VIOLATING FISH LAW.

Salmon Are Being Caught During Spawning Season, Contrary to the Statutes.

Deputy Fish and Game Warden A. W. Nye is kept busy watching the interests of the state, in preserving the fish of the Umatilla county streams and finds that the law is being flagrantly violated in two distinct ways.

In the first place, the law prohibits the catching of salmon in any stream east of the mouth of the Deschutes river, in any manner except by hook and line, and salmon have been taken in this city recently, with a gaff or "grab" hook. The law further provides that salmon shall not be taken anywhere in any manner during spawning season, and this provision is also being violated.

It is the intention of Mr. Nye to prosecute all cases brought to his attention, and while those who have violated the law may have done so through ignorance, this statement of the provisions of the law is made for the benefit of such persons.

Two cases have been called to the attention of Mr. Nye quite recently. In this city salmon have been taken out of Byers' mill race with a "grab" hook, and one or two cases of the same kind have been reported from Umatilla. The penalty for violation of this law is $50 for the first offense, and special efforts will be made to apprehend all future violators. If the law is not respected the warden will be compelled to make a severe example of some one.

SALMON IN THE RACE.

Large Number Caught When the Water Was Turned Off.

This is the season when the Indians begin to go down the river in search of salmon for their winter supply, but if they only knew it they would not have to travel so far, as there is an abundance of salmon in the mill race here.

Yesterday afternoon the water was turned off for a few minutes and in that time James Hutchinson, Walter Wells and Jack Larson got a pitchfork apiece and speared them from the bank. In a very short time they had caught more than a dozen good big ones, and then the water coming on spoiled their fun and they had to quit.

It is thought that the fish come up the river and pass above the head of the race and when the water is turned off are caught in the shallows.

BOUGHT 600 CATTLE

BELIEVED THAT CATTLE WILL ADVANCE IN PRICE.

Montana Stockmen After Oregon Cattle—Hay, Stubble and Straw All Very High—Feed of All Kinds is Growing Scarce—Heavy Purchase of Steers at 3 Cents and Cows at 2½ Cents.

Robert Koepke and R. J. Boddey, of Athena, were in the city today on their way home from a trip into the interior of the county on a stock buying expedition. Mr. Boddey, in speaking of the stock market, takes an optimistic view of the prevailing conditions. He thinks that the price of beef has fallen about as low as it is going to and that in a short time it will begin to climb again. The stockmen of the lower part of Montana are after cattle, and they have heard that the stock of the Oregon range is getting lower and lower. It will be but a little time until these men begin to come into the market, and when they do they will buy all that the farmer has to sell. This will relieve the present stringency in the feed situation and the conditions will become normal again.

While on his trip Mr. Boddey bought in one bunch of 600 head of Red Durhams at 3 cents a pound for the steers and for the cows he had to pay but 2½ cents. This is about the best buy that has been recorded this season, taking into consideration the kind of cattle and their condition. On a couple of other hands better figures than the above were received, but the grade of the cattle was not so high.

Hay is so high that the average farmer can hardly see the top of a ton. In the lower part of the county it is selling for $9 a ton in the field, and by the time it is baled and put on the cars it costs the buyer at least $16.

Stubble and stack straw is a thing of the past as far as buying is concerned. Now and then a man is able by good luck to find a small patch of stubble or a little bunch of straw, but when he does the stuff is so high that the profits of the feed are all taken away. Mr. Boddey bought four small stacks of straw in the vicinity of his home not long ago, and paid for them $60, and $1 an acre for the stubble. Another man in that part of the county paid $300 for the straw stubble in a field of 160 acres. This shows the price of the fodder on the average, and it is hard to get at that. There is none of it in the county, and feed is growing scarcer and scarcer.

INDIANS IN BEET FIELDS.

Umatilla Braves Are Liked as Beet Pullers by the Grand Ronde Farmers.

Joe Allen, a Umatilla Indian from the reservation, is now in Grand Ronde valley, with a crew of 70 of his people, pulling beets. There are 42 women and 27 boys and men in the crew, and the price paid Mr. Allen, the contractor, is $5 and $6 per acre, according to the nature of the ground to be worked. Allen has a contract to pull and top 300 acres, and will probably finish this area in time to take another larger contract.

The women among the Indians are the best beet pullers, as they are more steady and industrious. The boys and men are always on hand on pay day, but during the week they are to be found out on some smooth country road, running horse races, with the country boys, or lounging around town, where there is a smail of whiskey on the air.

The price paid the individual Indians for pulling beets is 75 cents per day. The farmers like the squaws as beet pullers much better than the Japs, as they are more careful and steady workers. Over 100 Indians will join the crew next week.

A Heavy Rancher.

Charles Isaacs, of McKay creek, was in the city today making preparations for the seeding of his two ranches on McKay creek. Mr. Isaacs has two large farms, one on the upper creek and one on the lower, and he is now ready to seed both of them for the coming harvest. One of the farms is about 20 miles from the city, while the other is not more than five. Mr. Isaacs raises many cattle and as a result his farms are seeded to hay largely.
