back of him shoot over his head and the tank cars in front of him turn end over end along the track; then he was mixed up in a cloud of dust and coal and flying trucks and beams and parts of cars. As soon as he struck he got up and started out of the litter but found himself inside of a box car out of which he had to grope his way. How he got inside the car, or what became of the car on which he was riding he does not know, for the steel cars are buried under the wreck or thrown over the edge of the roadbed.

The Tramps Escape.

Ben Wilson, a tramp riding in one of the box cars, was thrown into the brush at the river bottom, and escaped with a few slight bruises. He was inside a loaded coal car, about the middle of the train, and when the crash came his car was thrown partly down the embankment. The impact of the coal against the car broke the front out and the man was thrown out with the coal and down the bank. Before he could pick himself up his car was literally ground to pieces by the train behind.

Two tramps riding on the train just back of the part of the train that was wrecked, thought they had reached Pendleton, and after waiting a long time for the train to start, decided that they had been sidetracked. They crawled out and found that the car in which they were was the first one of the train that had not been wrecked. When the trainmen returned with the wrecking crew, they found the men on one of the wrecked cars bemoaning the fact that they would have to walk to town.

It is thought that by night all trains will be able to pass and that traffic will not be longer delayed.

NO COUNT YET.

John Halley Has the Keys and He Can't Get Back to Town.

John Halley is still out of town, being delayed by the wreck, and as he has the keys the votes for queen of the carnival cannot be polled. As soon as he returns to the city the boxes will be opened and the vote given.

Mr. Wilson has let the contract of billing the interior of the county to R. J. Nixon, who sent three crews out in as many directions this morning. The men were loaded with advertising paper and will advertise the carnival from one end of the country to the other.

CAMERON INJURED.

He is Run Over by a Handcar and Foot is Crushed.

C. A. Cameron, of this city, of the bridge department of the O. R. & N., was thrown from a handcar yesterday at Unity and run over. Owing to the fact that the wires were down at the scene of the wreck, it has not been learned how badly he was injured, but it is reported that his foot and leg were badly crushed. Charles Cameron, Jr., his son, left this morning and will return with his father if he is badly hurt.

NEW MANAGER.

C. J. Koll, of Western Union, Resigns to Go Back to Spokane.

P. J. Nixdorf, of Colfax, is in the city and will take the place of C. J. Koll, of the Western Union Telegraph office. Mr. Nixdorf has been the manager of the Colfax office for some time and will have charge of the local office. Mr. Koll with his family, will return to his old position in Spokane, which he left to come here.

Returned From a Visit.

Mrs. F. A. Campbell has returned from a two-weeks' visit at and around the head of Alkali canyon. Miss Emma Roumagoux returned with her and will make an extended visit. Mrs. Campbell was surprised at the very rapid development of that country—agriculturally and in every other way. Especially is this true of Frank Roumagoux's farm, where there is a splendid orchard and shade trees, and a high state of cultivation everywhere, where 40 years ago the landscape was an alkali desert.

Visits at Athens.

Mrs. Hugh McArthur, of Portland, left for Athens this morning after a visit in this city with her sister, Mrs. W. S. Perry. After a couple of weeks spent in Athens, Mrs. McArthur will return to this city for a time before returning to her home in Portland.

Will Attend University.

Miss Maude Sheridan and Miss Lavelle Moorhouse will leave tomorrow for Seattle, where they will enter the University of Washington for the coming college year.

Mrs. Davis in Hospital.

Mrs. C. P. Davis who has been undergoing treatment in the Walla Walla hospital for the past 10 days, is convalescing and will soon be able to return to her home.

Dr. Lovald, the German commissioner, has obtained a large space in the Transportation Palace at the World's Fair at St. Louis, and the German automobile builders will make a complete exhibit of all their vehicles.

Tree at Walla Walla Planted Over Fifty Years Ago.

The tree planted over 50 years ago by Frank Stone, which was cut down Tuesday afternoon, and whose species was in doubt, is said by several Canadians in Walla Walla who examined the leaves of the dead tree, to be a white ash. Its unusual growth here was commented upon.
